KORTON: JAMES BOND AND THE COLLAPSING OF A WORLD

3/26/98 KORTON

Commander Tomeros Maasu Korton here in the Radiant Light of God-Aton. In a world where love and respect for your fellow beings is sorely lacking, we bring Truth in the hopes that it may provide you with the opportunity to look the usurpers of freedom squarely in the eyes and peacefully take back your world.

A NATION DIVIDED

When history looks back at the closing of your century, according to the method you “keep time”, it will mostly chronicle the fall of civilization, as you have known it, by the steady rise of racial strife culminating in the previously unrecorded slaughter of entire continents of people—an act that neither God nor Mother Earth will longer tolerate. Such an unthinkable (except to man) disruption in the natural order of God’s perfect universe will prompt the Hand of Nature to begin cleansing the Living Being that gave you this splendor called PHYSICAL Life.

Earth-Shan has long suffered during man’s evolution through this experience. While his technology has created more efficient ways to snuff-out life, his thirst for blood has caused the highest resources available to him to be channeled in the direction of death. And when such unchecked aggression is focused on the very principle of the continuity of life itself, the very Laws of Creation become the tools of destruction—AND THAT, DEAR ONES, IS WHERE THE LINE IS DRAWN!

MAN HAS NO NOTION OF THE EXTENT OF THE DARKNESS INFUSING THAT WHICH HE IS NOW ABOUT TO DO, NOR ITS CONSEQUENCES IN THE TAPESTRY OF SOULED EXISTENCE. Hence, all the attention your little orb is getting. When God’s people cry out, He hears the call and responds—but it will be through you that assistance will be rendered.

MR. CLINTON IN AFRICA

Your adversary has slated the African continent as the “proving ground” for the extinction of people they deem undesirable. Of course there are ones who may believe that this is an equitable solution to an overpopulated planet, but I have news for those ones who think in such a myopic manner: You’re next on the list! Your evil rulers have envisioned a world that has ninety percent fewer living humans AND ALL CONTINENTS WILL BE DEPOPULATED.

So why is your president visiting Africa? Some on your world might say he is hiding from his attackers (the same attackers you-the-people have to worry about) at home in Washington. Others would voice that it is with the Blacks, a people who have been bitterly used by the adversary to help bring about this global government, with whom he has aligned himself in order to survive.

If so, what affinity has he for choosing this race? For one, it is about time Clinton's Black child, who is a striking likeness to your president, be brought to the forefront.

Since every other accuser—both actual “victims” and orchestrated performers solicited by the Khazarian Jews to bring him down and replace him with Gore, who, by the way, is also Khazarian—is coming out of the woodwork, why not add one who has the best evidence of infidelity? Both mother and child have been conspicuously missing from the media spotlight and I would venture an opinion that, if they were to surface during the racial conflagrations brewing, a new hope for joining together may be sparked by the details of what actually transpired.

But, as always, highly skilled manipulators are in place to make sure the flames of racism are fanned to feverish temperatures whereby no clearheaded thinking is likely. Seeing through to the underlying causes of life's problems goes a long way toward reaching peaceful resolutions to issues of coexistence on a small and overcrowded world.

BRITISH INTELLIGENCE'S KKK

In order for American Blacks to understand the origin of the organized racial assault against them, it is necessary to go back and look at the beginnings of “cults” like the Ku Klux Klan, or relatively more recent ones like the NAACP (a Jewish-Rockefeller creation), designed to be used as tools to further divide God's children through color of skin.

The control exercised covertly by British Intelligence over organizations like the KKK is indicative of a wide range of activities your adversarial elite continually utilize as they situate themselves in all of your seats of power. By using such divide-and-conquer methods, the adversary gains control over governments and nations.

Up until now, America has resisted total takeover by Satan's workers. But the time has come for the evil ones to play their final hand AND IT IS THE AMERICAN PEOPLE AS A WHOLE—NOT JUST THE “BLACK” AMERICANS—WHO WILL SUFFER THE CONSEQUENCES.

Will you allow this race war to happen, even though you have and are being shown what is coming and how it will reveal itself in actual manifestation? Or will you march on and continue to participate in greed of some perceived wealth your adversary has told you is what you should have in order to be considered “equal”?

What of “White” America, you who watch and wait, while not acting or speaking out when you witness what is termed “reverse racism”? Meanwhile, the same satanic elite manipulators tell you, through their theaters and TV monitors, that this is your “just reward” for centuries of mistreatment against this race or that race? Does not common HUMAN decency and justness matter to you anymore? Chelas (students), the “race” issue is the issue that will cost America her life, as the downfall of your nation is already in progress.

This did not accidentally “happen” to you. It is a well-laid trap, planned by an intelligence apparatus that has CONTROL as its original and only goal. It is steadily fulfilling that goal right in front of the entire world—for all to see who have eyes and ears to comprehend what is actually occurring.

Aside from intelligence insiders, how do the masses come by such information? Were there ones who came forward to share these insidious plans? My goodness, yes! They did then, and they do to this day, and will continue to do so until the final trumpet sounds.

However, just as Esu “Jesus” (Greek definition: Anointed) Immanuel had to speak in parables (notwithstanding it is the best method to really learn your lessons, by pondering meaning with reason) so that he would not be killed outright or be accused of sedition while endeavoring to enLIGHTen God’s wayward children, so too do today’s Truthbringers have to obscure certain “unhealthy” facts so as to not end up in the modern version of the lion pit.

IAN FLEMING:
“FICTIONALIZE TO OPEN EYES”

When the late author and former consultant on foreign affairs to the London Sunday Times introduced the world to the fictional spy, James Bond, he was initiating a deaf and unthinking world to the inner workings of the machine that, today, has brought your societies to the brink of total collapse like even the dark ages have never seen.

Dear ones, the secret planners are manipulators of human behavior through subtle (and not so subtle) suggestion for the purposes of allowing you to destroy yourselves through the outward differences of your container bodies. Their focus is never on the common-sense knowledge of facts, such as the similar blood hues or arrangement and appearance of body organs you as human beings share—PROVING YOUR COMMON ORIGINS—but always on the PHYSICAL APPEARANCE for the purposes of exploitation.

Instead of denoting your own special and unique reflection of that ONE LIGHT, where all have the opportunity to choose how they will express that uniqueness, the political instigators of the world seek to create an atmosphere of infighting based upon those outward differences. We of the Hosts are continually saddened by you, our brethren of comparatively pre-kindergarten level, who fall prey to the bullies sent to set the wheels of disharmony and conflict into motion.

And once the schoolyard “fight” has been instigated by the clever promoter (who always has something to gain that is kept from the view of the combatants and frenzied spectators), he can reap the rewards. Be it lunch money, millions of dollars in ringside or “pay-per-view” participants, or the coffers of continents, the rewards can then be used to buy power and influence over everyone else.

All, however, are not fooled by the smooth, fast-talk of promoting a conflict. Whether it be a prize fight featuring a Mike Tyson versus the underdog, or Saddam as a very different underdog against the world favorite (America-Britain-Israel), stunning upsets do happen and always there are those who see it coming and try to alert the masses. In both these examples there was and is foul play and hidden manipulation involved that is not made public.

Beginning in the 1950s and ’60s, millions were fascinated by the fictional exploits of an imaginary British spy. It was Fleming more than anyone else who created the image of the modern “super spy”.

All the Fleming spy stories had two major characteristics in common which made them stand out. For one thing, every story was about a world-shaking situation which was kept secret from the public. The other common ingredient was always a dazzling display of secret high technologies of every description—things unknown to the public.

These two unique features of his stories eventually catapulted Ian Fleming into world-wide fame. He was the undisputed leader in his field. As always happens, many others tried to copy him, and spy stories were all around in the late '60s. But he always remained one of a kind.

Try as they might, none of his imitators could ever match his work. It was as though he had a secret advantage, a secret weapon of his own—which he did.

In writing his stories, Ian Fleming was drawing upon his own secret weapon. That weapon was knowledge. Fleming had been a high-ranking officer of Britain's crack Intelligence agency called MI-6. It was the British who practically invented and perfected the modern concept of Intelligence, and to this day British Intelligence remains the equal of any in the world.

When Fleming “left” Her Majesty's Secret Service (You never really leave any intelligence service; it's like your mafia organizations—once a member, always a member.) to become a writer, he was severely limited in what he could publish. He was bound by the restrictions of the British “Official Secrets Act”. (The same restrictions that prevent the MANY in England who know the facts of Diana and Dodi's murder from presenting proof of same.) Under that Act, Fleming would have been liable for punishment for revealing any official secret without authorization. And so Ian Fleming became what is known as a “fictionalizer”—that is, he started with factual knowledge but rearranged and modified it in order to create startling stories of fiction.

He was always extremely careful about how he did this. He always knew that he was skirting the fringes of the Official Secrets Act. He could not afford to make a mistake, because it would have meant prison for him and possible forfeiture of pension rights; and so he always altered every situation, every secret technology, and every personality enough to avoid revealing actual secrets.

It was a long and meticulous process, both to protect himself and to make each final story readable. For that reason Fleming completed a new James Bond novel only about once a year. If it had all been imagination, as many people believe, he would have been capable of producing a new book every few months, making himself far richer. But because his stories were all rooted in fact—secret fact—he did not dare speed up and run the risk of making a mistake.

Ian Fleming had two purposes in writing his famous series of spy novels. One purpose, of course, was to earn a very comfortable living; but beyond that, he was also trying to subtly open the eyes of the reading public through the medium of fiction.

Because of the Official Secrets Act, he could not publish the facts that he knew as fact without modification, so he did what he felt was the next best thing—use his stories to open your minds to at least think in terms which were otherwise hidden from you. Fleming truly believed that this was something which somehow had to be done because, knowing what he knew, he was not an optimistic man.

A PUBLIC AWAKENING

More than four decades ago he could see that the public was beginning to be left behind by secret new weapons, new technologies, and new techniques to enslave the unsuspecting masses. A public awakening was the only hope he could see to prevent eventual disaster. And so, beginning in the early 1950s, Fleming started writing exciting fiction in order to hint at secret facts.

His plan was a simple and direct approach: “fictionalize to open eyes”. By the early 1960s, the one-man campaign of Ian Fleming was starting to gather steam. His fictional hero, James Bond, started gaining popularity in ever-wider circles.

Even though his exploits were understood to be fiction, people were beginning to think of possibilities which had never occurred to them before. Soon the famous James Bond movies were in the works.

After years of gradual growth, the power of Ian Fleming’s fiction was about to explode into a world-wide craze. Countless millions were on the verge of being encouraged to think unthinkable thoughts about what goes on in secret. Simply by encouraging people to think new thoughts for themselves, Ian Fleming was endangering secret plans of very powerful men—and he almost got away with it because they were slow to realize what he was doing.

But just as the James Bond craze was beginning, Ian Fleming’s plan was brought to an end. On August 12, 1964, Ian Fleming died an untimely death at age 56.

By making you expand your thinking, Ian Fleming had posed a real danger to secret long-range plans of a powerful few. And even after he was removed from the scene, his fictional efforts to awaken you could not be stopped overnight.

The momentum of public interest was just too great because he had caught the imagination of millions upon millions. The James Bond phenomenon could not be stopped, and so the other choice was to control it.

Experts in propaganda and public deception studied the problem and quickly hit on the solution. Fleming’s plan had been “fictionalize to open eyes”. He wanted to make you see possibilities which were being hidden from you otherwise.

But with him out of the way, the new plan became “fictionalize to close eyes”. It was a plan to make secrets more secure than ever by making the truth unbelievable to you. This technique of blinding you through fiction has been a major factor on the American scene now for 33 years.

A perfect example of all of this took place with a book Fleming published in 1959. It was titled GOLDFINGER.

The starting point for the book was, as usual, knowledge about certain secrets. Fleming knew that there was a long-range plan to create monetary chaos for private gain and power. He also knew that a central feature of the plan was to be the secret disappearance of America's monetary gold hoard at Fort Knox. He knew that the kingpin of this international plot was a man with legendary greed for gold. His name: DAVID ROCKEFELLER.

It was a plan that was totally unsuspected by the public. Remember, it was still the Eisenhower era—the heyday of the so-called “almighty dollar”. The dollar was labeled “good as gold”, because it was backed by the world's largest known monetary gold hoard. Fort Knox was thought to be impregnable; and in those days, chelas, no one dared speak ill of the four Rockefeller brothers.

Ian Fleming decided to write a book that would begin to alert people to what was afoot. He could not tell the whole story, nor tell it as fact because of the Official Secrets Act. But, by fictionalizing, he was able to cause people to think of possibilities which would never have occurred to them otherwise.

For example, in the 1950s it was a rare American who considered even the possibility of monetary turmoil. The dollar was “good as gold”, and that was that. Why even think about gold?

Individual citizens could not own it except in jewelry. (Did you forget the details about that un~~Constitutional~~ confiscation? If you did, don't worry, its coming again.) Wasn't all the rest of it thought to be sealed-up in Fort Knox?

Everyone “knew” that nobody could get in there, and so you didn't even think about it. But in his book, Goldfinger, Fleming brought several key thoughts to your minds. He devised a fictional scheme to show that Fort Knox might not be impregnable after all. He raised the question: “What would happen to the dollar and other currencies if the Fort Knox gold were no longer available?” And he proposed the unthinkable thought that someone, if they were rich enough and greedy enough, might want to get their hands on America's gold.

The actual Goldfinger story, of course, was fiction; yet the basic points which I have just mentioned were fact.

Goldfinger was published in 1959. Barely two years later, in 1961, the hemorrhaging of America's monetary gold supply began. Agents of David Rockefeller within the U.S. Government provided a cloak of authority called the “London Gold Pool Agreement”. What do you mean, you never heard of that?!

For seven years, until 1968, big Army trucks loaded with gold bullion rolled out of Fort Knox constantly—all without a word to the public! SINCE THAT TIME, YOUR NAVY AND AIR FORCE HAVE REMOVED THE REMAINDER. ALL THAT IS LEFT ARE FOOD COUPONS TO FEED THE STARVING MASSES WHO ARE LEFT ALIVE WHEN ALL THIS (AND THE REVOLUTION AND SUBSEQUENT QUELLING OF IT WITH UNMERCIFUL FORCE) BECOMES PUBLIC AND YOU IN THE U.S. REALIZE YOU HAVE BEEN FORECLOSED UPON BY THE BRITISH-ISRAEL CROWN AND HER EQUALLY EVIL AND CLEVER ROTHSCHILD BANKSTER PARTNERS AT THE “ROUND TABLE”.

Some of the gold shipments during those seven years were recorded on a list kept by the U.S. Mint. Almost without exception the listed shipments went to the New York Assay Office, where they disappeared without any further accounting.

As you may recall, the New York Assay Office was the focus of a scandal in December of 1978 involving missing gold. Over 5,000 ounces had simply disappeared; but that was a very small tip of a very large iceberg. And so the controversy over the missing millions in gold at the New York Assay Office was quickly smoothed over and covered up.

They could not afford to allow any real investigation which might let the public know the truth. According to the official list of shipments mentioned earlier, a large fraction of America's monetary gold went to the New York Assay Office in the 1960s. There it disappeared, never to be seen again.

So who has it now? The same anti-Christ moneychangers who have been reincarnating since the beginning.

It was their tool then, and now "the love of money (gold)" has become the very means to bring down an entire planet. When you were told that gold had a luster and a power of its own, I would imagine you had no notion of just HOW powerful of an illusion it would ultimately become. I assure you, however, it was not lost on the traditional hoarders of that precious metal.

THERE WAS AMPLE EVIDENCE

Long ago there was hard evidence of many large gold shipments from Fort Knox which were not even listed. A specific example of this was a shipment on January 20, 1965, in which four tractor-trailers were loaded at Fort Knox and then headed for railroad tracks across the river at Jeffersonville, Indiana. Your own intelligence sources provided details, including photographs, of the operation. But the shipment was one of many which did not show on any official Government list of shipments.

In June of 1975, Mr. Edward Durell and other associates were able to confront officials of the U.S. Mint with this example of missing shipments, and for once the confrontation took place under circumstances in which the Mint was under great pressure to respond.

In the most specific terms, the Bureau of the Mint was asked what was shipped out of Fort Knox in the four tractor-trailers on January 20, 1965. The written answer, dated June 19, 1975, came from the then-Director of the U.S. Mint, Mrs. Mary Brooks. She confirmed that this unlisted shipment amounted to more than one-and-three-quarter million ounces of gold—and, my friends, this was not junk gold melted down from old coins (which were confiscated from the American people in 1934). The shipment was part of America's true monetary gold, good delivery gold which is .995 fine or better in assay.

After this ADMISSION IN WRITING about an enormous secret shipment of gold out of Fort Knox, one would have thought that there would be fireworks. But not so!

Mr. Durell showered the appropriate officials throughout the Government with this evidence of massive fraud at Fort Knox and, as well, he notified the major media and all of the appropriate leaders in Congress about this evidence. One of these "leaders" was Senator William Proxmire of Wisconsin, former chairman of the Senate Banking Committee.

Proxmire loved to parade as a great defender of your financial interests in Washington. He was famous for handing out, with great public-news-conference flourish, his “Golden Fleece Award”. Proxmire would search through the Federal Budget with a fine-tooth comb, and he was always able to find some project or contract which rightly or wrongly will look ridiculous to the public.

He then trots it out, announces how much it costs, and with a great and dramatic show of disdain, gives it his Golden Fleece Award. By this and other means, Proxmire was a master at maintaining his image as a protector of the American economy.

But if ever a situation deserved the Proxmire Golden Fleece Award, it is the FORT KNOX GOLD SCANDAL. The petty examples usually chosen by Proxmire fleeced the American public out of perhaps hundreds of thousands or a few million dollars. It makes good publicity for Proxmire, but it is insignificant by true theft standards.

The Fort Knox Gold Scandal is fleecing every one of you out of the shirt on your back. It has undermined the dollar itself, which is on its way to destruction.

(Actually, that ship, I’m sorry to say, has sailed!! Your adversary is just waiting for the appropriate moment to let you in on this “little secret” concerning your worthless monetary system. However, the rest of the economic world already knows it; but, as with “the emperor’s new clothes”, instead of telling it to you like it is, your trade-and-barter buddy nations just shake their heads and snicker in utter amazement at your shortsightedness.)

This bold maneuver has set off ever-worsening inflation, even while your economy is stagnating. The Gold Scandal fleeced you all, but what did Senator William Proxmire do about that?

For years Proxmire had been among the top American leaders who have been kept informed about major developments and evidence in the Gold Scandal. He had been given the evidence about the missing shipment from Fort Knox, as well as other evidence of major discrepancies. And yet, since that time, Proxmire kept his lips sealed about discrepancies about America’s gold supply—with one exception. That exception took place in December of 1978.

Word had leaked out about the more than 5,000 missing ounces of gold at the New York Assay Office. As the then Chairman of the Senate Banking Committee, Proxmire immediately jumped on the story. Frowning in disapproval, he proclaimed that this would have to be looked into. Hearing those words from the champion of the Golden Fleece Award, the public relaxed and quickly forgot about it. And almost as quickly, Senator William Proxmire made sure he forgot about it too. To this day, no real investigation has ever taken place over the missing gold at the New York Assay Office.

Proxmire’s failure to follow up on that gold discrepancy was bad enough, but it is nothing compared to his apparent disinterest in investigating the truth about the Fort Knox gold scandal. The case of the missing Fort Knox shipment is a case in point. At today’s prices, that one shipment alone was worth more than half a billion dollars! And that was only one RECORDED portion of the most massive monetary theft in the short history of your United States of America.

There were many unreported shipments like that. That is why the Treasury figures, which show a huge remaining American gold hoard, are a total fraud. And that's why the United States could auction off only a small amount of junk gold over a period of time and then had to stop. Is it any wonder why the U.S. dollar is no longer "as good as gold"? Instead, it is now worth less than the paper upon which it is printed.

Senator William Proxmire, like many others trusted by the American public, had been given massive evidence about all of this. However, his actions have helped only those who have taken your gold in order to fleece you of everything you think you own.

BACK TO FLEMING'S ABORTED EFFORTS

I want to finish the story of Ian Fleming's attempts to alert the public about events like these. As already explained, his principle was "fictionalize to open eyes". After being "taken out" in 1964, his stories were "adjusted" to try to accomplish the opposite purpose. The new purpose became "fictionalize to CLOSE eyes".

Nothing could be done to alter and neutralize Fleming's books once they had been published. So, instead, attention was drawn away from the books to the James Bond movies. And, as the movies were in preparation, disinformation agents were planted on the scene to guide the process.

One film, however, did manage to retain enough of Fleming's realism to portray—even today, with the engineered biological threats and genocidal shenanigans of your One Worlders—a chilling image of what goes on behind closed doors and atop mountaintop hideaways.

The 1969 film called On Her Majesty's Secret Service portrays the pairing THROUGH BLOOD MARRIAGE (in true elitist fashion) high-level organized crime, a whitewashed embodiment of your global elite factions, together with what is supposed to be your topnotch anti-terrorist and paramilitary protectors.

A partnership of the two opposing Secret Orders makes for strange bedfellows indeed. Granted, many of those who volunteered for service at one time believed they were doing it for King/Queen/President and country. However, those pulling the strings have only greed and power as their "noble" causes, and so public cover-up must continue.

As a result, the James Bond who emerged on film was a very different character from the one in Fleming's novels. The basic story lines remained the same, but in many subtle ways the psychology was radically changed. The movies retained the adventure, fast action, dazzling secret technologies, and bold plots which Fleming had pioneered. But by clever use of satirical humor, every James Bond movie ended up by laughing at itself. Secret weapons were exaggerated or twisted so as to make them entertaining but also ridiculous. And by filling the movies with strange characters and never-ending gimmicks, viewers were distracted from the underlying informational warnings of the basic plot.

The Goldfinger story was a perfect example of all this. Fleming's original novel called attention to something which most readers would never have thought about otherwise. That was the potential relationship between Fort Knox gold and international monetary chaos, and through his fictional plot he also planted the idea that the legendary Fort Knox bullion depository might not be invulnerable after all.

But these lessons were rarely, if ever, realized by those who saw only the movie; instead, the typical viewer walked out of the movie laughing. It was obvious that what he had seen could happen only in fiction, and from that point onward he was programmed to react with disbelief if he should ever hear of tampering with Fort Knox gold. Such a thing could only be fiction—it was just too outlandish to ever really happen.

AFRICA'S DOWNFALL FACILITATED THROUGH THE PRICE OF GOLD AND NELSON MANDELA

The British Crown made plans to use America's gold in an unseen role, beginning in Zaire, to help facilitate the turmoil that is to come in a "prosperous Africa". The release of Nelson Mandela from prison launched the start of that precious nation's downfall through the planned astronomical rise, and then dramatic fall, of the price of gold.

Why is he playing with the Soviet elite and contributing to the downfall of his own nation? Did he really have a choice? Might one not give in to very human options when being of limited physical strength and offered what is left of one's life after decades of confinement? The man did what he thought he had to do.

Do I somehow condone his past or current role? No more than Sir George Bush of Her Majesty's treasonous secret service, and certainly not more than Bush's fellow agent, provocateur Heinz Stern, aka Sir Henry Kissinger.

(Sir Henry also has the distinction of being a Soviet KGB agent whose code name was "Boar", and seeing that he was to soon serve in the highest national security and state positions in your U.S., it indeed looks as if the foxes invaded the henhouse many, many years ago in your counting. Thus, when these elite shenanigans seem so convoluted and hard to believe and completely "fictional", always keep uppermost in your minds that evil has had a staggering "head start" to conspire over you ones now awakening to what your world has become—BY DESIGN.)

Mr. Mandela's partnership with the communist aspect of Russia is part of his agreement to steer South Africa to her new destiny—a destiny fraught with ever worsening bloodshed and turmoil, COURTESY OF THE ELITE'S NEW WORLD ORDER GLOBAL INTELLIGENCE COMMUNITY. He is to bring about such results for purposes of submission and control. Then Africa's vast national resources are to become a nice feather in the cap of the ones divvying up captured global assets.

Is Winnie Mandela part and parcel to the evil shadow eclipsing the so-called dark continent? Let's just say she has enough to worry about regarding trials from the families of all those who were killed during HER "reign". Moreover, like with another soon-to-be-former first lady named Hillary, Winnie's britches got too big for her role as supportive wife turned dictatress.

Women, more and more, are playing an active role in Satan's traditionally male-dominated pillage-and-plunder drama. Regardless of Evil utilizing male or female puppets to usher in the final portions of this New World Order, labeled Global 2000, the outcome will be the same.

Whether in Africa or the United States or wherever—the “reasons” that individual ones in service to Evil may give you as to WHY they are doing their darkly motivated deeds are not so important as are the ACTIONS of the entire dragon—not just one or two of its many heads.

The difference between someone of Fleming’s standing and his counterparts in the U.S. is that you in the U.S. do not yet have quite an Official Secrets Act like that of Britain. Thus patriotic (not your latest “dirty” word: patriot) citizens who come by Truth do not have to fictionalize; they can share the real plans and the real names of those responsible for the things that are brought upon you.

NOTHING IS AS IT SEEMS TO BE

You are in a world where nothing presented to you by your controllers is as it seems to be. Everything in your society that you look to for protection and dissemination of information—vital to your survival and education—is carefully filtered and adjusted toward a goal of deceit by those who would enslave you.

You are being spoon-fed poison, literally. All the while your commercial advertisements sell all kinds of “poisons” to you, including programming you to believe that your life should be just one big merry “fun in the Sun” time, with well-tanned bodies, and they use this “beautiful people” image as a hook for proclaiming “this is the way to get yours”—that is, to acquire every avenue of MATERIAL success.

Well, dear ones, God already gave you wondrous and beautiful bodies (of all shapes and sizes and colors) for you to responsibly maintain and keep fully functional. Why? So that you may better serve Him through the development and sharing of the unique gifts YOU bring to this “party” called life.

And as for “getting yours”, if you continue believing blindly and without thought that which is touted through your controlled media, you very well may get yours. But I promise you, it will more likely be skin cancer and the poor house, not that mansion on Easy Street you expect to pay for by IRAs, Social Security funds, or state-sanctioned investment strategies—especially those tied directly or indirectly to your beguiled stock markets.

Those “safety nets”, plus others such as Medicare and Welfare—superficial good intentions aside—have been set up to snare the masses at the appointed hour. What better way to throw a nation into a state of compliant disarray, ripe for “emergency interventions”, than to induce your dependence upon “Big Brother” and then take that crutch away from you all of a sudden!

Then why all the pronouncements and promises of a securable and exuberant financial future trumpeted by the politicians? It’s simply another facet of the dragon’s appearance. As long as you-the-people believe the facade of a government-supplied safety net as things go from bad to worse—while placing self-reliance on the back burner due to the clever media-driven propaganda toward “fun in the Sun” complacency—then you are in for a rude awakening!

WONDER DRUGS HIT THE AIRWAVES

Have you ones noticed the barrage of new drug commercials on your TV and radio airwaves? The drugs in question have very frightening side affects, which are scarcely mentioned, that seem to be WORSE than the condition the drugs are supposed to cure. Your adversary is out to CONTROL a world, and you in the U.S. are all that is standing in their way. Free thinkers that you are—lied to and ill-informed, yes—you are still a danger to the “masterminds” seeking to enslave you. The new drugs are there to help to get you into a brain-numbing stupor, prior to pushing total takeover and enslavement.

It worked in Christian Russia during the Bolshevik Revolution by adding rat poison (fluorides) to the water supply, plunging that country into decades of Satanic rule under the banner of a “Soviet Union”. Do you not think those same anti-God Bolsheviks, who now run your own government, are averse to using a similar method on you? My Goodness, chelas, the heinous chemicals and technologies you have developed since then have the capability of wiping out not only humans, but all life on your planet!

Most ones are seeking “good health” in all the wrong places. When you go within FIRST, God will guide you to do that which will maintain a healthy functioning body. Good health, by the way, is usually the very last thing for which you wish when petitioning God to bestow his merciful “gifts” upon you. I probably do not have to tell you that money is usually always at the top of the list.

The knowledge and factual information that We of the Hosts bring you is not to cause fear and trepidation, but hopefully a sense of personal security. When that long tunnel, which has been wallpapered with lies and misinformation, is illuminated by the Wisdom of Divine Light, fear will give way to clarity of purpose and direction.

In God-Aton’s kingdom there is only Love and Light. All else is an illusion manufactured by man in a limited-awareness focus of physical expression. As long as you allow the negative emotion of fear to rule your every thought, there is not room enough to allow God’s Whisper to bring you comfort and inner guidance.

How do you separate the lies from the Truth? When all the cards are played, and evil is exposed for that which it is, all that is necessary for those in service to God of Light to do is to use the gift of Reason and the “right path” will be revealed unto you. However, you cannot use Reason effectively if you have no valid experiential bases for understanding the differences between “good” and “evil”. So, availing yourselves of ALL resources that provide an opportunity to honestly KNOW, is that “secret” (and sacred) element you ones have been searching for, lo these many eons.

Do you know what it is that you are looking for and where it is that you want to go? If YOU don’t know, how should God help you? The gift of Free Will also means it is YOUR choice, not God’s, as to how you will experience life this time around. The Way is ever illuminated by the Wisdom of our Creator. Wise are those who perceive and acknowledge this illumination, and thus know The Way. And always, We of God’s Hosts stand ready to assist when called upon.

Learn about God-Aton in as much as it will help you to wisely follow the way home that has the least resistance, though, if you be of limited learning experience, you may not perceive it as such. The river of Truth and Life can be a terrible obstacle if you are misdirected and are paddling for all you’re worth—against the current, out of ignorance.

May God always be sought BEFORE you venture along the next segment of your physical journey. The guiding “star light” of the Phoenix is as readily available as a sign today as it was two thousand years ago in your counting when it acted as “the star in the east” guiding the wise men to Bethlehem. Do not forget your ‘heavenly’ beginnings.

Thank you, my scribe, for your service to Aton and His Hosts. Tomeros Maasu Korton to clear, please. Salu.

TRUE STORY—REASON NOT TO PARTY ANY MORE!

From THE AMERICAN'S BULLETIN, courtesy Jeff Taylor, April 1998: [quoting]

This story came from the Daily Texan—the University of Texas newspaper. apparently it occurred during Fall Premier—a UT tradition that is a celebration of the end of midterms. “Reason to not party anymore”: This guy went out last Saturday night to a party. He was having a good time, had a couple of beers and some girl seemed to like him and invited him to go to another party. He quickly agreed and decided to go along with her. She took him to a party in some apartment and they continued to drink, and even got involved with some other drugs (unknown which). The next thing he knew, he woke up completely naked in a bathtub filled with ice. He was still feeling the effects of the drugs, but looked around to see he was alone. He looked down at his chest, which had “CALL 911 OR YOU WILL DIE” written on it in lipstick.

He saw a phone was on a stand next to the tub, so he picked it up and dialed. He explained to the EMS operator what the situation was and that he didn't know where he was, what he took, or why he was really calling.

She advised him to get out of the tub. He did, and she asked him to look himself over in the mirror. He did, and appeared normal, so she told him to check his back. He did, only to find two 9-inch slits on his lower back. She told him to get back in the tub immediately, and they sent a rescue team over. Apparently, after being examined, he found out more of what had happened. His kidneys were stolen. They are worth 10,000 dollars each on the black market. (I was unaware this even existed.) Several guesses are in order: The second party was a sham, the people involved had to be at least medical students, and it was not just recreational drugs he was given. Regardless, he is currently in the hospital on life support, awaiting a spare kidney. The University of Texas in conjunction with Baylor University Medical Centre is conducting tissue research to match the sophomore student with a donor. I wish to warn you about a new crime ring that is targeting business travelers.

This ring is well organized, well funded, has very skilled personnel, and is currently in most major cities and recently very active in New Orleans. The crime begins when a business traveler goes to a lounge for a drink at the end of the work day. A person in the bar walks up as they sit alone and offers to buy them a drink. The last thing the traveler remembers until they wake up in a hotel room bath tub, their body submerged to their neck in ice, is sipping that drink. There is a note taped to the wall instructing them not to move and to call 911.

A phone is on a small table next to the bathtub for them to call. The business traveler calls 911—who have become quite familiar with this crime. The business traveler is instructed by the 911 operator to very slowly and carefully reach behind them and feel if there is a tube protruding from their lower back. The business traveler finds the tube and answers, “Yes.” The 911 operator tells them to remain still, having already sent paramedics to help. The operator knows that both of the business traveler’s kidneys have been harvested. This is not a scam or out of a science-fiction novel, it is real. It is documented and confirmable. If you travel or someone close to you travels, please be careful. Sadly, this is very true. My husband is a Houston Firefighter/EMT and they have received alerts regarding this crime ring. It is to be taken very seriously. The daughter of a friend of a fellow firefighter had this happen to her. Skilled doctors are performing these crimes! (Which, by the way have been highly noted in the Las Vegas area.) Additionally, the military has received alerts regarding this. This story blew me away. I really want as many people to see this as possible so please bounce this to whoever you can.

Is this not one of the scariest things you have ever heard of? PLEASE forward this to everyone you know.

STATE TO CROSS LINE WITH FINES VIA PHOTO-RADAR

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 4/17/98: [quoting]

Motorists are about to be fleeced by a network of automated highway robbery at intersections throughout California under legislation that could go to the governor’s desk as early as Monday.

Senate Bill 1136, now pending on the Assembly floor with bipartisan support, authorizes the permanent use of split-second photographic devices to issue tickets to every vehicle that crosses the limit line at an intersection—even by a few inches—once the light has changed.

Last year, the Legislature raised the fine for running a red light to a whopping $271, and allowed companies that make photographic ticketing systems to get a cut of every traffic ticket they produce. Combined, these laws create a relentless diabolical money machine for government and its private-sector friends.

One company, U.S. Public Technologies in San Diego, “donates” the equipment in return for the lion’s share of the take, assuring big profits for the company—up 30 percent last year—and the rapid proliferation of “photo-red” tickets.

A unit already in operation in Los Angeles is writing up to 100 tickets per day at one intersection—that’s $27,000 of gross revenue daily. A Maryland official installed photo-red at two intersections last month. “We don’t want to make money on this,” he explained. “We want to stop people running red lights.” Yeah, right.

True, they catch the scofflaws who brazenly race through the intersection while innocent drivers must swerve out of the way. And they've got it coming.

But how about the busy mom who misjudges the yellow light by a fraction of a second? Do we really want to take her grocery money for the next month? How about the elderly gentleman driving his wife to the doctor who hesitates for a moment and harmlessly crosses the limit line by a few inches before he stops? Do we really want to take a third of his next Social Security check? Or the harried college student, whose split-second decision causes her to continue through the intersection a moment after the light changes rather than slam on her brakes and risk being rearended? Do we really want to take away half of her book money for the semester? The traffic officer can tell the difference between a reckless act and a harmless misjudgment. The camera can't.

Rapacious governments around the world have begun installing automated equipment to boost traffic citation revenues. Each time, citizens are told that this is a public-safety effort to make the streets safer. Yet, in Australia, more than 80 percent of the tickets were issued not to incorrigible scofflaws but to common folks who received one or fewer tickets per year. In Calgary, Canada, the number of photo-radar tickets skyrocketed more than five-fold in a period of three years.

According to a 1996 exposé on the Canadian experience with photo-radar for speeders, "In Ontario, photo-radar was installed on the province's busiest freeway. Once the revenue started rolling in by the millions, plans were made to extend the system to other roads. At first, radar guns set off the cameras when they spotted a car going well over the speed limit. Within weeks, the operators discovered that they could generate more revenue with the turn of a knob, and the tolerance was turned down (to 62 miles per hour)."

Californians are now just one vote of the Assembly away from the same future. If experience is any indicator, average Californians who have never had a ticket in their lives will soon look with dread to their mailboxes, wondering if there is another $271 fine they can't afford from a photo taken at an intersection they don't even remember being at.

But there is one silver lining.

In Ontario, voter outrage over these abuses wiped out the provincial government's liberal majority in the next election. The first act of Ontario's new conservative majority was to junk the province's automated highway robbers.

Assemblyman Tom McClintock, R-Granada Hills, represents the 38th Assembly District in the California Legislature. Readers can write to him at his local office at 10727 White Oak Ave., Suite 124, Granada Hills, CA 91344. [End quoting]

Even though this pertains to California, don't forget, "as goes California so goes the nation" is a quite common happening. I'd highly recommend that you flood the state legislature of this state and your states before this is installed in your area also. This is one of the most blatant examples of HIGHWAY ROBBERY!!

WHITE HOUSE ROCKED BY SECRET
PREDICTION FROM FINANCIAL EXPERTS

From WEEKLY WORLD NEWS, 1/20/98: [quoting]

Washington—The world economy is on the verge of a total collapse that will leave banks in total ruin, currency worthless—and millions of homeless and starving people in the streets.

But even more frightening is the massive panic that is beginning even now—the panic that will soon cause formerly law-abiding citizens to turn on one another in a violent, desperate scramble for food and other necessities!

Already, millions are stockpiling food, medicine, clothing and even water in an attempt to survive the coming nightmare that will strike with full force this coming April.

This terrifying disclosure comes from a concerned group of the world's top economists, who say they're declaring publicly what all the world's governments have been trying to cover up.

“This crisis will make the Great Depression of the 1930s look mild by comparison,” said noted economist and top financial expert Thomas Van Durman.

Van Durman is one of three American members of an international group of 22 experts who have joined together to study possible solutions to the problem.

“The Great Depression was one of the darkest periods in American history. Banks closed, the market collapsed and once-wealthy people were left suddenly penniless.

“But the coming disaster—that has already begun to show itself in subtle ways—will completely cripple every nation in the world. Overnight, folding money will become worthless pieces of paper, banks will shut down and at least a billion people will be without food and shelter.

“But the worst aspect of all this is the panic that is beginning among the people who can see what's taking place.

“The panic has spread to the neighboring European countries of France, Italy, Austria and Germany. And some people in the United States have already begun taking refuge in well-stocked mountain cabins.”

But Van Durman says we're only seeing the tip of the iceberg.

“Right now, the ones who are aware of what's going on are acting out of fear,” he says.

“But that's nothing compared to what will happen in April, when everybody in the world will feel the sting of poverty.

“Soon, people will be shooting one another over crusts of bread.

The White House has been rocked by the news, as have the governments of every nation in the world. But they refuse to inform the public, hoping against hope that something can be done in time.

“I pray we can find a solution before April.” [End quoting]

It won't be wise to discount this if it doesn't happen in April because one of the main tricks of the elite is to yell “fire” a few times before they actually do something drastic to get you to ignore their plans, and then when you least expect it—WHAMO—they've gotcha AGAIN!!

JAPAN ECONOMY ALARM

From THE MODESTO BEE, 4/11/98: [quoting]

Japan's economic situation is severe and the country already may have slipped into recession, a senior economic official from the Economic Planning Agency said Friday. Shimpei Nukaya, administrative vice minister of the EPA acknowledged the economy is in an unprecedented slump. “I wouldn't deny the possibility that the economy may have entered a period of recession sometime last year,” Nukaya said. [End quoting]

All of Asia is in real financial troubles and you can see how it is affecting us by watching how fast our monthly trade deficits are climbing—which indicates that we aren't able to sell our products overseas. But we are still buying theirs. This in turn is causing mass layoffs in our industries—not well covered by our controlled news. SOON something is going to give and we are not going to like it!!

FOODS LOADED WITH ALCOHOL

From THE MODESTO BEE, courtesy of Claire Melgen, 4/5/98: [quoting]

“Someone is putting brandy in your bonbons, Grand Marnier in your breakfast jam, Kahlua in your ice cream, Scotch in your mustard and Wild Turkey in your cake. Americans may be drinking fewer alcoholic beverages, but they are certainly eating more of them than ever before. Wittingly or unwittingly.” [End quoting]

You might wonder why this is done. Hatonn's writings in the past week have covered the methods the “Jews” used to take over the alcoholic drink industry many decades ago—but the worst part is the chemicals—poisons—that they have added to these drinks. For those who normally don't use alcoholic drinks they are dosing you through your foods. They are determined you're not going to escape their nets.

TOO MUCH ACCOMMODATION

Excerpted from the INTERNET, courtesy of John Ray, 3/28/98: [quoting]

...Ten students then sued under the ADA [Americans with Disabilities Act]. In August, U.S. District Court Judge Patti Saris ruled that the university had discriminated against the students by changing the rules that applied to them without proper notice and due process. But the court upheld the math requirements of the liberal arts degree; it has yet to rule on whether the foreign-language requirements violate the ADA.

The question becomes: When does accommodation become capitulation?

No professional institution should have to water-down its substantive degree requirements because some students can't meet them. Isn't that the whole point of the credential? It declares that the graduate has successfully completed a course of study that not everyone could. The idea that being really bad in a subject qualifies one to be waived on through it is the ultimate reductio ad absurdum.

Nowhere is this more ridiculous than in the multiple claims by law students for extra or unlimited time on their Bar exams.

After Marilyn Bartlett failed the New York State bar exam three times, she requested special accommodations. Bartlett claimed she "suffers from a learning disability that impairs her reading and her ability to be able to work as a lawyer"; therefore, she would need unlimited time, a private room and an assistant to record her answers. When her requests were rejected, she successfully sued the New York State Board of Law Examiners under the ADA. The federal judge found Bartlett was able to prove her disabilities and granted her the test-taking accommodations.

Huh? She has a disability that directly affects her ability to practice law so the court orders an alteration of the bar exam, the very test that's designed to weed out those people who lack the facility to be a lawyer.

It won't matter to Bartlett's future clients whether her deficiency is due to personal motivation or organic causes. They will be relying on the fact that she passed the Bar as a signal that she can perform to professional standards—even though her disability doesn't allow that.

An appeal is pending, but the same issue has arisen in a class action suit filed in California by Robert Mueller on behalf of all learning-disabled law school graduates. His suit claims the California committee of Bar examiners has violated the ADA for refusing to give him double time to take the test to compensate for his dyslexia.

Sorry, but reading well is an important part of being a lawyer. Not every learning-disabled person is going to be able to achieve every academic and professional goal to which he or she has aspired. Any law that demands otherwise has abandoned common sense. [End quoting]

Now the attorneys can not only rip you off legally, moneywise, but don't even need to pass normal mental qualifications to do it—but then gangsters and robbers were never required to have anything between the ears.

TAXES: DO YOU CHEAT?

From THE DAILY NEWS, Los Angeles, 4/15/98: [quoting]

You cheated a little on your taxes, right? Join the club.

As millions of Americans prepare to drop their tax returns in the mail tonight—11th-hour filers make up perhaps one-fifth of the 174 million taxpayers—there are mounting questions about just how much fibbing is going on.

While there are no official data, a number of economists and tax preparers say that tax cheating is on the rise. And paradoxically, the government trusts ordinary wage earners far less than it does wealthier people who earn significant income from selling investments at a profit.

Since 1994, in fact, affluent taxpayers have had powerful incentives to cheat on capital-gains taxes, but Congress has begun no research or enforcement initiatives to make sure those taxes are properly paid. [End quoting]

I don't think the government thinks the little guy "cheats" more than the wealthier taxpayer—not one little bit. It's far more likely that they pick on the ordinary wage earner because the wealthy taxpayers can afford to fight the IRS bullies or they have friends in the government to make payoffs to.

We all know from childhood that gangsters and bullies pick on the relatively defenseless people.

Furthermore what right do the biggest cheaters in the world—the IRS—have to accuse a person, who doesn't VOLUNTEER more tax payments, a cheater? Anybody who can understand the Constitution knows the IRS is an ILLEGAL extortion arm of the Fed.

GOVERNMENT VIOLENCE IS "LEGITIMATE"?

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Teri York, 3/27/98: [quoting]

The Deputy Attorney General of California commented at a conference that anyone who attacks the State, even verbally, becomes a revolutionary and an enemy by definition. Louis Guiffreds, who was head of FEMA, stated that "legitimate violence is integral to our form of government, for it is from this source that we can continue to purge our weaknesses".

It is significant to note that the dictionary definition of terrorism—"the calculated use of violence"—corresponds precisely to the government's stated policy of "the use of legitimate violence". One might ask, who are the real terrorists? Guiffreda's remark gives a revealing insight into the thinking of those who have been charged with oversight of the welfare of the citizens in this country. If one's convictions or philosophy does not correspond with the government's agenda, that individual may find himself on the government's enemy list. This makes him a "target" to be "purged" by the use of "legitimate violence".

If one forgets the past, he will not be prepared for the future.

Does this help clear your mind about Oklahoma City, Waco, New York World Trade Center, Ruby Ridge, the many assassinations, the many downed airliners, etc.?

MICHAEL NEW & SUPREME COURT

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Rick Martin, 3/31/98: [quoting]

The Supreme Court today, in a one-sentence message, denied the writ of certiorari filed by Attys. Mike Farris and Herb Titus on behalf of Army Specialist Michael New [who balked at donning UN uniform].

This writ was a request that the higher court order the Federal Court of Appeals to hear the case. The Court of Appeals had denied Michael New a hearing on the merits of the case last November, arguing that they have no jurisdiction.

The next step is the Army Court of Criminal Appeals, meeting in Falls Church, Virginia on 28 May. The Army has already filed its brief, in which they will tell the judges that this case is “non-justiciable”, in the military courts. (Which means that THEY have no jurisdiction!) This will not be a hearing open to the public.

If the ACCA agrees with the Pentagon, and they are expected to do so, then we will be witness to an American citizen-soldier who has been ex-patriated, stripped of his legal protection by both civilian and military courts, forced out from under the umbrella of the legal protections provided in the Constitution.

This government is moving perilously close to the position of declaring, in effect, that the Constitution does not apply because it has been rendered irrelevant by treaties, by an activist judiciary, and by a spineless Congress more interested in re-election than in doing what they took an oath to do.

Can a government FORCE a citizen, to whom it guarantees “freedom of religion”, to serve in a foreign military capacity under an anti-Christian, unelected, anti-American United Nations military? Can a Christian, or anyone for that matter, be legally required to serve two masters? The implications are staggering.

Yes, you have suspected it all along. The awkwardness of their position is that none of them want to admit it, because it can radically change the way Americans view this “New, Improved State”. Where does a citizen appeal, when stripped of legal protection by both military and civilian courts? Under what courts can SPC Michael New find justice? The Hague? We don’t think so! Well, there is still Congress, there is still the Court of Public Opinion, and there is still a merciful and just Judge of the Universe, in Whom we believe, in Whom the Founders believed, but in Whom the current rulers do not believe. We are confident in that position. Faith and Obedience to God is the most dangerous thing in the world to Tyrants. <<http://www.mikenew.com>>.

PENNY-SIZED CD

From POPULAR SCIENCE magazine, May 1998: [quoting]

Stephen Chou wants to shrink the size of your CD and video collection. At one-thousandth the size of a regular CD, his nano-CD could replace 30 of your music CDs with room to spare, he says. With 800 times the capacity of a standard CD, the nano-CD could revolutionize data-storage methods. “You can put all the information you need on a penny-sized CD,” Chou says.

Chou, an electrical-engineering professor at the University of Minnesota, has developed discs that can store 400GB of information, instead of the 650MB on a regular CD and 4.7GB on a DVD. “Our density is 100 times higher than the best DVD,” Chou states.

Before the CD is created, a data mold of microscopic grooves is fashioned. The mold is then stamped onto a softened, penny-sized polymer. The bits of data, recorded as tiny pits in the molding, are stored in grooves. The data bits are 10 nano-meters (or billionths of a meter) wide and 40 nanometers apart.

To read the information on the nano-CD, Chou developed a tiny silicon needle. “The needle itself is vibrating. When you put it closer to the disc, the atomic interaction between the disc and the needle changes the vibration frequency of the needle. By interpreting this change, a computer can read the topography of the disc,” Chou explains. An actual player, which would probably employ voice-recognition software in its operating system, still needs to be built.

CDs can currently hold 10 minutes of high-quality video. DVDs hold 133 minutes per side, and Chou’s penny-sized CD could hold 5 hours worth of video. —Christopher Miller [End quoting]

To give you some comprehension of what this amount of information actually is, consider that one of the Phoenix Journals that we publish is approximately one half of a megabyte of information—then this penny-sized disk would hold—believe-it-or-not—1 million and forty thousand of our journals. But, I have no doubt that the elite have information storage devices far in advance of even this.

'THE JEWS OF ASIA
IN THE FIRESTORM'

The Chinese Minority Hunkers Down

Excerpted from THE WORLD PRESS REVIEW, 4/98: [quoting]

A Ming, a Jakarta taxi driver who was 19 in 1965, remembers walking through “pools of blood” in Glodok, Jakarta’s Chinatown. For three days he lived in hiding after seeing two members of his family “killed by the crowds with stones and knives”. Since the 1960s, Suharto’s regime has closed down all the Chinese schools. It is illegal to speak Chinese in public, and publications in Chinese are banned. One does not see a single Chinese character in Glodok.

The Chinese community (sometimes called “the Jews of Asia”) [emphasis mine] constitutes less than 5 percent of Indonesia’s population of 200 million, but controls most of the economy (70 percent, according to some estimates). Envy among the pribumis (native Indonesians) is whetted by the fact that the wealthier Chinese, who have lived in these islands for several generations, have forged very close ties with the Suharto family. They did so, of course, for business reasons, but also because persecuted minorities everywhere seek the protection of the powerful. For additional protection, some ethnic Chinese have given up their Chinese names, and some have even converted to Islam.

Indonesia’s Chinese have always served as a scapegoat for the crowds and the government. “I would not be surprised,” says a Muslim official of the Islamic Association Nahdlatul Ulama, “if the government, caught in the whirlwind of the social, economic, and political crisis, were to look for ways of channeling popular dissatisfaction in that direction.”

In mid-January, the spokesman for the army, General Wahah Mokodongan, publicly stigmatized Chinese “tycoons” by saying that 13 of them had refused to participate in the national “I Love the Rupiah” campaign. “Considering all the profits they have piled up while the economy was stable,” the general said, “it would be only fair for them [the Chinese] to be in the lead.... It would be even better if they donated their dollars.” That inflammatory remark was echoed by the official press agency Antara and by the official television networks, and was broadcast by radio stations all the next day. DEMOCRATS WANT STATE PARTIES
TO ADOPT GAY QUOTAS

From MIDDLE AMERICAN NEWS, March 1998: [quoting]

The Democratic National Committee has taken the first step in elevating homosexuals to the same “protected” status as Blacks, women and other minorities in its party functions.

In January, the DNC gave preliminary approval to a rule that would force each state party to develop an “outreach” plan to ensure that openly homosexual delegates will be sent to the Democratic convention in 2000.

Those who opposed the action because it would reinforce a perception of catering to special interests were repudiated by DNC leaders, who claimed that homosexual and minority outreach efforts have strengthened the party.

Gary Shay of Los Angeles, the homosexual DNC member who introduced the resolution, praised its passage by the rules, bylaws and executive committees as “another example of the Democratic party’s commitment to equal opportunity and the full inclusion of lesbians and gay men in the affairs at the local, state and national level.”

Former White House aide Harold Ickes, who has since returned to help Clinton fight accusations of sexual improprieties and obstruction of justice, strongly supported the change. DNC Chairperson Steve Grossman also pushed for the new rule.

Additionally, the party is considering official recognition of the DNC Gay and Lesbian American Caucus, giving it the same status as the African American, Woman’s and Latino caucuses.

At least 146 admitted homosexuals served as delegates to the party's 1996 convention, accounting for about three percent of the total.

The full Democratic National Committee will take a final and binding vote on the outreach measure at its May meeting. [End quoting]

Will there next be quotas for other special-interest groups?

OUR LEADER

From THE MODESTO BEE, letter to editor, 4/4/98: [quoting]

In cautioning the newly elected president of my sixth grade class about a misbehavior, I asked if he thought his actions were befitting his office and was his behavior “presidential”. Sadly, it struck me that “presidential behavior” has taken on connotations I am uncomfortable holding up to my students as a model for personal conduct. —Pamela S. Youngdale [End quoting]

The president's private life really doesn't affect the country does it—when you have to be awfully careful what you say while you are teaching when you use that word?? WAKE UP AMERICA—even the word president has a sour note to it now!!

UNIONS WIN, FARMERS LOSE

From MIDDLE AMERICAN NEWS, March 1998: [quoting]

Thousands of farmers are suffering huge losses following a rail dispute. An estimated hundred million tons of grain are rotting in the West and Midwest because the newly merged Union Pacific and Southern Pacific railroads can't get it to market. Federal officials refused to allow small, short-line railroads to move the grain because, says a Department of Agriculture source, the smaller lines are non-union. [End quoting]

It doesn't appear to me that this is accidental or coincidental. What better way to destroy the world's food crops? Remember, the ones who control the food supply control the slaves—US. Will we wake up before we starve to death??

JUDICIAL DISTEMPER

From MIDDLE AMERICAN NEWS, March 1998: [quoting]

If published reports are true, the first Black woman nominated to sit on the U.S. District Court in Philadelphia has the manners of a pig. As a city judge, federal nominee Frederica Massiah-Jackson once told prosecutor Barbara McDermott arguing in her courtroom, “Ms. McDermott, will you shut your f—ing mouth?” Philadelphia District Attorney Lynne Abraham, usually silent about judicial nominees, warned that Massiah-Jackson's service on the bench thus far is “replete with instances of leniency toward criminals, an adversarial attitude toward police and a hostile attitude toward prosecutors.” No doubt she will be confirmed by Congress without delay. She's backed by the state's powerful GOP Sen. Arlen Specter and the left-wing American Bar Association. [End quoting]

WHO GUARDS THE GUARDIANS?

From MIDDLE AMERICAN NEWS, March 1998: [quoting]

People who think only police can be trusted with guns may wish to reconsider. In what officials call the nation’s largest and widest-ranging probe of police corruption, 44 police officers from five law-enforcement agencies were arrested on charges they took money to protect cocaine trafficking in Ohio. The arrests followed a two-and-a-half-year federal sting operation during which investigators also discovered that a large ring of police and sheriff’s deputies hired themselves out as escorts and security guards for drug dealers. “What we’re seeing,” said one investigator, “is cops as criminals engaging in very significant violence to support their criminal goals.” [End quoting]

There are—on a percentage basis—probably more good people on the inside of the prison bars than those who apprehend them, legally advise them, sentence them and stand guard over them.

STILL THINK IT’S A “FREE COUNTRY”?

From MIDDLE AMERICAN NEWS, March 1998: [quoting]

You’d better watch your step in the new multicultural America. Jokes you make in the privacy of your own home can get you fired and pilloried in the corporate press. If you don’t believe it, just ask University of Florida President John Lombardi. He was told to resign for what the media called “a racial remark about a colleague”. At a Christmas party at his home on Dec. 16, Lombardi, who is White, jokingly referred to an associate who is Black, as an “oreo” because of his ability to work well with both Whites and Blacks. Within days, Lombardi was smeared in the press, and the Board of Regents called for Lombardi’s blood. They got it; Lombardi’s written apology wasn’t enough to save his job, according to Associated Press. [End quoting]

Another major sign of the times.

“I’LL NEVER SAY I’M SORRY”

From GUIDEPOSTS, March 1998, P.O. Box 1479, Carmel, NY 10512: [quoting]

I rode my bay, Czar, into the corral and dismounted. Mercedes, my German Shepherd, trotted behind. It was the week before Thanksgiving and I had just ridden in after two months in the rugged Montana back-country. I was tired and cold, I needed a hot bath, and I couldn’t wait to get home and see my husband, Daryl, the next morning.

But first there were chores to do. I work for a ranch that offers horse-pack trips and game hunts in the Bob Marshall Wilderness. Six months out of the year I tented in the forested hills, living a rugged life. My days began at about four in the morning and included cooking for 12-to-15 campers, chopping wood, clearing trails and fending off the occasional grizzly. I loved it, but now that this trip was over I was looking forward to some time off.

“Who’s supposed to meet us?” I asked the mule skinner, who had brought out his mules to help me haul the camp gear back to the ranch.

“Becky.”

My stomach dove.

“It had to be her, huh?” I said. The mule skinner just snorted.

Becky definitely rubbed me the wrong way. The wilderness crew had dubbed her “drill sergeant” because she was always giving orders. She had been in charge of purchasing for the ranch for the past couple of years, and invariably she ignored the grocery lists I gave her. From day one she had seemed bossy and rude, acting as if she knew what was best, though it was the rest of us out there in the woods working. I held a real grudge against the woman.

Now, when I could actually use her, Becky was nowhere to be seen. I unloaded the mules, then unsaddled and turned out the horses. It was dark by the time Mercedes and I got to the ranch house. I heard Becky barking orders as soon as I walked in.

“Hi, Rebecca,” she greeted me. “You need to get the grocery boxes unpacked. The dishes and kettles need to be washed and brought downstairs. The skunk is back in the barn, so make double sure there isn’t any food left out where he can get at it.”

I wanted to shout, Look, I know what has to be done because I’ve been doing it for fifteen years! I’m the one who just packed up a camp and rode twenty-four miles across ice and snow while you’ve been sitting inside on your duff! Instead I growled, “Hello, Becky,” and pushed past her.

Later, after dinner, I went into the kitchen to help the boss finish washing the dishes. “I’m glad you’re here, Rebecca,” she said. “We need to talk. A couple of days ago I asked Becky to move some gear you left behind.”

“And?” I asked, wondering what she was driving at.

“Well, Rebecca, she came across your journal and read some of it.”

“Becky read my personal journal?”

“You had some pretty rough stuff in there about her. I think you need to apologize to Becky for saying she’s selfish and unpleasant to work with.”

“Apologize!?”

“Becky was real shook up. I don’t want bad blood between you two.”

I was speechless. I stared at my boss for a moment, then stomped out into the night. Becky should apologize to me for invading my privacy, I raged. I’ll never say I’m sorry. Everything I wrote was true, and she had no right to read it!

I decided to pack up my gear right then so I could head for home first thing in the morning and avoid speaking to Becky. I jumped into my station wagon, then let Mercedes in the passenger side. “C’mon, girl. It’s time for us to move on.” We roared down the road to the barn, where I had my gear. The day had begun with such promise. But now, only a few hours back in “civilization”, I felt nothing but anger and a seething sense of betrayal. The only bad blood around here, I thought as I pulled up to the barn, is Becky’s.

While I heaved my stuff into the wagon Mercedes followed her nose, exploring. Just as I finished loading the gear I caught a sharp whiff of the skunk Becky had warned me about. Time to git.

I slammed the wagon’s hatch down and called Mercedes. The air was turning positively blue from that dratted skunk. Mercedes jumped nimbly in the passenger side. “Good girl.” I leaned over, pulled the door closed behind her and peeled out of there. But the skunk smell only got stronger. Mercedes was squirming and rubbing her muzzle against the seat. I reached over and felt her face. Wet. Then I sniffed my hand.

Jamming on the brakes, I leaped out and screamed, “Mercedes, get out of the car!” She’d been sprayed! I yanked the door open and repeated my command, only to have Mercedes cock her head and stare at me questioningly with her big liquid eyes: Me? Finally I dragged her out. “Sorry, you’re walking.” I drove the last hundred yards to the ranch house with all the windows down.

I never scrubbed as much as I did that night, until my skin was practically raw. I dreaded the three-hour drive home in the morning in my skunky car with my skunky dog (whom I’d sent outside to sleep). Daryl will be real glad to see me now.

I was so riled up I could have spit. Crawling into bed bone-tired but wide awake, I thought, I’m getting used to the way I smell but not to the way I feel. Still, I wasn’t about to apologize to that snoop Becky. I would rather wrestle a grizzly. She got what she asked for, just like Mercedes got sprayed when she stuck her fool nose where it didn’t belong.

Suddenly it dawned on me, Lord, am I the skunk in this situation? Becky had invaded my privacy, no doubt about it. But hadn’t my resentment polluted our relationship all along, like some terrible lingering odor? I had spent a lot of time and energy carrying my grudge, and I had rarely missed an opportunity to put in a bad word about Becky. The words I had written in my journal had festered there. I had hurt her with them.

Lying in bed staring at the ceiling, I felt mean and small. Lord, I prayed, I see now that I can’t run away from this problem. Please help me work things out with Becky.

I awoke to a bright, cold Montana morning. Golden sunlight capped the Rocky Mountain peaks. I didn't smell much better than when I went to bed, but I certainly felt better. After another shower and a quick breakfast I sat down with Becky in front of the ranch's huge fieldstone fireplace.

"I'm not going to tell you what I wrote in my journal wasn't what I really felt," I said. "My journal is my private property, Becky, and I never dreamed anyone would read it." Becky shifted uneasily and looked away, gazing into the fire.

"I've held a grudge against you for some time," I continued, in a quiet, steady voice I hoped wouldn't betray my nervousness. "I haven't always been very nice, and that's wrong of me. After what happened, the last thing I expected was that I'd be asking you for forgiveness. But I love my job and I don't want to ruin it by resenting you for the way you do yours. I want you to know I'm sorry."

When Becky finally turned to me a thick tear dropped onto the knee of her stiff new jeans. "Rebecca," she said softly, "I thought you wanted my job."

I couldn't contain my amazement. "Your job? All I want to do is ride my horse in the mountains!"

"It's just that you have so much more experience," Becky said, sniffing, "and everyone looks up to you. The crew thinks you're the best. I can imagine what they must think of me . . ." Her shoulders started shaking, and before I knew it I had my arms around her. It's hard to hold on to a grudge when you're holding on to the person, I realized. I felt the bitterness flow out of me like a river.

We spent half the morning in front of the fire, straightening things out and really getting to know each other for the first time. The more we talked, the more of the wall I had built between us came down. When I had my gear ready and was saying my goodbyes, Becky gave me a great big bear hug. She didn't even seem to mind the stink of skunk.

Mercedes and I kept the windows down all the way home. It was cold, and tears streamed down my face as the wind whipped across my cheeks. I didn't care, though. The Lord had given me a nudge I wouldn't soon forget—and I felt utterly refreshed. [End quoting]

CHAPTER 3

MIND-CONTROL EXPERTS: TAVISTOCK'S PROFOUND INFLUENCE ON AMERICA

Dr. John Coleman 4/98

TAVISTOCK

The Tavistock Institute for Human Relations is situated in London and on the grounds of Sussex University, England, where most of its research facilities are located. Tavistock remains as important today as it was when I first revealed its existence. I have been accused of having been a part of Tavistock because I worked in close proximity to Tavistock's Sussex facility, and know so much about the way it works (because I had a set of its training manuals).

Most of Tavistock's more recent activities have had, and are still having, a profound influence upon the way we live in America, and upon our political institutions. Tavistock is behind the pro-abortion publicity, the proliferation of drugs, sodomy and lesbianism, and the fierce attack on family tradition.

I happen to know for a fact that Tavistock aided in preparing the "abortion brief" that was subsequently presented to the Supreme Court in 1973, as an original work, when in fact, it was merely a recital of what Madam Kollontei, the founder of the "women's liberation" movement and "free love" Socialists' leading light, had written in her book, a diatribe against the sanctity of marriage and the family as the most important social unit in Christian countries. Kollontei, of course, took her "feminism" straight from the pages of the Communist Manifesto of 1848.

Tavistock remains the mother of all research facilities connected with behavior modifications, opinion-making and shaping of political events. Especially here in the United States, it has powerful affiliations with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT), Stanford Research, Esalen Institute, the Wharton School of Economics, Hudson Institute, Kissinger Associates, Duke University, Rand Institute, Georgetown University, the State of California and many more institutions we have come to think of as wholly American.

Rand Research and Development Corporation, under the tutelage of Tavistock has had a profound influence on so many institutions and segments of our society, that to truly put all this evil organization has accomplished down on paper, would take a 2000-page book. As one of the principal research institutions directly controlled by Tavistock, Rand runs our ICBM program, does prime analyses for U.S. foreign-policy makers, advises on nuclear policies, does hundreds of projects for the C.I.A. in the field of mind control. Some of Rand's clients include AT&T, Chase Manhattan Bank, the U.S. Air Force, the U.S. Department of Energy and I.B.M. Rand is one of the major Tavistock-controlled institutions in the world, working on brainwashing at all levels, including government, military, religious organizations. (The Anglican Church's Desmond Tutu was one of Rand's projects.)

Take another example, Georgetown University, perhaps one of the top institutions of higher learning in America. Starting in 1938, the entire structure of Georgetown was made over by Tavistock, all of its learning formats and programs altered to suit a blueprint drawn up by Tavistock's "brain trust".

This has had great significance for U.S. policies, especially in the area of foreign relations. Without exception, United States State Department field officers are trained at Georgetown. Some of Georgetown's (Tavistock) better known graduates were Richard Armitage and Henry Kissinger. It would take a month of Sundays to relate just how much damage these two members of John Rawlings Reese's invisible army have done to the well-being of our country.

There is mounting evidence of increased input into our intelligence agencies by Tavistock. When we think of intelligence in the U.S., we generally think of the CIA or Division Five of the FBI. But there are a great many other intelligence agencies receiving instruction from Tavistock. These include the Defense Department Intelligence, the National Reconnaissance Office, the Treasury intelligence service, the State Department intelligence service, the Drug Enforcement Agency and at least ten others.

How and when did Tavistock begin its career? As I said in my 1979/1983 work, when we think of Tavistock we automatically think of its founder, Major John Rawlings Reese of the British Army. Up until 1983, there were very few people in Britain outside of intelligence circles, who knew of the existence of Tavistock, let alone what was being done at its facilities in London and Sussex.

As far as America is concerned, hardly anyone in the country outside of closed government intelligence circles knew of it at all, and then only in a vague way. My work on how Tavistock controls U.S. polices, changed all that. In looking through Tavistock documents, I found that in 1921, Reese was commissioned to begin his project by the director of Special Intelligence Service (SIS).

Tavistock provided services of a sinister nature to those people we find in every city across this land; people who have local and state government officials and police departments in the palm of their hand. This is the case in every major American city also, where the Illuminati members of Freemasonry use their secret powers of control to walk all over the Bill of Rights, intimidating and brutalizing innocent citizens at will.

Where are the statesmen who once made this country great? What we have in their place are lawmakers who do not enforce the laws they make, and who are terrified to correct the obvious wrongs that abound on every hand—afraid, because if they obeyed their oath of office, they might find themselves without a job. They are also lawmakers who do not have even the vaguest idea of what Constitutional law is, and they neither know nor seem to care. As a result, anarchy prevails in Washington.

It may well come as a shock to most candidates who run for the House and Senate that each and every one of them is carefully checked and profiled by the behavior modification scientists at Tavistock, or one or more of its affiliates in the U.S. Any candidate who is pliable to suggestions and found to be easy to control is "puffed". I could name at least 100 such individuals, but it would put me in jeopardy if I did.

Suffice to say that a spirit of unconstitutional lawlessness pertains in the Congress, which is why we are insulted by such measures as the "Brady" bill and the Feinstein "assault weapons" bill. "Assault weapons" does not appear anywhere in the Constitution and it is therefore a prohibition. Feinstein's "law" looks suspiciously like the work of the Tavistock Institute; the Constitution being the supreme law of the land, such "gun control" laws are null and void.

Any candidate who is not going to be easy to control or who does not fit the Tavistock profiles is ushered out. In this, the print and electronic media—under Tavistock’s direction, or of its affiliates—plays a key role. Let the voter beware, let the public beware. Our election process has become a farce, thanks to the work done by Tavistock in controlling the thoughts and ideas of the people of this nation by means of “inner-directional conditioning” and “long-distance penetration” of which the mind-control science of polling is an integral part.

Tavistock serves the Black Nobility and all of its elements working to rob us of the victory of the American Revolution of 1776. If the reader is unfamiliar with the Black Nobility, I have a monograph on the subject which is very explicit. Of course, the term does not refer to Black people. On the international front, as well as in areas of those institutions in the U.S. who decide foreign policy, Tavistock does psychological profiles at all levels of government, as well as intruding into private life on a truly vast scale.

Tavistock developed profiles and programs for the Club of Rome, the Cini Foundation, the Rockefeller Foundation, the Bilderbergers, the CFR and the Trilateral Commission, the Ditchley Foundation, the Bank of International Settlements, the I.M.F. the United Nations and the World Bank. This is by no means a complete list of international institutions in the hands of Tavistock planners.

The propaganda barrage that preceded the Bush Gulf War, was based around a psychological profile of huge population groups in the U.S. done by Tavistock. The results were passed on to the OPINION-MAKERS, also known as “advertising agencies” on Madison Avenue.

So effective was this propaganda that within two weeks, people who didn’t even know where Iraq was on the map, let alone who its leaders were, began to shout and clamor for war against “a dictator who threatens America’s interests.” Frightening? YES, but unfortunately 100-percent true. The very words “GULF CRISIS” were crafted by Tavistock Institute to arouse maximum support for the Bush war on behalf of a Committee of 300 flagship company, British Petroleum (BP).

We now know—at least some of us know—just what a big role Tavistock plays when it comes to creating public opinion based on obfuscation, lies, dissembling, misrepresentation and outright fraud. There isn’t any other institution in the world that can hold a candle to the Tavistock Institute for Human Relations. Quoting from my 1984 report:

“There are a few institutions and publishing businesses who are catching on to the changes that are occurring. The latest issue of Esquire magazine carries an article entitled ‘Discovering America’. Esquire does not mention Tavistock by name, but this is what it had to say: ‘During the social revolution (a very significant phrase) of the 70s, most of the rituals and personal interaction and the institutional life were radically altered. Naturally, these changes have affected the way we perceive the future...The economic base of America is changing and new services and products are being offered.’”

The article then went on to state that our professional lives, our leisure time, our educational systems are being altered, and more importantly, the thinking of our children is being altered. The writer of the Esquire article concluded: “America is being transformed as is the direction it will take in the future... Occasionally our new American section (promised for future editions of Esquire), won’t seem so new, since most of the new thinking has been creeping into the main stream of American life, but until now, it has gone unnoticed.’”

“Why Graft Thrives in Postconflict Zones I could not have given a more fitting description of the fallacy “time changes things”. Nothing changes on its own, all changes are engineered, whether in secret or in public. While Esquire didn’t say who is responsible for the changes, it talked for the most part about unwanted changes that We, the People, attempted to resist. Esquire is not alone in its contention. Millions of American are living in total ignorance of the forces shaping our future. They are unaware that America is being thoroughly bamboozled. The worst part of it is that these millions, because of Tavistock conditioning (making Americans think in the way Tavistock would have them think), no longer seem to care. They have been “Inner Conditioned” through “Long-Range Penetration”—the master control plan set up by Tavistock to brainwash the nation.

As we shall, see, there is a good reason for this apathy and ignorance. The UNWANTED, FORCED CHANGES we have been subjected to as a nation, were entirely the work of one man, master Tavistock technician John Rawlings Reese. I would venture to suggest that even after all my years of exposing Reese and his work, fully 95 percent of Americans don’t know who he is or what he did to the United States.

This huge number of our citizens is even today totally unaware of how they have been manipulated and forced to accept “new ideas”, “new cultures”, “new religions”. They have been grossly violated and don’t know it. They are still being violated and still don’t know what is happening, especially when it comes to opinion-making through polling. I can think of no better example to illustrate my contention, than the way in which Mr. Clinton is able to survive scandal after scandal on the basis of the polls showing that the American people care naught about his outlandish behavior. Could this be right? Could it be true that people really don’t care about public morals anymore? Of course not! The situation is a contrived one taught by Tavistock Institute and every poll-taker is trained in Tavistock methods.

One of the early tasks undertaken by Tavistock after it launched total war on the U.S. in 1946, was to force acceptance of “alternate lifestyles” on the American people. Tavistock documents showed how the leaders of a campaign to force legal, public acceptance of groups, whose abhorrent behavior was, until the changes were forced through by the Congress, recognized as a crime in almost every state in the Union and in some States, remains as a crime against God and man.

I am referring to the “gay lifestyle” as it has come to be called. The careful profiling that was done before this “change” program was launched would be not be believed by the uninitiated, who would dismiss it as “lurid science-fiction” if it were spelled out. A vast majority of Americans have never heard that the Tavistock Institute went to war against them in 1946, nor that we have been losing that war ever since.

Tavistock turned its attention to the United States at the close of WWII. Its chairperson is Queen Elizabeth II, and she is assisted by her cousin, the Duke of Kent, who is on the board of Tavistock. The methods that brought Germany down were now unleashed against the United States. The massive brainwashing of our nation was called “Long-Range Penetration” and “Inner-Directional Conditioning.” The main purpose of this endeavor was to install Socialist programs at every level of government: ushering in the New Dark Age of the One World Government-New World Order. Particularly, it was designed to break down the sanctity of marriage and family life and it was aimed at the Constitution also, to “make it of no effect”. Homosexuality, lesbianism, and abortion are Tavistock-designed programs.

Much of Tavistock’s programs were based on getting the “right” candidates elected; this being achieved with the help of Tavistock-trained pollsters with their cleverly loaded questions. Tavistock's "gay lifestyle" blueprint called for several "task force" units who would assist the media in painting over the homosexual onslaught and making the "new lifestyle" crusaders seem "just like any other people".

Talk shows are now an integral part of such plans, but back then, were not as widely used to bring about social changes as they are today. The leaders selected by Tavistock to promote tremendous changes on the social and political scene via talk shows, were Phil Donahue and Geraldo Rivera. It was they who presented people who were to run for office; people who, hitherto, would have been laughed off the platform. But now, thanks to the skillful use of polling, such persons began to be taken seriously.

This is not the format in which to review the minuscule planning that went into priming the public through these two TV talk-show hosts. Millions of dollars were spent in putting this Tavistock-forced social change long-range plan into effect, and as the results show, Tavistock did its homework well. With all of my experience, I am still amazed at how this great coup was pulled off.

Whole communities across the nation were profiled, even the guests for talk shows and their audiences were selected by profile matching, without ever being aware of what was being done without their knowledge and consent. Americans were bamboozled on a grand scale and didn't know it; still don't know it!

Finally, after three years of preparation the Tavistock sodomist/lesbian onslaught was launched against a totally unsuspecting American people. I liken this to the storm that burst upon the French nation at the time of the French Revolution. The storm broke in Florida, according to plan, and, exactly as planned, Anita Bryant came forward to take up the cudgels against the invaders from the "gay community"—words carefully selected by Tavistock which have now become fully acceptable.

I wish I could provide the documentation to back up what I have written, but it is impossible to get copies of Tavistock documents. All operations have only one key file, from which no more than 10 copies are made. A device is inserted in the paper which causes the text to blank out if attempts are made to make additional copies, or make copies of the existing ten copies.

There is also a strict rule that if anyone wishes to handle copies of Tavistock documents, a special code book has to be signed and a special time-frame adhered to. No one is allowed to remove copies from within the restricted areas. There are no copy machines in the building housing documents.

Documents to be copied have to receive special clearance and can only be copied by a designated member of the staff in a special high-security department housed in another building. This person is held accountable for every single piece of copy-paper used. Tavistock put the identical system in operation for the K.G.B., Vatican Intelligence and Israeli intelligence.

Tavistock was founded in 1921 to serve as a primary research vehicle for British intelligence services, still the best in the world. Major, later Brigadier General John Rawlings Reese commissioned by the monarch was chosen to run the project. In early 1945, Tavistock began to be heavily funded by David Rockefeller, in return for help in accomplishing the complete takeover of Reynard Heydrich's old secret intelligence service. This, Rockefeller was able to do: The whole apparatus and personnel of the former top Nazi security service was bodily transported to Washington, D.C., in violation of the supreme law of the land.

During the Second World War, both the London and Sussex facilities of Tavistock served as headquarters for the British Army's Psychological Warfare Bureau. The significance of this is that through the "best friend" arrangement between Churchill and Roosevelt, Tavistock was able to take full control of U.S. intelligence and military policies through Special Operations Executive (SOE) and maintained this control throughout the Second World War.

Eisenhower was duly selected by the Committee of 300 to become the commanding general of the allied forces in Europe, but only after extensive profiling by Tavistock. He was also allowed to sit in the White House, until, with his usefulness expended as memories of the war receded, he was dumped. Eisenhower's bitterness over the treatment he received at the hands of the Committee of 300 and the Tavistock Institute is reflected in his statements about the dangers posed by the military-industrial complex—a veiled reference to his former bosses.

The "Committee of 300" book tells the full story of this hitherto ultra-secret, ultra-elite body of men who rule the world. The Committee of 300 has at its disposal a vast, interlocking network of banks, finance houses, the print and electronic media, large groups of "think tanks", new-science scientists who are in reality the modern-day creators of what passes for public opinion created through its national poll opinion-makers, and so on.

Today, over 200 of the top Fortune 500 companies are in the grip of the Committee of 300. These include Petro Canada, the Hong Kong and Shanghai Bank, Xerox, Rank, Raytheon, ITT, Eagle Insurance, all the largest insurance companies, ALL of the top companies and/or organizations in the U.S. and Canada. The so-called environmental movement is entirely controlled by the Committee, through the Tavistock Institute.

Most people tend to believe that "brainwashing" is a Korean/Chinese technique. It isn't. Brainwashing dates back to Tavistock as the originator of the art. Thus we have established that the science of behavioral modifications had its origin in Tavistock, which trained an army of intelligence personnel to go out and do likewise. The United States, perhaps more than any other country, has felt the weight of Tavistock's fist in our national life at almost every level, and its grip on this country has not been lessened: If anything, with the advent of William Jefferson Clinton, it has been considerably tightened. We were truly bamboozled in 1992 and 1996.

The United States was the principal victim of long-range penetration warfare using the Reese techniques. Other victim-countries were Rhodesia, Angola, South Africa, the Philippines, South Korea, and Central America. The technique didn't work in Iraq and Iran, and by and large, Muslim countries seem less receptive to Tavistock mass-population control methods than Western countries. There is no doubt that the adherence to their Islamic faith is what foiled Tavistock's plans for the Middle East.

That Reese succeeded in forcing changes on a large number of countries is mirrored in events that have since transpired. At home, Tavistock reshaped a whole series of major U.S. institutions, both private and government, among them our intelligence agencies, units of the Pentagon, Congressional committees, large corporations, the entertainment world, and so on.

One of the major players in the Tavistock team was Dr. Kurt Lewin. Lewin was born in Germany, but was forced to flee when his population-control experiments were discovered by the German government. Lewin was already well known to Reese—the two having cooperated extensively in Lewin’s experiments in polling and similar opinion-shaping experiments. It is said that Dr. Goebbels enthusiastically embraced Tavistock methods.

Lewin fled to England, where he joined Reese at Tavistock and was given his first major task: Propagandize America into the Second World War, by launching a media blitz against Germany in both Europe and the U.S. Lewin succeeded admirably in what turned out to be the largest propaganda campaign in history, one that whipped the American people into a frenzy of hatred against Germany, and later, Japan. The blitz eventually cost the lives of hundreds of thousands of American soldiers and poured billions of dollars into the coffers of the Wall Street and international banks.

Just prior to the assault on Iraq, the U.S. was subjected to a propaganda blast only slightly below the level of that which was developed to shove the United States into the Second World War. Careful analyses of key words and phrases developed by Lewin for WWII use, showed that in 93.6 percent of all cases examined, these trigger-words and phrases matched up with those used in the Korean War, the Vietnam War and the Gulf War. In the Vietnam War era, polling using Tavistock methodology, was used with devastating effect against the American people.

During the Gulf War, an example of Tavistock methods was the way the State Department kept on referring to its embassy staff in Kuwait as “hostages”, although none were ever imprisoned. In fact, every single one of them was free to leave at any time, but were ordered to remain in Kuwait so that propaganda could be made out of the situation. In essence, the “hostages” were hostages of the State Department! Unable to goad President Hussein into firing the first shots in the desert war that followed, President Bush whipped up support against Iraq by using the fake “hostage” claim.

This is where the Tavistock Institute will fail: While it has been able to convince the majority of Americans that our policies for the Middle East are right, Tavistock has NOT been able to gain control of Syria, Iran, Iraq, Algeria and Saudi Arabia. It is at this point that Tavistock’s devious plan to dispossess the Arab nations of their oil is coming unglued. The days when MI-6 could dispatch “Arabists” like Lawrence of Arabia, the Philbys and Captain Hill to undermine Muslims states, have long since gone. The Arab countries have learned from their mistakes, and today, they trust the British Government far less than they did at the start of WWI.

The dictatorship of Mubarak of Egypt is in big trouble. Muslim fundamentalists seek to make tourism hazardous, and Egypt relies on hard currency from abroad to keep floating. Likewise, Syria is not going to stand alongside U.S. policies that favor Israel over the Palestinians for very much longer.

At home, billions of dollars were poured into the coffers of Tavistock by the U.S. government. Billions of dollars went into various institutions here at home: Among the beneficiaries of these billions of dollars were the National Training Laboratories, Harvard Psychological Clinic, Wharton School, Stanford’s Hoover Institute, Rand, MIT, The National Institute of Mental Health, Georgetown University, Esalen Institute, Center for Advanced Study in Behavioral Sciences, Institute for Social Research at Michigan and SCORES of other think tanks and institutions of higher learning.

The task of setting up these affiliates in the U.S. was given to Kurt Lewin, whose name was most probably not known to more than 100 people before my story about Tavistock broke. Yet this man and John Rawlings Reese, did more to damage the institutions upon which our republic rests, than anything Hitler or Stalin could have accomplished. The way in which Tavistock unraveled the warp and woof of our social fabric which holds the nation together, makes a chilling and frightening narrative of which the “normalizing” of homosexual and lesbian lifestyles is a small but significant achievement; a far greater and more chilling achievement being the success of brainwashing by means of opinion polls.

Why do Reese’s Tavistock techniques work so well in practice? Reese perfected his mass-brainwashing experiments through stress tests, or psychological shocks, also known as stressful events. The Reese theory, now amply proved, was that if entire populations could be subjected to stress tests, then it would be possible first, to work out in advance, what mass-population responses would be to given stress events. In a very explicit way, this technique is at the heart of creating the desired public opinion through polling, which has been used with devastating effect to shield the Clinton administration from the scandals swirling around the White House.

This technique is what is known as “profiling”, and can be applied to individuals, small or large groups of people, mass groups of people and/or organizations of all sizes. While still in his early twenties in Arkansas, William Clinton was profiled for acceptance in the Rhodes Scholarship program. His progress was profiled all throughout his career, and especially during the Vietnam War period. Then, after he proved himself, Clinton was “groomed” for the White House. The whole operation was under the control of the Tavistock Institute’s brainwashers. This is the way these things work.

Thus are the tools forged to literally make candidates, especially ones who are found suitable for public office; candidates who can always be counted on to do the “right” thing. Congress is full of them. Gingrich is a typical “Tavistock product”.

Heavy propaganda was used to convince the population that unwelcome “environmental social turbulences” were the result of the changing times in which we live, whereas, as we now know, special new-science scientists-designed programs (stress programs) to artificially create “environmental social turbulences” and then pass them off as resulting from a natural condition, best known as “changing times”.

Tavistock’s new-science scientists were confident that we would not apply the principle “for every effect there must be a cause”—and they were right. For instance we meekly accepted the “Beatles” and their ghastly “music” and lyrics—if one dare call such garbage music and lyrics—produced by another Tavistock graduate, Theo Adorno, whose 12-atonal discords were scientifically pitched to create mass “environmental social turbulences” all across America.

Tavistock proved, over and over again, that when a large group is successfully profiled, it can be subjected to “inner-directional conditioning” in just about every aspect of social and political life. As part of Tavistock’s mass mind-control experiments in the U.S., which has been going on since 1946, poll-taking opinion-making has been one of its most successful undertakings. American was bamboozled and did not know it.

Just to prove the success of his techniques, Reese got Tavistock to test a large group of people on a conspiracy-related subject. It turned out that 97.6 percent of those who were questioned utterly rejected the idea that an overall conspiracy exists. How much less, then, would our people believe that they have been under direct attack by Tavistock for the past 47 years? We have the clever use of radio talk-show hosts like Rush Limbaugh, who constantly tell audiences that there is no conspiracy. Another of their spokesmen is Craig Hulett, who dismisses those who have more than proved the existence of a whole range of conspiracies as “kooks” and even worse.

How many people would believe that for the past 47 years, Tavistock has been sending an invisible army of shock troops, into every hamlet, village, town and city across this nation? The task of the invisible army is to infiltrate, tamper with, and modify collective social behavior, by means of “inner-directional conditioning”.

The Reese invisible army is made up of real professionals who know their job and are dedicated to the task they were commissioned to do. They are found today in the halls of justice, police, churches, school boards, sports bodies, newspapers, television studios, government advisory boards, town councils, the state legislature, and are legion in Washington. They run for every office from sheriff to judge, from school-board member to city councilman, and even, for the office of the President of the United States of America.

How this worked was explained by John Rawlings Reese, back in 1954:

“Their job is to apply the advanced techniques of psychological warfare as we know them to whole population groups that will grow ever larger, so that whole populations may be more easily controlled. In a world driven completely mad, groups of Tavistock psychologists linked to each other, capable of influencing the political and governmental field must be arbiters, the power cabal.” Does this convince conspiracy skeptics? Probably not, as it is doubtful whether such closed minds could have any real knowledge of these things.

One such member of the Reese invisible army was Ronald Lippert, whose speciality is tinkering with the minds of children. Dr. Fred Emery was another of Tavistock’s “linked psychologists” who was on the board of President Johnson’s Kerner Commission. Emery was what Tavistock called a “social environmental turbulence” specialist, the bottom line of which is that when a whole population group is subjected to social crises, it breaks down into synoptic idealism and finally fragments; that is to say, it just gives up trying to cope with the problem or problems.

The word “environmental” has nothing to do with ecology issues, but has to do with the particular environment into which the specialist has injected himself with the specific intent of making trouble—“turbulences” or “stress patterns”.

This has already happened with rock and roll, drugs, free love (abortion), sodomy, lesbianism, pornography, street gangs, a constant attack on family life, on the institution of marriage, on social order. Where this has happened, we find communities powerless to cope with a broken-down justice system, school boards teaching evolution, minors being encouraged to buy condoms and even “children’s rights” being pushed. “Children’s rights”, usually mean children should be allowed to disobey their parents, a key issue in every Socialist’s “child-care” program.

Members of the Reese invisible army are entrenched in the House and Senate, in the military, the police, and in virtually every government office in the land. After studying the State of California, I came to the conclusion that it has the largest contingent of invisible army shock troops in the country, which has made California something very close to a socialist, police state. I believe California will be the “role model” for the rest of the nation.

At present there are no laws on the books that make this type of conditioning illegal. Reese and Lewin researched the laws of England and the United States and concluded that it was legal to “condition” a person without his or her consent or knowledge. We need to change this. Polling is an integral part of “conditioning”. Tavistock’s invisible army of shock troops has changed the way America thinks about rock, premarital sex, drug-taking, children born out of wedlock, promiscuity, marriage, divorce, family life, abortion, homosexuality and lesbianism, and yes, even murder, not to mention that lack of morals is fine as long as one does a good job.

In the early years of Tavistock, the “Leaderless Group Concept” was used to lay the America we once knew, in the dust. In charge of the project was W.R. Byon, who ran the Wharton School of Economics for years, where such nonsense as free trade and Keynesian economics are taught. Japan stayed with the American model—and look at Japan today. Don’t blame the Japanese for their success—blame Tavistock for destroying our economic system. But Japan’s turn is coming!

The “brain trust” in charge of Tavistock’s War on America (1946-), consisted of Lewin, Byon, Margaret Meade, Gregory Bateson, H.V. Dicks, and Eric Trist. Where did the invisible army shock troops get their training? They got it from Reese at Tavistock, from where they fanned out across America to sow their seeds of “environment social turbulence stress patterns”.

They fanned out into every level of American society, obtaining posts in places where they could exert the influence they had been taught how to use by Reese. Decisions made by the members of the invisible army of shock troops have profoundly affected America at every level, and the worst is yet to come.

Just to give a few examples of who some the leading shock troops were, let’s mention George Shultz, Alexander Haig, Larry King, Phil Donahue, Admiral Burkley (deeply involved in the coverup of the Kennedy assassins), Richard Armitage, Billy Graham, William Paley, William Buckley, Pamela Harriman (since deceased), Henry Kissinger, George Bush and Katherine Meyer Graham not to mention the caravan that arrived in Washington from Arkansas in 1992.

Business leaders in shock troop groups are legion, and I cannot include them here. Thousands of such invisible army shock troops of the Business Brigade were turned out at Tavistock’s U.S. facility, the National Training Laboratory, which began its existence on the huge, sprawling New York estate of Averill and Pamela Harriman. As we now know, Mrs. Harriman was the one who picked Clinton for special training and, ultimately, the Oval Office.

Here, at the NTL, corporate leaders were trained in stress situations and how to manage them. Companies who sent their top executives for Tavistock training included Westinghouse, B.F. Goodrich, Alcoa, Bell Telephone, Eli Lilly (Dan Quayle’s company), Du Pont. Worse yet, the U.S. government sent its top echelon personnel drawn from the U.S. Navy, the U.S. State Department, the Civil Service Commission, the Air Force. Your tax dollars, by the millions, paid for the “education” Tavistock gave these government employees at Arden House on the Harriman estate.

Perhaps the most important aspect of their training was how to use public polls to make public policy comply with what Tavistock goals said were desirable.

The maladaptive responses made possible by Tavistock's wholesale profiling, and in which maladaptive responses Tavistock's invisible army were seen worked to perfection in the Gulf War. Instead of rebelling against dragging this nation into a war against a friendly country with whom we had no quarrel, a war that was about to be waged without a proper Congressional declaration of war, we were "turned" in its favor. In short, we were bamboozled.

Tavistock advised Bush to use the following simple formula which Reese and Lewin told Allen Dulles to use back in 1941 when Roosevelt was preparing to drag America into the Second World War:

- (1) What is the state of the morale and its probable course in the targeted country? (This also applied to morale in the U.S.)
- (2) What is the state of susceptibility in the U.S. to the idea that war in the Persian Gulf is necessary?
- (3) What techniques could be used to weaken opposition in the U.S. to war in the Persian Gulf?
- (4) What kind of techniques in psychological warfare would succeed in undermining the morale of the Iraqi people. (It was here that Tavistock slipped up very badly.)

Once Bush committed himself to Mrs. Thatcher's war, Tavistock put together a team which included psychologists, public opinion makers, led by the brazen liars at Hill and Knowlton, and a host of Tavistock profilers. Every single one of the speeches made by President Bush with the intention of promoting war against Iraq, was crafted by multi-discipline teams of writers trained by Tavistock.

Top-secret information on how the Gulf War was propagated and how the American people were swung behind that nasty adventure by President George Bush, were given to a Congressional committee recently. The report has it that at an early stage of the plan to take out Iraq, the Bush administration was advised that public support was paramount.

Rule one was to establish in the mind of the American people the "great need to protect Saudi oil fields which would be threatened by an Iraqi invasion..." Thus, although it was known from the beginning that Iraq had no designs on Saudi oil fields, the NSA gave out false and misleading information to the effect that the Saudi oil fields were the ultimate target of Iraq.

The report stated that an unprecedented amount of television coverage would be needed. The Bush administration early on secured the full cooperation of the three major networks, ABC, CBS and NBC. The amount of Gulf War and related subjects coverage in 1990 was three times that of any subject covered in 1989, and once the war began, coverage was five times greater than any other story, including Tiananmen Square.

One of the chief players in the coverage of the war was CNN, which contracted with the Bush administration to link the Gulf War with American sitting rooms on a round-the-clock basis. As a result, the deployment of troops to the Gulf was favorably received by about 90 percent of the American people. It was just another way to practice opinion-making polling on the American people, just another way to bamboozle them.

NSA advisors told the Bush administration that from the very start, the public had to be persuaded to go along with his Gulf War plans. It was decided to create a parallel between Hitler and Saddam Hussein, with the words “Saddam Hussein must be stopped” used over and over again, followed by the notion that the Iraqi President “is acting like Hitler”.

The Bush administration’s “skill” in communicating the need for a war in the Gulf reached its height with the Hill and Knowlton-fabricated “incubator” story. The daughter of the ambassador of Kuwait to Washington appeared before a Senate committee and tearfully told of seeing babies torn from incubators in a Kuwait hospital and thrown on the floor by Iraqi troops. Of course she did not identify herself as the daughter of the ambassador, and the Senate—and the entire country—swallowed this massive fraud.

After the Hill and Knowlton big lie, 77 percent of Americans surveyed said they approved of using U.S. troops against Iraq. All major polls found that Bush’s sidestepping of the Constitution was approved, because those polled had no idea of what a constitutional declaration of war was, nor that it was mandatory. The role played by the U.N. added to the “communication skills” of the Bush administration, the report said.

I publish this information in the hope that the American people will not be so gullible the next time our President wants to get us involved in a war. Let us examine all the issues and let us not be misled by the skilled use of “communications”. The American people have been grossly misled over five major wars, and that should be enough for any nation.

What can be done about the grip Tavistock and its many affiliated institutions have on the country, a grip that extends all the way to the President and our top military brass? As I previously stated, the main problem is to be able to convince the broad mass of Americans that what is happening to them and the country, is not a case of “changing times” but a carefully contrived plot, a real menace to the future of all of us, and not just some “conspiracy” theory.

We can arouse the nation, but only if a concerted effort is made at the grassroots level. The solution to the problem lies in educating Americans, and by unified action. There is a terrible need to educate the millions of patriots as to what the secret manipulators are doing, and how they are doing it. Urgent, constitutional action is needed to bring this about. There are many leading citizens who have the power and the financial means to start a grass-roots campaign. What is NOT wanted, is a third political party.

A grass-roots movement, properly educated and acting in concert is the only way (at least in my opinion) we are going to win our country back from the dark and evil forces that have it by the throat. Together, in a grass-roots movement, we CAN shake America free from the grip of foreign powers, powers the Tavistock Institute serves so well, foreign powers that are bent upon the destruction of America as constituted by our Founding Fathers.

NEWS DESK SPECIAL REPORT

DESPERATE TIMES FOR ADVERSARY'S ANTICS

4/20/98 KORTON

Good afternoon, my scribe. Commander Tomeros Maasu Korton here in the Radiant Light of God's Presence.

You ones are being assaulted in a variety of ways, especially those of you in service to the Hosts of God-Aton. Illnesses are chief among the "distractions" tossed your way. It is through those subtle strikes (such as colds, gastro-intestinal dis-eases, nervous system ailments, mental depressions, and the like) that the adversary attacks, if a weakness can be found in your protective Light shielding. Of course, the moral of this warning is simply to be diligent about calling-in the Light of God for protection—every few minutes if need be, under some attack circumstances.

In the days to come, every "trick in the book" (including from your Bible) will be tried against both God's diligent workers and His wayward fragments who struggle to find en-LIGHT-enment. Even though Satan rules these "end" times, the days of Evil are numbered. That means you are in for the worst, as those in service to Evil prepare for your demise by both "fair" (seeming) methods and foul. However, if you persist in becoming "tuned-in" to the inner voice of God, and diligently focus upon that which is of the Lighted path, then a little "turbulence" may be all you experience personally.

MAY FIRST: DAY OF THE ILLUMINATI

When Adam Weishaupt founded the Order of the Illuminati on May 1, 1776, he and his Rothschild sponsors envisioned a world that celebrated this organized "birthday of Evil" with as much allegiance as any other state "holiday". But, instead of celebrating some form of national "independence", this day would represent the very opposite to you-the-people.

As you approach May 1, 1998, there is the possibility of your dark elite controllers using one of their most "sacred" days to help usher in their new era of total domination over you ones, bringing your seemingly sovereign way of life to an Earth-shattering end. This does not mean that this will surely be THE hour in which Evil chooses to remove the veils from the faces of the Satanic deceivers, but it does allow you ones more clues as to the PROBABLE buildup of happenings—now, and regarding timing for future events.

When you look back, remember that during the days leading up to the WORLD May First observances, there was always great and tumultuous public displays against governments for exposed injustices (engineered by the elite) against the common people. Even in America, through skilled military and psychological manipulations, preplanned riots and economic bombshells have been launched in the weeks and days preceding the date of May First. Thus, you “celebrated” your own May Day (from whence the cryptic “distress call” is fittingly derived) festivities. The big difference between you in the U.S. and your brethren who reside in other nations is that THEY KNOW a lot more of what it is all about and you don’t.

You say it doesn’t seem that way to you, this issue of the ignorance of the American people? Well, who controls the media which presents to you exactly what you are supposed to see and hear about your neighbors in other countries? Without exercising diligent independent effort on your own, how would you discover otherwise?

Whether your organized evil associations are called Orders, Committees, Societies, Illuminated (Dark) Brotherhoods, Fraternities, Initiates or Agencies—their modus operandi remains the same as it has since they were first forced to go “underground” (fugitively, figuratively, and literally). Their goal always remains the same: gaining control of a planet for the big bad boy himself. Luciferians know no national boundaries or religious differences; in fact, it was they who invented religions for better control over you!

Publicly these elite so-called masterminds (you now often call them philanthropists; they are pretenders of public virtue) would scarcely have come to your attention if it were not for a divinely guided incident, involving a courier, back in the 16th century. This messenger was struck by lightning as he traveled by horseback on hidden paths between two points along the secret courier network of the evil brotherhood. By “chance” this particular delivery contained blueprints for the 1789 French Revolution—which had not yet occurred! The evidence was so compelling that the authorities of the day ordered the Bavarian Illuminati to be disbanded. Obviously, however, no successful attempt was made to derail the planned revolution.

Whether it was too fantastic to believe at the time, or perhaps due to careful suppression of the information by Illuminists who occupied influential positions within the French government, the made-to-order Revolution came off on schedule.

With another stage of the World Domination Plan completed, the ignorant masses would be methodically prepared for the next phase of Illuminati-governed servitude. However, those annoying documents found on the dead courier didn’t exactly go away.

Since that time, at least some of the public have been aware of a “secret few” who commanded great power and political influence. And, my friends, the evil ones knew that the problem of possible exposure would not go away without directed clandestine effort on their part.

In order to carry out their dark directives, the minions of the adversary must operate in complete secrecy—because YOU outnumber them, many millions of you to every one of them! That is why, as you close out this millennium (toward which your adversary has spent more than 1800 years planning for THIS DAY), the existence of these dark elite still remains a very little-known, obscure “cult idea” that brings laughter of disbelief whenever the possibility of their existence is mentioned in most gatherings.

Hidden in the uppermost ranks of your current, multi-level, secret or semi-secret societies (such as Freemasonry, Intelligence agencies, Councils on Foreign and Domestic Relations, and Bilderberg clubs for billionaire elitists the world over) are the descendants and reincarnated Luciferians who planned, financed, and reaped the “benefits” of all your world conflicts. And all of these conflicts were engineered toward the single goal of achieving absolute world control in this present time period.

Chelas [students], war does not happen by accident! That would imply that God’s consummate manifest idea of human expression, such as should be exhibited in the life on your planet, was built on a less-than-perfect foundation, and that is not the case. In more basic terms: expressing Lighted fragments of God do not of their own accord resort to war to settle differences of opinion. Left to his own nature, man is more inclined to help than to hurt.

The fabric of the universe of physical and spiritual manifestation comes into existence through the “will-power” of LOVE—equal, in a scientific sense, to the all-pervasive “force” you call gravity. This incredible force of Divine Love IS the basis for ALL that exists, in the entire omniverse of universes, including your continued existence in what you understand as third-dimensional reality.

God does not create His kingdoms and worlds to be fleeting moments to be forgotten in the eternity of His imaginings. He creates them to one day come back, in a fullness of expression, into the Oneness that He Himself IS, and, in so doing, for the experiences of that creation to be forever recorded upon the Akashic Records that make up the “tapestry” of All That Is.

War (conflict in general) is a cancerous assault upon the emotions of Joy and Harmony—which are fundamental to what God IS. The negative vibrations of hate and disharmony simply do not mix with the higher frequencies of the Divine Light from God’s thinking and imagining.

This is not a difficult concept to grasp intuitively; it is simple physics: like conditions seek their own kind—oil and water do not mix. Neither do negative and positive vibrations (of manifested physicality or spiritual essence of same) blend together, for they are OPPOSITE conditions.

AVERTING CATASTROPHE

By preparing your brothers and sisters for what is planned, and by paying attention to the sequencing of events that signal possible triggering of circumstances that allow for the unfolding of the heinous things your adversary has in store for you, you create a window of opportunity to allow God’s miracles to take place. Simply knowing what may happen is not enough—though it does help the individual who comes by that knowledge to function with less of a distracting “surprise” reaction as events unfold. However, in order to truly assist mankind, as a species of created life-form experiencing upon this manifested schoolyard of learning, the lesson of understanding ONENESS WITH YOUR BROTHER is what needs to be wholly acted upon “this time around”.

As always, it is in the “doing something about it” that gives you access to the Powers of The Creation to “battle” that which threatens to cause disharmony with the natural order of God’s perfect universe. One human being CAN do it alone. However, most have been trained through religions to want to place their load (and everyone else’s) upon the shoulders of the Master Teacher who lived two thousand years ago upon your place. Such an avoidance of responsibility completely negates what he told you that YOU are capable of accomplishing. Lighted beings come in but two forms: those operating from a state of awareness of their Christed capabilities, and those still unaware of that Potential within.

Man must not be lured into a false sense of security simply because the ones in service to Evil tell you that all is well and there is no cause for alarm. Remember: “And they were liars from the beginning”. This quote from your Holy Book should not be taken lightly, for it sums up your adversary quite well.

These dark ones are the perpetrators of what your nation has come to be in its decadent and insidious policies and practices. These dark ones rob, not only the people of the United States, but condemn the peoples of the world to slavery and death because the most impoverished peoples have looked to you in the U.S. as a child looks to its parents for guidance and spiritual hope.

Do not let down those who believe, as you once did, in the DREAM of the “American way of life”. But DO face the fact that, presently, America is a land where much evil resides. And daily many more dark ones seek shelter through pouring into your lands—most without going through official immigration channels—for it is in the good old U.S. of A. that they believe they will be safe as they plunder the globe from the new Jer-USA-lem.

Their enemies know where to find them, chelas, and they will come after them, and it will be on your native soil that pivotal conflicts erupt. All the while, you nice citizens will be ordered to defend, with your very blood, the dark ones who caused the conflicts in the first place. Do not prove to the world that you indeed are as blind as they say you are. Do not allow these things to take place without so much as a word of protest or call to justice about that which you KNOW is against the very reason you have a Constitution in the first place.

[Editor’s note: One has but to look at this week’s Front Page story to see a perfect example of Commander Kortan’s advice being put into action in Switzerland. For those who have been following that outrageous confrontation, especially in past issues of CONTACT, the politicians and bankers in Switzerland were at first responding as spinelessly as is typically the case anywhere. But then there was a great, indignant groundswell of protest from the populace at large. And only THEN did the Swiss officials find it within themselves to take up a stance of defiance toward the huff-and-puff extortion thugs. It gives one pause to consider exactly what is “the power of the people” upon which our country’s Founding Fathers placed so much trust. Also consider the old phrase “the whole is greater than the sum of the parts” in these matters. Or as George Washington put it when pressed for basic advice about what’s important about being an American: “Labor to keep alive in your breast that little spark of Celestial Fire, called conscience.”]

EVIL HIDES IN PLAIN SIGHT (KNOWLEDGE GIVES YOU
“EYES” TO SEE)

Signs are all around you as to who Satan’s helpers are and where they hide. They have been a part of the founding (and daily operation) of your churches, mosques, and synagogues; they have had much to do with the creation and continued control of all of your major cultural and societal institutions, including such as those in the financial and political arenas, those of “higher” un-learning, hospitals, and police organizations; and blatant evidence abounds, forever recorded in your Book of Books, as to the very dark nature of its depictions of war and lascivious human conduct. Is this what you glorify when you promise to obey and follow EVERYTHING within those pages of that “good” book? Which of the many versions are you referring to?

How much do you know about the symbols and true origins of what you have come to blindly believe in? Do you think it was Esu “Jesus” Sananda’s disciples (friends) who called for the cross—of all the heinous devices, known for its image of great indignity while causing slow, agonizing death—to be a “symbol” of their beloved teacher?

Dear ones, the cross is a symbol of Satan. The term “double-cross” comes from the widely known (before you were made to forget during the Dark Ages) double-cross crest that was adapted to the coat of arms of an Illuminati Order. The people knew of the treachery of the evil societies and forever associated their twin-cross emblem with what they were best known for—deceit and manipulation.

The “End Times” as described in John’s Book Of Revelation will likely come about because that is what you ones believe should be part of your experience, and therefore manifest. Well, since “it” is going to come to pass, what can you do about it, if you are among the ones who believe God has given you the power to make a difference?

For starters, learn where you actually are in the timetable of the Armageddon scenario. In actuality you are not approaching your new century as your erroneous calendars present—you are already PAST that “deadline” by several years. You are PRESENTLY living out Armageddon. Right Now!

How much worse do you desire it to get? How vile and corrupt does your world have to become for you to accept your downward spiraling into “Hell” as a fact? Do you need locusts and plagues and dead bodies piled up in the streets for you to realize Evil reigns at this time? Will you wait until there is absolutely no turning back to goodness and decency on your place before you acknowledge the serpent’s grasp around your throat?

God will wait for you, always allowing you the opportunity to learn your lessons. However, when the Father announces, “Mine hour has come”, there will only be a moment in eternity of “time” for you to make up your minds as to who you will serve: satan (def: an adversary) or God and His Celestial Hosts. And, dear ones, I would suggest you make up your minds before that hour comes, for the human brain (at your level of development) is not skilled at making those kinds of decisions upon such short notice.

Remember I said the adversary has some really unimaginable distractions ready and awaiting proper timing to spring upon you. How better to control ones than through sheer panic and the resulting mayhem. Some feel they are prepared mentally for what may come—anything. Usually this derives from a false state of complacency based upon that one’s limited ability to imagine the kind and degree of the assault possible upon them. However, when the master deceiver decides to put on a show of force, the desired (dark) effect is most often achieved not through a single event, but multiple assaults, lined up like storms blasting a coastline, which hit faster than any one assault can be dealt with.

Your own first instinct will be to panic, because that is how your controlers have programed you to respond. Overriding the negative programing should be your priority as a next step. And then, if you have prepared yourselves with the wisdom of God's knowledge, allow divine inspiration and instinct—God's Universal Language of Light—to guide your way. In the midst of chaos, only the “voice” of the Heavenly Father within can lead you to safety. That is what is meant by the phrase: “Put your faith in the Lord.”

My specialty is communications and in such capacity I remind you that it matters not how the call for help is made—no special external language is necessary—for the honest call for help comes from the heart. That is a REAL energy sent out and, as we have so often reminded you, “the call compels the answer”. Keep this in mind as you effort to improve your hearing of the “still, small voice within” your heart, for therein lies God and His constant communications with you—if you but LISTEN.

The next most difficult step to take is acting upon what you hear. Faith, my beloved brethren, helps immensely here, for the adversary will try every weakness you have in order to dissuade you from following Lighted input. And as I said at the beginning of this message, right now the adversary is desperate to maintain his hold over humanity and thus is testing you with every trick there is. The dark ones know their time is short and that they lose their power over you the minute you awaken to their pranks.

So, is that an alarm clock I hear ringing, my sleepy brothers? Now would be a good time to HEAR the call and ACT upon the alarm. Shall you hit the “snooze” button and roll over for more slumber, or shall you spring out of your bed and get to work? We shall see.

Thank you for your attention, my beloved brethren. Your tireless petitions for assistance to We of the Hosts of God-Aton do not go unheard.

May you KNOW and FEEL God's presence within you at all times, for that truly is the only way to live. Commander Korton to clear, please. Salu.

CHAPTER 5

LANTO: SEEK FIRST WITHIN FOR YOUR ANSWERS

4/25/98 LANTO, THE SAGE

Good afternoon, my friend. It is I, Lanto, “the sage”. I come as representative of the Yellow Ray of Creator’s spectral expression. You know me well.

My task at this time is one of inner communication. This is to say that I am here to help you focus upon inner communication with self.

Many are looking for outward comforts to cause them to feel “happy”. There is no such external condition. Happiness comes from within, just as does fulfillment, joy, or any of the other emotional states that you ones are fond of experiencing.

You ones will find great value in taking the time to quietly and honestly look within at self and see self as you are this day. What are those things that you dwell upon with great regularity? Where do you focus your mental and emotional energy? How do your actions reflect these preoccupations? These are merely a few questions to help you focus upon what it is that you are creating as your “reality” of experience.

ALL are seeking an inner sense of fulfillment. Yet, most are chasing after the external world for their fulfillment instead of pursuing their own inner world. This will only serve to lead you down a lot of “dead-end” paths full of inner conflict and turmoil.

Keep in mind that you ones often need to experience, for yourselves, the process of searching_ to the point of exhaustion. That is, it is often after you have exhausted every external path you can think of, that you get to the point of emotional exhaustion (desperation) which causes you to turn inward for your answers.

You do not need to go to such an extreme before you decide to go within and seek your answers. You can do this at any time you may so choose. Almost all of you who are reading this message are, in fact, following your inner Guidance to some degree. But, most of you do not realize (recognize) that you can tap the inner world and get these same answers for yourself.

You ALL have this ability. It begins by taking the time to formulate a heart-felt question about which you truly desire to know the answer.

Next, you simply allow the thoughts to come. Usually the question will be answered with other questions. For example, let us take the question: “Why am I so unhappy?”

Perhaps the next thought that comes is: “Well, why do I spend so much time worrying about being happy?” or “Well, what are the ‘things’ in my life that I can be thankful for?” This is but an example to briefly illustrate my point.

Many of you are quite able to do this and most all of you have done this type of introspective questioning at one time or another. But, most also fail to recognize the injection of “non-physical help” that is received while doing this.

Remember: “The call compels the answer!” The answer is rarely in a form that you ones choose to recognize, for in the recognition comes responsibility that God has supplied you with the means to find the answer_and this, in turn, implies that you really have no excuse for wallowing in a state of “unhappiness” any longer.

If you have chosen ignorance as your excuse in the past, then from this point forward you will not be able to consciously claim this ever again without feeling the “lie” that you are trying to sell yourself.

I am merely pointing out the God-given mechanism by which you can find any answer that your heart desires. Ah! Here we have stated “your HEART desires”. What do I mean by “heart” desire? What is it that YOUR heart truly desires?

True heart desire comes from your Higher Guiding Self. This desire will always be of a nature that will have lasting (beyond the physical) value. Those of you who spend excessive amounts of time and energy worrying about money, relationships, material success, and such, will eventually find that your physical desire is out of alignment with that of the Higher desire of the soul’s knowing. The physical “things” are at best lustful, ego-based desires and will have very little (almost none) lasting value in and of themselves.

Look closely at what it is that you regularly fixate your attention upon. Many of you state outwardly general statements such as: “If only I had ____, then I would be happy or satisfied.” (You fill in the blank.)

I say to you here and now that you have ALL you need to feel completely satisfied and happy and connected. If you but take the time to look and see, then you would know that (as I have just stated) TRUE happiness comes from within, as does TRUE satisfaction.

Now, another important point, related to what we have just discussed, is the following: You cannot be truly happy until you can learn to TRULY love yourself_and know that YOU have enormous value as a unique creation of God to contribute to the overall canvass of His magnificent expression. You each have a purpose to fulfill that will benefit EVERY being EVERYWHERE! None is lesser than another!

You will all, eventually, recognize this fact. When? That is up to you. It is a matter of sequence of events. As you grow in terms of lasting inner Knowing, you will naturally fulfill your unique Higher Purpose. Everyone’s reason for experiencing at this time is in some way related to ultimately fulfilling this Higher Purpose of understanding and contributing to the overall benefit of everyone, everywhere.

Seek within for your Guidance. Trust that it is REAL and that it is QUITE valid. You need not justify your Guidance to another, and what is “right” for you is not always “right” for another. Don’t insist that your Guidance is the “only way”, for it is NOT!

Judge not one another. You do not know another’s agreements or prearranged role. Perhaps your “nemesis” is a very caring friend who agreed to come into the physical and play the role of the “bad” guy so that YOU could have the perfect opportunity to grow.

On other levels of awareness, you each orchestrate with one another so as to maximize the overall growth potential of the experience. Sound too outlandish for you? Well, that’s because it is outside of the “landish” (physical) experience that this sort of thing is orchestrated. Learn to be inwardly thankful for ALL of the challenges that cross your path and you will be well upon your way to finding true inner happiness and fulfillment.

Patience, and allowing for the greater picture to unfold, will help you to see the long-term value of that which I offer. Within this writing are the basic tools about which you ALL need reminding, from time to time. Many of you have been at points of emotional “desperation” and have found this inner Guidance to be of “last resort”. It should be the FIRST avenue taken, not the last.

With proper application and honing of these skills, you could become an inspiration and example for others to follow. When the heart and the higher mind are in agreement with one another, you will find an unshakable peace and a profound sense of certainty that will eventually lead you to Infinite Knowing.

First, the proper steps must be taken. You cannot find peace when there is inner conflict raging between the ego-self and the higher-knowing being.

Do you ones think that Esu “Jesus” Immanuel did not consider the physical pain of the flesh prior to undertaking the task that he knew he had to do? He did! Was he frightened? Yes, at first, but he also knew with his HEART what he had to do and he gave no power to the ego-self that was “tempting” him to do otherwise. Let his life stand as an insightful example of inner versus outer values.

Please consider this message as a reminder to you, as to why you are where you are this day and why you feel the way you do. Seek always within for the answers and you will find them. And you will invariably find outward confirmations that will allow you to see that you are, indeed, upon the right path. Call upon the Light for protection and an added level of insurance, else you will likely be tempted by the dark energies.

I am Lanto, Wayshower and Guide. I am come as directed by OUR Father so that you all may have reminder of who you are and of the “tools” available to you each.

In Light, Blessings to you ALL! Salu.

NEWS DESK SPECIAL REPORT

by Dr. Al Overholt 5/2/98

NEW WORLD ORDER GANG DESTROYING OUR CHILDREN SCHOOLS POISON US TO EDUCATION

Editor's note: The following information is offered by Dr. Al Overholt in the format of a News Desk Special Report. While regular CONTACT readers will find some comments herein to be a bit too evangelical and preachy in a narrow focus, don't lose sight of the sobering statistics being presented which clearly denote how quickly our educational system is going down—along with everything else of substance in our American culture. And by the way, for those of you who appreciate Dr. Overholt's "News Desk" contributions to this paper, drop him a line in care of CONTACT. He just celebrated (on 5/3) another "39th" birthday and no such newsy milestone should go by quietly, don't you agree?!

From FOCUS ON THE FAMILY, newsletter by Dr. James Dobson, April 1998: [quoting]

Dear Friends,

And now, a word about our children and their schools.

In 1990, President George Bush and all 50 governors announced their goal for U.S. students to be "first in the world in mathematics and science and achievement by the year 2000". It sounded good at the time. But almost a decade later, America's high school seniors still compare poorly with young men and women in most other industrialized nations of the world.

That was the conclusion of the most comprehensive and rigorous international comparison ever conducted of academic achievement, released in February. This investigation, entitled The Third International Mathematics and Science Study, involved 41 nations and more than one-half million students. The final report should be of concern to every parent and grandparent in the nation. (SEE CHARTS NEXT PAGE)

What it revealed is that fourth-grade students in this country scored above average internationally, but by the middle school years, scores were below average. And by the time they were seniors in high school, they ranked near the bottom when compared to other nations. The conclusion is unmistakable: The longer students stay in American schools, the farther they fall behind their age-mates in most industrialized nations of the world.

Here are the mean (average) achievement test scores in various categories of science and math for the nations that participated at the secondary level.

As dismal as these rankings were, they easily could have been worse. Asian countries which typically excel in math and science did not participate in the study. “Otherwise,” wrote columnist John Leo, “America might have been fighting for 39th or 40th place in a 41-nation field.”

What is even more shocking is how our most gifted students compared with high achievers in secondary schools from other participating countries. For many years, Americans have consoled themselves with the belief that their most talented youngsters were on a par with the best educated students on Earth. Not so, according to these findings. When compared with gifted students elsewhere, our smartest kids tested even worse.

Here are the results for students enrolled in the most advance math and science courses.

Incredibly, the United States scored 15th out of 16 nations in advanced mathematics and dead last, 16th out of 16, in physics. When tested on matters of self-esteem, however, American kids scored near the top. So if you ask the students how they did in math and science, they’ll reply, “Terrible.” But then ask them how they feel about their performance, and they’ll say, “Great!” Obviously, something is drastically wrong on the educational front.

2 charts

How do we explain such distressing findings? To hear the National Education Association and the U.S. Department of Education tell it, the problem has been a lack of money. That’s what they said 30 years ago when test scores first began to slide. Americans, who are passionately committed to their children, responded by allocating huge additional resources for schools both nationally and locally. In real dollars corrected for inflation, the expenditure per pupil has increased 200 percent since 1960. Our schools have been, and remain, the best funded on earth.

Take a look at the expenditures per pupil and the number of days spent in the classroom among the industrialized nations of the world.

It is illogical to blame inadequate funding for education when American schools are the best supported in the world—and yet operate the fewest number of days per year. In fact, I think a case can be made that money, beyond a certain minimum, appears to have little to do with quality in education. Indeed, Washington, D.C., schools, which receive more than any other public school system in America ($8,290 per pupil) have the nation’s highest dropout rate and rank near the bottom in every measure of efficiency and competence. This is an affront to the parents who live in the District of Columbia. For $8,290 per student per year, they could send their children to some of the better private schools in the area, including Gonzaga, St. James, Carroll High School or Sidwell Friends. Indeed, there are 88 private schools within the Washington beltway that cost less than $4,000 per student, including 60 that cost less than $3,200. Instead of choosing among the best, however, Washington, D.C. parents are forced to patronize the mismanaged and dangerous “government schools” that are shamefully wasteful and bloated with bureaucracy. This is what comes of educational monopolies.

In 1977 President Jimmy Carter told us that our schools not only needed more money, but that they desperately needed help from the federal government. That was a popular notion of the day—that “Washington can fix it”. Thus, the Democrat-controlled Congress dutifully created the U.S. Department of Education and funded it in 1979 with about $14.5 billion. Alas, the camel’s nose was under the tent. Today, the department consumes more than $30 billion annually, and last year, the Republican-controlled Congress, characteristically quaking in fear of a veto by the president, increased the department’s budget by three billion.

Today, the beat goes on. Mr. Clinton outlined many new, expensive education programs during his recent State of the Union address that will greatly expand the federal bureaucracy. No mention was made of the fact that our schools are in far worse shape now than before all those “educrats” in Washington set up shop. The time has come to abolish the Department of Education, but are there any politicians who have the courage even to propose such an idea? Apparently not.

Meanwhile, the alarm bells continue to clang. A Department of Education study revealed four years ago that more than half of America’s college graduates couldn’t read a bus schedule! Nor were they able to figure out how much change they should receive after putting down $3 to pay for a 60 cent bowl of soup and a $1.95 sandwich. This is a disgraceful come-down for a nation that has led the world in productivity and creativity.

How can we get a handle on what has gone wrong? What are the forces that have undermined our schools and shortchanged a generation of children? First, let me say that it is unfair to blame the dedicated teachers and administrators who are working hard to serve the children of this country. I used to be one of them, and I know that they want the best for kids, too. Many went into teaching as an expression of their Christian commitment, and they share our frustration about what is happening. Education, just like medicine, is being transformed by social pressures that individual professionals are unable to resist. My purpose, therefore, is not to bash the teaching profession, but to look past the local scene to focus on the broader picture.

In that regard, let me cite two concerns about our schools that many analysts consider critical. They are as follows:

1. Traditional curricula (English, math, science, reading and writing) has been replaced by politically correct ideology and untested revolutionary ideas.

Columnist John Leo wrote:

“Schools are flooded with progressive experiments and social agendas that either go down in flames or crowd out actual learning—cooperative learning, the politics of identity, outcome-based education, history as group therapy. An emphasis on egalitarianism in the classroom often has strange effects, making some teachers suspicious of achievement and any knowledge that ‘contributes to inequality’. Some teachers now refer to themselves as ‘facilitators’ because they believe ‘teaching’ is an expression of dominance.”

Charles Sykes, author of Dumbing Down Our Kids: Why American Children Feel Good About Themselves But Can’t Read, Write or Add, charges that schools are obsessed with students’ self-esteem, which in turn makes teachers afraid to demand high performance. It leads them to ignore spelling errors or grammatical mistakes for fear of damaging students. Academic content is watered down to avoid creating stress in the classroom.

Sykes concludes, “Despite all the gold stars and smiley faces, if [pupils] simply don’t have the skills to compete and survive, [they] will eventually figure that out and know it’s all a fraud”.

Traditional subject matter has also been invaded by the radical environmental movement. Those of you who haven’t visited a classroom for a decade or more might be shocked to observe how the “save the Earth” people have taken over. That theme permeates every dimension of the curricula, including higher math. One popular textbook is entitled Focus on Algebra, about which John Leo said, “It talks about the rain forest, Maya Angelou’s poetry and students’ feelings about zoos, but doesn’t get around to solving its first linear equation until page 218”.

In a special report by The Washington Times entitled “The Dumbing Down of America”, a story is cited about a mother in Pennsylvania who called a member of her school board to complain about a math paper brought home by her child. The paper presented a math problem involving three birds in a nest. Two flew away. The question? “How do you think the [remaining] bird felt?” The Times reporter asked, “What do birds, feelings or nests have to do with teaching math?” Good question! Yet, the reporter concluded, this touchy-feely emphasis is widespread in public schools today.

Thomas Sowell, a syndicated columnist, wrote:

“When I was a professor of economics at UCLA, I was amazed that so many students had no concept of logic and no sense of how to use the English language, much less any serious knowledge of basic information that was once taken for granted.... More than once, as I went over a student’s ungrammatical writing and confused reasoning, I found myself asking, ‘What were you doing for the past 12 years?’ Only later, when I began to do research on the American public school system, did I realize why high school graduates were so badly educated. Much of the agenda of the schools across the country is a social or ideological one, not an educational agenda.... No one is more determined to avoid academic subjects than professional educators. So-called ‘outcome-based education’ is yet another hollow phrase for going off on another tangent, substituting mush for mental development. None of this is accidental. There are books, articles and speeches by leading education gurus explaining how the public schools are supposed to be used for all sorts of social and ideological crusades: Hug the trees, blab your family secrets to strangers—and don’t worry about math and science.”

Sowell’s criticism has now been validated by a nonpartisan, education-oriented public opinion group in New York entitled Public Agenda. This organization polled 900 professors in the nation’s schools of education. According to Elaine Woo, a reporter for the Los Angeles Times, “[They] found an ‘often staggering’ disconnect between what education professors value and what most parents, teachers and even students say they need.... The professors...valued process over content, saying it was more important for students to ‘learn how to learn’ than know the right answer.... Barely four in 10 [of the professors polled] said maintaining discipline and order was essential. Fewer than two in 10 stressed such basics as spelling and grammar. And only 12 percent said it was essential to expect students to be neat, on time and polite.... More than eight in 10 professors said that in teaching subjects such as math or history, it is more important that students struggle with the process of trying to find the right answers. Only 12 percent said it was more important that kids end up knowing the right answer.”

Of equal concern to academic issues is the homosexual and lesbian agenda that is being promoted in many schools. The objective goes far beyond teaching respect for every member of the human family, which we support. It involves the validation of an immoral lifestyle and an effort to manipulate the minds of vulnerable children. Consider these examples:

* At a Brookline, Mass., elementary school, a transsexual was invited into a first-grade class to give details of his sex-change operation.

* In Ashland, Mass., children were assigned to play gays in a school skit. One boy’s line was, “It’s natural to be attracted to the same sex.” Two girls were told to hold hands and pretend they were lesbians. Parents were not informed in advance.

* At Silver Lake High School in Massachusetts, the ninth-grade health text teaches: “Testing your ability to function sexually and give pleasure to another person may be less threatening in the early teens with people of your own sex.... You may come to the conclusion that growing up means rejecting the values of your parents.”

Given these many trends, it shouldn’t be surprising that students are revealing a diminished technical and academic competence when asked to compete internationally.

2. A powerful educational monopoly has gained control of today’s schools and is shaping them to fit its liberal, self-serving agenda.

One can hardly overstate the influence of the mammoth educational monopoly hovering over today’s schools, consisting of the U.S. Department of Education and the teacher unions, primarily the National Education Association (NEA) and the American Federation of Teachers (AFT). And now, we’re told, the NEA and the AFT are considering a merger which would create an even more powerful and dangerous force within public education. Monopolies rarely serve the needs of the consumer, but this one is particularly self-absorbed, wasteful and arrogant.

Consider the matter of teacher qualification. Union policies often protect incompetent teachers through a system of seniority that guarantees mediocrity. Almost a third of all math and one-fifth of all science teachers did not major or minor in the subjects they teach. They are unqualified to be instructors in physics, calculus, chemistry or biology, but they are protected by unions and can’t be dislodged.

Of greatest concern is the transfer of power from parents and local school officials to professional educators and bureaucrats at the state level, and especially, to the federal government. There is an inverse relationship between authority vested far from home and effectiveness of our schools. No better example exists than the much vaunted Goals 2000 program that was hatched in Washington, D.C., several years ago.

Ron Sunseri, a former Oregon legislator, said it best. After Oregon spent four years implementing many of the proposed reforms of Goals 2000, such as performance-based assessment and psychological training, “Oregon’s results are dismal. A Forest Grove, Ore., school posted a 36 percent decline in verbal skills and a 17-point decline in math.” Thomas DeWeese of the American Policy Foundation said, “The indoctrination methods...start in kindergarten, where students are filled with horror stories of ozone holes, dying species, homelessness and war.”

Concerning the long-awaited 1996 National English standards, John Leo said, “[They] turned out to set no standards at all. Instead we got a trendy tolerance for bad grammar and spelling and a lot of incomprehensible gibberish about ‘word identification strategies’ and ‘writing process elements’. Language skills of U.S. students are said to be even lower by world standards than their math and science skills. Should we find this surprising?”

“Educrats” also have a history of interjecting politically correct ideology into everything within reach, especially where children are concerned. Consider, for example, the National Standards for United States History, released in 1994, which reeked of liberal bias. Here are some of their outrageous deletions and distortions:

* George Washington makes only a fleeting appearance and is never described as the first president of the United States.

* The first meeting of the U.S. Congress is not considered noteworthy.

* Indeed, the standards make only one passing mention of the United States Congress.

* There is no reference to Robert E. Lee, Alexander Graham Bell, Thomas Edison, Albert Einstein, Jonas Salk or the Wright Brothers.

These and many other omissions are indicative of a poorly concealed effort to de-emphasize the historic concepts American children have been taught for two centuries. Likewise, the “goodness” of America, of which DeTocqueville spoke, is given short shrift. The unprecedented freedoms granted to our citizens are all but ignored.

By contrast, everything sordid and disgraceful about this country is underscored for our children. A left-of-center perspective on history is given prominence. For example:

* The Ku Klux Klan is mentioned 21 times!

* McCarthyism scored 19 hits.

* Watergate and the Iran-Contra hearings show up prominently.

* The founding of the National Organization for Women is celebrated.

* Students are asked to use selections from Planned Parenthood founder Margaret Sanger's Women Rebel to explain "new women" ideas.

* Students are asked to use articles from Ms. magazine or selections from such books as Sisterhood Is Powerful to explain how "feminism was compelling in its analysis of women's problems and the solutions offered".

* Former Speaker of the House Tip O'Neill is quoted as saying Ronald Reagan was a "cheerleader for selfishness". The speaker, and the standards, failed to mention Reagan's role in the decline and fall of the "Evil Empire" or the freeing of oppressed people in Eastern Europe and other places throughout the world.

These standards reflect a blatant liberal agenda that insults conservatives and alarms parents. More to the point, what came down from the national level is typical of what happens when the culturally elite get their hands on educational curricula. The history standards represent only one of many examples of this bias I could cite.

These are the reasons we should oppose the expansion of the education monopoly. These folks have a different agenda for children, and it is not, in my opinion, one that should be encouraged. Bill Clinton is the chief proponent for their movement. Now he's calling for a national testing program which will quickly become the vehicle to shift even more power away from parents, past the state agencies, and on to the bureaucrats in Washington, D.C. It will force teachers to "teach to the tests" and thereby change curricula, textbooks and the entire educational establishment. In short, national testing will complete the task of replacing parents and teachers with a federalized school system.

Let's come back to the issue with which we began: What is the solution to our failing test scores and poor academic performance by our students? I believe it is to reassert parental control of education, expressed through the election of local school boards who are empowered to do what is best for children. And it is in school-choice legislation, designed to put competition back into public education. What continues to be unfair is that home-schooling parents or those paying tuition for Christian education are still taxed to support ineffective and wasteful public schools' programs. School choice will not only end this injustice, but it will allow inner-city parents to access the better schools only middle—and upper—class children can attend now. As someone noted, "We already have de facto educational choice in this country: it's just limited to those who can afford it."

When administrators have to satisfy local parents in order to retain students, and when the worst schools begin to go out of business, then a new energy and zeal will pervade the nation's campuses. We've tried everything else. Why not put the decision-making power back in the hands of those who care the most—moms and dads living in Crossroads, U.S.A. One thing is certain: They could do no worse than has been done in the past two decades.

One poll shows that 82 percent of Americans favor school choice. Another found that 86 percent of African-Americans in the child-rearing years (ages 26-35) favor tuition vouchers. With that kind of support, what do we have to do to get the attention of our representatives in Washington, D.C., who tend to be deaf to issues that don't have a politically correct spin? Democrats have fought school choice tooth and nail, and Republicans have lost their nerve on this and other social and moral issues. Until they find the courage to act, America will continue to be embarrassed whenever our kids have to demonstrate what they know—or don't know—internationally.

I'll end with this: The entire debate over our schools focuses on the issue of moral absolutes. That will shock some of my readers, but it is what I believe. God Himself is the Author of a universal law by which all things are governed. He has established an immutable standard of right and wrong that transcends time and space. Math, science and other academic inquiries flow from the acknowledgment that all truth is God's Truth, and nothing has meaning apart from Him. In generations past, of course, schools were designed to teach those principles, and discipline was intended to enforce them. Public schools and private higher education all had religious missions and conformed to scriptural dictates. Harvard, Yale, Princeton and the College of William and Mary were Christian colleges, devoted to the Gospel of Jesus Christ. But those days are gone. Now we have succeeded in gutting our institutions and divesting them of their moral underpinnings. We have passed laws forbidding any official support for matters of faith, prohibiting the posting of the Ten Commandments on school walls and muzzling those who would utter a word of praise or petition to the Almighty. In this remarkably successful campaign to demoralize our educational institutions, we have created for ourselves meaningless, ineffective and godless monuments to man's arrogance. It is our vulnerable children, and those in generations to come, that are sacrificed on the altar of secularism. I pray that someday we will again lay hold to the wisdom of those who have gone before us.

Let's be in prayer specifically for our schools and for the Christian teachers and administrators who labor in them. They need our encouragement now, more than ever.

That's my editorial for the month. Thanks for all your calls and letters after my speech to the Council for National Policy, which was not unrelated to what I've said above. The response has been most gratifying.

Your continued support of this ministry is greatly appreciated—especially here in “tax month” when the pickings get thin. God's blessings to you all.

Sincerely, James C. Dobson, Ph.D.

P.S. And finally, a word to educators. Let me remind you that the American Association of Educators is a Christian alternative to the NEA and other unions. You can write them at 26012 Marguerite Parkway, Suite 333, Mission Viejo, CA 92692.

EX-FILM STAR BOOSTS LEAD IN MAY POLLS

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Calvin Burgin, 4/98: [quoting]

MANILA—A former film star who shocks the Roman Catholic Church but is adored by the poor looks so certain to win next month's Philippine presidential election that only cheating can topple him, analysts said yesterday.

Vice-President Joseph “Erap” Estrada, attacked by opponents as immoral, inept and unfit, boosted his lead in one of the country’s few credible opinion surveys yesterday, polling 30 per cent to give him double the popularity of his nearest rival.

“It’s looking like an Erap presidency,” political analyst Adrian Cristobal said.

“But everybody is waiting to see how the cheating will be done,” he said, though he added it would be hard to rig the ballots and get away with it when Mr Estrada had such a large lead.

“It’s too early to call Mr Estrada a winner,” political analyst Teodoro Benigno said. “The administration will cheat substantially.”

President Fidel Ramos, whose preferred successor languishes fourth in the poll, has pledged clean, honest and safe election on 11 May in Asia’s most vibrant democracy. [End quoting]

Imelda Marcos was running for president also, but the elite have so propagandized the people that she has quit the race. They are trying to put her in prison for building a hospital for the people with her funds.

STEALING THE CENSUS

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Calvin Burgin, <wrldline@texas.net>, 4/26/98: [quoting]

One of the most fundamental concepts in free societies is the notion of “one man, one vote”. But sinister forces are at work positioning to destroy that cherished hallmark of American politics. Article 1, Section 2 requires an actual enumeration of the entire population of the US for means of apportioning congressional districts. Section 2 of the 14th Amendment further clarifies how the census is to be taken by stating that the census will be conducted by “counting the whole number of persons in each state”. Title 13 US Code, Section 195 also prohibits the use of any method other than actual enumeration to reapportion congressional districts.

While there are many varied components to the Constitution, none are as crystal clear in terms of implementation as the requirement for an actual enumeration of the census. However, Bill Clinton and the Democratic Party have concocted a plan to steal the census. How are they planning to do this? Simple; they allege that millions of persons were not counted in 1990. How do they know? Well, social scientists at the universities told them (despite their having even less evidence of these people than the government).

So what they are planning to do is to take 10-13 percent of the people who actually send in their census forms and subtract them from the total.

In their place, they are going to devise a sampling formula to statistically adjust the census to account for the “phantom citizens” who live in urban areas—perennially Democratic strongholds.

This hijacking of the political process is designed by the Democrats to shift the reapportionment process to use these phantom citizens to take away congressional seats from the suburbs, small towns and rural areas—primarily Republican strongholds—and give them to the inner cities that have lost millions of residents over the past decade. Phantom man, one vote. Real man, no vote.

Democrats are betting on this gamble to be able to recapture the House of Representatives, because they realize that they cannot achieve that through the ballot box. For example, in the state of Illinois, 90 counties in the state will lose 154,000 REAL people during reapportionment in favor of an additional 68,000 phantom residents in Cook County (Chicago) to create at least two more Democrat congressional districts, reviving memories of the Democrat dead rising from the grave to vote for the Daley political machine in the halcyon days of yore. Rural areas will be hardest hit. While the sampling techniques may give a rural county a few dozen more people, the hundreds of thousands of phantom citizens will far outweigh any gains.

The census also determines the formula in which federal money gets doled out to the states. While major cities will get more federal money for citizens they don't really have, the real citizens in the suburbs and small towns will lose their fair share of tax money, forcing those areas to increase taxes to cover the shortfall from the phony population shift.

The fact that this plan is illegal and unconstitutional doesn't frighten Clinton or the Democrats, because court orders, laws and the Constitution have never stopped them. Just look at 1996, when they knowingly took millions in illegal campaign contributions from China in order to win the White House. The Democrats are betting on being able to sneak the census through and forcing America to live with the phony census as a fait d'accompli for another ten years. Their hunch is probably right. If the census goes through as they plan, the courts will be hard pressed to force another census.

What are the alternatives? In a very rare move of boldness, the GOP is actually responding to the crisis—a hard feat to accomplish since 1994. Speaker Gingrich has filed a lawsuit against the Commerce Department to get them to abide by the constitutional census mandates. In addition, the Southeastern Legal Foundation in Atlanta has filed another lawsuit for the same purpose—to get an honest census in 2000. The option of defunding a phony census was tried last year and failed because of a lack of Republican intestinal fortitude.

The only remaining option is for the largest states to pass laws mandating that their reapportionment (while reapportionment is based off of a federal census, states still control the actual reapportionment process) be based on actual enumeration.

It is truly a sad day indeed when the most fundamental right of political representation—one man, one vote—is stripped away from the common man to illegally bolster the fortunes of a faltering political party. And to think that this president and administration—who made such a big deal about representing the little people—declare political war on the freedoms that those same people depend on to be heard in Washington. May this issue drive us to our knees in repentance that we have allowed our country to wander so far astray as this, and cause us to stand up and fight this flagrant injustice. We should heed the warning given by John Adams long ago: “Posterity! You will never know how much it cost the present generation to preserve your freedom! I hope you will make good use of it! If you do not, I shall repent it in Heaven that I ever took half the pains to preserve it!” [End quoting]

Isn't it time for us to be heard again??

TV REPORTERS FIRED
FOR REPORTING ON MONSANTO SCAM

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Rick Martin, 4/22/98: [quoting]

The following article gives me cause to believe that consumers should at the least have an option to identify milk produced with rBGH (Bovine Growth Hormone), that further independent government studies on the use of rBGH be undertaken (with a ban on its use in mind), and that the corrupt and illegal practices of Monsanto Corp. (or any other business enterprise) described below be scrutinized and curtailed.

Always, John VanDenover, 1740 Southview Dr. NW, Cedar Rapids, IA 52405; 319-396-0844

Monsanto and Censorship—Just as I was finishing editing this issue of NW, I was referred to webpage which coincidentally involved more evil by the Monsanto Company. I will sum it up, but I strongly encourage all of you to read one article at <<http://www.monitor.net/rachel/r593.html>> <www.monsanto.com> if you want to see what they’ve got to say.

Essentially, TV reporters Jane Akre and Steve Wilson were fired from their jobs at Fox Channel 13 WTVT in Tampa, Florida because they wrote a deep, important piece about rBGH (a synthetic chemical which allows cows to produce more milk), and Monsanto, and Akre/Wilson refused to back down or dilute the story when asked to by their superiors.

Akre and Wilson did a four-part investigative report on rBGH, its potential health effects, the use of rBGH by local farmers, the distribution of milk in Florida which may or may not have come from cows treated with rBGH, and the claims and counterclaims regarding the drug from Monsanto and other scientists.

I read the full transcript of the report and was extremely impressed. It was well-done, in-depth, pretty objective, and important. I didn’t know that TV journalism could be this good; and evidently, it can’t, as they lost their jobs over it and the story was never aired. The report had a number of important revelations. Publicly, Monsanto claims that there are no ill-effects of drinking milk from cows treated with rBGH, but Akre and Wilson show that rBGH is seen as potentially dangerous by many scientists, and by Monsanto's own internal documents. Specifically, rBGH stimulates increased production of a hormone called IGF-1, which causes the cows to produce more milk. Studies show that this leads to increased levels of IGF-1 in the milk itself (although the amount of the increase is disputed), and IGF-1 has been linked to increased rates of cancer in humans. The scientists interviewed seemed to think that more tests should be done to verify health risks, and implied that the drug should not be used until reliable results are available.

In addition, the report shows that Monsanto's health effects research that allowed the drug's passage by the FDA was amazingly brief, misleading, and fraudulent (but as we see from Alex's article above, Monsanto is no novice in that area). Akre and Wilson questioned local farmers, and found that nearly all farmers in Florida use Monsanto's rBGH in their cows, so it would be virtually impossible for a concerned consumer in the area to get non-rBGH milk. In fact, dairies which have tried to label their milk as "rBGH-free" have been sued and intimidated by Monsanto. This story is an incredibly valid issue of public health in the community, and country.

And finally, when the journalists tried to point out a potential health problem, one that could cost the Monsanto Company money, Monsanto sent its legal staff to get WTVT. The station caved, and edited the story to be softer, misleading, even occasionally false. When Akre and Wilson refused to air the story, they were harassed and cajoled until they were finally fired. Akre and Wilson are currently suing WTVT, claiming that the station attempted to knowingly broadcast lies, which is a violation of FCC rules.

This is of course disturbing for a number of reasons: Explicit corporate vetoes of important news stories; human health at risk due to a drive for profit; the failure of regulatory bodies to protect the public; infringement of free speech of individuals (the small dairies) by pressure from the wealthy; the inability for the public to choose to not have these potentially dangerous chemicals used to produce their food. It is the sort of thing which we all know happens regularly, but that we don't see in such clear terms very often.

DRIVEN TO SUICIDE

An average of 25 South Koreans a day are committing suicide, with most believed driven to desperation by economic woes, prosecutors said Wednesday. Thousands of companies have collapsed and the number of jobless people has doubled to more than 1.5 million since South Korea called in the International Monetary Fund in December to bail out its floundering economy. PANEL REJECTS MEASURE

From THE MODESTO BEE, 4/23/98: [quoting]

SACRAMENTO, CA—A key Assembly committee on Tuesday shot down an attempt to protect computer companies from massive “millennium bug” lawsuits, as legislators agreed with trial lawyers that the industry should not be given cover for “a crisis of its own making”. The measure, co-authored by Republican Assemblymen Jim Cunneen of Campbell and Brooks Firestone of Santa Barbara, would have limited the financial liability of designers and manufacturers of computer systems, programs and software due to problems expected Jan. 1, 2000. [End quoting]

Maybe this will help bring pressure for some corrections before the deadline.

WHAT’S UP WITH THE SHROUD?

From THE MODESTO BEE, 4/20/98: [quoting]

Can God be cloned? We might get an answer soon, if researchers are allowed to proceed with a bizarre set of experiments on the Shroud of Turin, which is said to be the burial cloth of Jesus. According to The Washington Post, some scientists and shroud aficionados are pushing for in-depth DNA testing of blood from the cloth. They believe such an experiment could determine whether the man who was wrapped inside the shroud was Jewish and whether his DNA came only from his mother, which would prove the virgin birth. The shroud will be on exhibit in 2000. [End quoting]

I also read in Spotlight that some people are proposing making a movie around the cloning of Immanuel (Jesus) from DNA taken from the shroud. What if they succeeded with getting a live body whose brain and mind would be integrated with it?? Ponder the ramifications of that!

JUDGES FIGHT CRITICS

From THE MODESTO BEE, 4/21/98: [quoting]

Lawyers who criticize judges in the nation’s largest federal court could face fines, suspension or even disbarment under a proposal that critics say would violate civil rights. An ad hoc committee of judges has recommended barring attorneys from making remarks that “impugn the character or integrity of any judicial officer” in the vast Central District of California that encompasses seven counties from San Luis Obispo to Orange. [End quoting]

And there are no worse judges around than those—who need to be exposed for their blatant lawlessness.

ANTI-SEMITIC HATRED UP

From THE MODESTO BEE, 4/23/98: [quoting]

Aided by the Internet, anti-Jewish propaganda around the world intensified in 1997, although the level of anti-Semitic violence remained relatively low, according to a report published Wednesday. “The Internet has become a vehicle for spewing almost unlimited anti-Semitic hatred and Holocaust denial,” said Anti-Defamation League director Rabbi David Rosen. The number of anti-Semitic Internet sites doubled, according to the report, “Anti-Semitism Worldwide”. [End quoting]

My interpretation of this is: The Jews are beginning to feel the pressures of the “Goyim” awakening and they are beginning to panic. There are many people awakening who don’t know the proper way to handle their frustrations about what these elite have done to them and, of course, they will only “add fuel to the fire” if they respond in a negative manner. Hopefully these people will learn before it is too late that we can win only by approaching this situation from a positive position.

BLINK YOUR EYE

From TORONTO TV, courtesy of a CONTACT reader, 4/23/98: [quoting]

Soon a blink of the eye could be all that’s necessary to withdraw money from a bank machine/automatic teller. The customer has only to walk up to the machine, blink into the “viewer screen” and presto, the amount of money punched in is automatically dispensed. When fully developed, the system will enable consumers to throw away their pin numbers and all their plastic bank cards.

A camera scans the iris of the eye which is as unique as a fingerprint and chances that anyone else’s could match are about a billion to one.

This technology is called imaging, and was developed at the University of Cambridge. This news story took place at Swindon, UK, where the technology was set up for demo purposes, the focus for this TV broadcast.

Imaging technology is of the same nature as used for military purposes, was used at the recent Olympics for I.D. purposes, and has been used with horses for security/safety reasons and “property ownership” reasons.

This shows how rapidly high-tech security systems are being developed. The news reporter’s final comment was something like, “won’t it be wonderful if one day soon we can throw away all the plastic we carry as well as the keys to our house. I mean, we lose them all the time anyway. All we’d have to do is walk up to the front door and blink at it.” [End quoting]

It is one more way for Big Brother to keep track of us. Every time you use this ID they know where you are and what you are doing. Great technology—for WHOM??

WHEN’S THE MILLENNIUM?

Excerpted from THE JOHNSON CITY PRESS, 4/22/97, [quoting:]

Hardly a day goes by when you’re not confronted with some reference to the upcoming millennium.

The definition of a millennium is a thousand-year period.

Some people are complaining these days about all the talk going around about celebrating the dawn of a new millennium on Jan. 1, 2000. But if a millennium is 1,000 years, then there’s an argument that 2001 is the beginning. They say the second millennium after the official birth of Christ will not end until the end of 2000.

This is true, because after all, there was no year zero. If the first year was one, then the thousandth year was 1000, and the second millennium didn't start until the first was over, i.e. on Jan. 1, 1001. So the third millennium doesn't start until Jan. 1, 2001.

The people who staunchly make this point deserve a response. Here is the best one:

Oh, come off it!

We—the people of the world—are going to celebrate Jan. 1, 2000, as the big one, indeed, the millennial one. Deal with it.

Incidentally, for those who just like to party, celebrate the millennium twice, both in 2000 and 2001. [End quoting]

The year 2000 has already passed, approximately a decade ago—if you count by an accurate calendar. Esu “Jesus” Immanuel was born Aug. 8, 8 BC—not 1 AD.

MONEY TALKS

Russia, being pressured into a new nuclear- test-ban treaty, understood that the U.S. would be able to go right on testing—on super computers. This created a demand for similar computer power which US. makers scrambled to fill. However the Clinton administration, while talking coyly to the Russians, would not license any sales of military-capable computers to them. A private deal was cut wherein Russia received 16 German-made IBM super computers by a circuitous route. U.S. officials found out and want them returned, but the Russians are saying “nyet” and stonewalling inquiries quoting “national security”. MEDIA TO BE SUPPRESSED BY U.S. GOVERNMENT

From the INTERNET, courtesy of Calvin Burgin, 4/25/98: [quoting]

The United States and its Western allies in the Bosnia peacekeeping operation are creating a tribunal that will have the power to shut radio and television stations and punish newspapers that it decides are engaged in propaganda that is undermining the peace.

Western officials involved in organizing the panel, which is charged with drafting new laws to regulate broadcast outlets in Bosnia-Herzegovina, said its powers would be used to stop what they described as poisonous propaganda.

The move is raising concerns among journalists’ organizations and other civil liberties groups. Those groups say they are concerned about any attempt by an alliance of democratic nations to impose restraints on the press and broadcasting in another country.

The proposed tribunal, which would be partly financed by the United States, highlights the awkward situation in which the United States finds itself, both as an international defender of free speech [what a farce!!] and as a military power trying to enforce a peacekeeping agreement among fractious ethnic groups.

Western officials involved in organizing the panel said it would monitor what news organizations publish and broadcast to be certain that they met what are deemed “internationally accepted standards”.

Organizations that are determined to have published or broadcast propaganda in violation of those standards would be subject to formal warnings, fines and, for radio and television stations, revocation of their licenses.

While acknowledging that they felt uncomfortable regulating broadcasters and print reporters’ work, Western officials refused to describe the tribunal as the sort of censorship usually associated with an occupying military power.

The officials said they felt they had no other option, given the venomous propaganda that they said often masquerades as news coverage in Bosnia and that can threaten the safety of the U.S.-led NATO peace-keeping force there.

“Basically there’s a tradition here of propaganda in the class of Goebbels,” said Simon Haselock, a spokesman in Bosnia for the civilian operations of the peacekeeping force. “What we’re trying to do is put in place a regime that offers a legal framework that improves and guarantees press freedom. It’s not about censorship.” [End quoting]

This is called double-speak gobble-de-goop. Since when did government put censorship into effect for the good of the people?? This old line has been in effect since the first government was set up.

Education, not censorship, is the way to have honest government.

BRAND NAMES LOSE TO PARALLEL IMPORTS

From WARRINGTON INTERNATIONAL NEWSLETTER, 4/98: [quoting]

On March 9, the US Supreme Court ruled that copyright laws cannot be used to block “unauthorized” imports of name-brand cosmetics, jewelry, home electronics and other goods.

The unanimous decision stipulates that when the original manufacturer sells the branded goods abroad which are then resold—to an American importer, a manufacturer cannot stop the imports just because such goods carry a protected logo, label or packaging.

The situation arises because it is a common practice among many US manufactures to heavily discount their exports of luxury goods, often by as much as 40%. This price discrepancy leaves plenty of margin for re-import, sale and distribution to the major US retailers such as Wal-Mart Stores Inc., DaytonHudson Corp. (Target Stores) and Costec. This decision effectively upholds and extends the legal notion that companies can only protect profits derived from the “first sale” of goods. At the time of the decision, the justices wondered aloud why copyright laws should make US consumers pay more than foreigners for the same products. [End quoting]

It’s hard to believe that the court voted against the manufacturing cartels for a change, but of course US consumers get the gaff, again.

BLOOD VESSELS GROWN FROM PATIENTS’ CELLS

From POPULAR MECHANICS magazine, May 1998: [quoting]

Bioengineers have constructed an artificial blood vessel that is 20 times stronger than natural ones—and it's made entirely from human cells. The replacement blood vessel, which contains no synthetic materials, can be used for patients who need coronary bypass surgery. “The blood vessel displays the function, look and feel of real tissue,” says Nicolas L'Heureux, a researcher at the University of California, San Diego School of Engineering, and a leader of the project.

Cells for the artificial blood vessel are extracted from vessels in the patient's leg and then grown in a bioreactor that simulates human body conditions. “We mimic the body's environment, and transform skin cells into blood vessel cells,” says L'Heureux.

A blood vessel grown from a patient's own cells promises several advantages. With no chance of an immune response, no scar tissue will build around the artificial vessel. Consequently, doctors can make smaller, more precise matches with the natural blood vessel and improve blood flow patterns. [End quoting]

Sounds like a great boon for circulatory illnesses.

THE MOUNTAIN OF UNPAYABLE DEBT

Excerpted from MILITARY magazine, 5/98: [quoting]

Oddly, there are those who think the government does things for the people instead of to the people [emphasis mine].

What no one wants to talk about is the DEBT! Five trillion dollars. What is five trillion dollars? It is the equivalent of all the stocks and mutual funds owned by all Americans three years ago. This amount comes to about $20,000 per man, woman and child in the USA. Your taxes go to pay the interest. The principal never goes down (it would be impossible to make a dent in it). Actually, it continues to climb. The interest payments will continue forever.

At various events Congressmen and Senators are cheered and applauded and treated like royalty. They should be pelted with rotten fruit and spoiled eggs. Every national politician of the last 50 years should be charged with breach of fiduciary trust. They have given you the shaft.

Should you think that is too strong a phrase or too harsh an indictment, think about this: There may be, among our younger readers, someone with a wife and two children at home. Look around the room at your family. You are looking at $80,000 in debt that will never, ever be paid off.

For generation after generation after generation the interest will have to be paid. Did the politicians do something for you, or to you? —Armond [End quoting]

Violence is not the answer, but they deserve to be put in prison for a long time as traitors.

A MANAGEABLE LOAD

From GUIDEPOSTS, Jan. 1998, P.O. Box 1479, Carmel, NY 10512: [quoting]

I had been mucking out the horses' stalls for half an hour and I hadn't made a dent. Because the winter of 1994 had been colder and snowier than usual, the horses couldn't be let out for long periods. Now huge heaps of manure were frozen solid.

Hauling the stuff out of the barn was not easy. The path was blocked by a four-foot-high snowbank. Dragging the plastic bucket full of frozen manure and wet hay was a big pain.

Each time I got to the door I looked for an easy way out. And each time, I recalled my mother saying: "Offer it up." That was her answer to life's hardships, large or small—offer them up to the Lord as a show of humility, service and love.

I stepped outside, pulling the heavy, smelly bucket "Okay, Lord, this one is in petition for the continued happiness of my family." I thought of all the families I knew racked by fighting, separation and divorce. By the time I got back to the barn I had tucked in a prayer for those families not as happy as ours, asking God to grant them peace.

Good health came to mind with the next load. Here I was, strong of body and mind, able to do what had to be done. If I attacked this task in manageable loads I would have the strength to see it through. Again I thought of others not so fortunate. My aches and complaints were nothing by comparison.

Each time I offered up another load I came around to realize how blessed I am—with a home in the country, a well-paying job, good friends, a wonderful wife and two children. "Even this chore isn't all that bad," I finally decided.

As the winter Sun set red and glorious behind the knoll of ancient apple trees, my wife, Linda, trudged up the path to do the evening animal chores. But I had beaten her to them, a truly unusual event. "What a load!" she said, staring at the pile the size of a station wagon. "Your back must be broken."

"Not really," I said. Instead a weight I had carried had been lifted. My worries were gone, lifted away as lightly as the pale smoke coming from the house's chimney. Each care had been transformed into a prayer. And, in fact, as I stood admiring my work, with sweat chilling beneath my hat and sweater, I felt better than ever. —Thomas Schwarz, Pleasant Valley, New York [End quoting]

CHAPTER 8

NEWS DESK SPECIAL REPORT

THE JEWISH US AMBASSADORS

by Dr. Al Overholt 5/2/98

THE JEWISH U.S. AMBASSADORS

From the INTERNET, courtesy Sofie Mattsson <sofiem@algonet.se>, 4/29/98: [quoting]

The Jewish US. Ambassadors mentioned here have been chosen not because of their ethnical origin, but because of their political ideology and POLITICAL position regarding the Palestine question, as POLITICAL actors.

They are mentioned not because they are Jews, but they are mentioned because we believe that the Jewish lobby in the US has created a dangerous concentration of power which we believe is troublesome to the democracy of that country and dangerous for the peace in the Middle East.

It is a political analysis which has been made by many observers, including Israeli newspapers.

Just the fact that the Jews don't agree with our political views should not allow them to deprive us of our human right of freedom of speech.

The tragic reality is this: Freedom of speech is almost non-existent in many European countries.

We hope that censorship will not prevail over the content of our or any other homepages.

It is the situation in the Middle East that is very much inflamed—the parties concerned in the debate and the conflict only reflect the real polarization.

To the Palestinians and Muslims the Zionists appear to be the Nazis of today.

To the victims of Zionism this ideology is not experienced as something positive, but rather as a symbol of evil.

This Jewish concentration of power in USA gives world Jewry tremendous influence to promote their “special agenda”. Never before in American history have so many Jews been appointed as US Ambassadors. They are all members of powerful Jewish organizations.

These are hardened supporters of Israel and the “Jewish race”. It is impossible for them to put the interests of America ahead of their Zionist state. None would hold these ambassadorships unless they were members of the ruling Jewish elite. Here is their listing which you will never see in the daily press.

THE JEWISH US AMBASSADORS:

GERMANY: Ambassador John C. Kornblum

Germany has long been seen as an adversary of the Jews. Thus a Jewish Ambassador places them under direct Jewish pressure.

FRANCE: Ambassador Felix Rohatyn

Rohatyn is a former partner in the Jewish Lazard Freres investment bank. In September the French oil company, "Total", invested $2 billion in the production of oil in Iran. Rohatyn is seeking to veto this project due to Israel's hostility toward Iran. Rohatyn said: "Globalization doesn't carry a threat, but it carries discipline."

POLAND: Ambassador Daniel Fried

Chester Grabowski, editor of The Polish Post Eagle, and others urged Clinton to name a Polish American. This plea was ignored. There has never been a Jew ambassador to Poland before as Jews hold an animosity toward Poles. This is considered as a gross insult. Regardless, Fried jokingly said: "I will now have to brush up on their language."

DENMARK: Ambassador Edward E. Elson

Dr. Fields attended Marist High School in Atlanta with the Elson brothers. He learned that their family made a fortune in the textile business and are big contributors to the Democratic Party.

HUNGARY: Ambassador Donald M. Blinken

This country has long been considered "anti-Semitic". Budapest has the largest Jewish population in Europe, some 125,000 Jews, only exceeded by Paris. Thus Blinken can protect their financial interests.

ROMANIA: Ambassador Alfred H. Moses

At one time Romania was ruled by an all-Jewish Communist Party under Anna Pauka. Romania is closely allied with Israel. Six members of the Rumanian Senate, three of them priests, objected to Clinton's 1994 appointment of Moses stating that he was closely connected to the fallen Communist Ceausescu regime.

BELGIUM: Ambassador Alan J. Blinken

Antwerp, Belgium is the diamond capital of the world, next to Tel Aviv. The diamond business is totally Jew-controlled. Blinken is in a position to further protect their interests. He is related to the Blinken ambassador to Hungary.

BELARUS: Ambassador Kenneth S. Yalowitz

Belarus is located between Poland and Russia. It once had a huge Jewish population. They still have interests there.

SOUTH AFRICA: Ambassador James A. Joseph

The Jewish Oppenheimer family controls this gold-mining capital of the world. The Jewish-run South African Communist Party and the ANC now control the government and loyally do the bidding of the gold interests.

INDIA: Ambassador Frank G. Wisner

This economic powerhouse has long sided with the Arabs against Israel and needs more Zionist control.

TURKEY: Ambassador Marc Grossman

The “Kemalist” Turkey is the only Middle East border country with a military alliance with Israel. They pose a threat to Syria and Iraq over long-simmering border disputes. Mustafa Kemal Ataturk was a secret Jewish infiltrator! This explains the alliance between the Ataturk-influenced military regime in Turkey and the fraudulent and criminal state of Israel! This also explains the opposition of the “Kemalian” junta against the renaissance of Islam amongst the muslim people of Turkey! About the Jewish Ataturk: visit the Jewish homepage “Famous Jews”.

NEW ZEALAND: Ambassador Josiah H. Beeman

EGYPT: Ambassador Daniel C. Kurtzer

Egypt is the recipient of the second largest amount of US foreign aid. This is to “buy off” Israel’s southern front. Any hostility toward Israel would end the aid.

SWEDEN: Ambassador Thomas L. Siebert

MOROCCO: Ambassador Marc C. Ginsberg

SINGAPORE: Ambassador Timothy A. Chorba

ZAMBIA: Ambassador Arlene Render

BRAZIL: Ambassador Melvyn Levitsky

This is South America’s largest country and economic powerhouse. Jews have huge investments here.

BOLIVIA: Ambassador Curt W. Kamman

This is another mineral-rich country; copper, magnesium, lead, etc.

MEXICO: Ambassador Jeffrey Davidow

Davidow was formerly Assistant Sec. Of State for South America under Albright. Mexico sends the US more immigrants and trade than any other nation.

CANADA: Ambassador Gordon Giffin

Thus Clinton has given both our border neighbors, Mexico and Canada, to Jewish operatives.

CUBA: US Interest Head, Michael G. Kozak

One would think that this nation would have a Spanish Catholic “Interest Chief” instead of a Jew???

NORWAY: Ambassador David B. Hermelin

Hermelin is a Michigan multi-millionaire real estate developer and president of the World Jewish ORT Union. Owns Palace Sports and Entertainment, “The Palace” of Auburn Hills and the “Pine Knob Music Theater”.

SWITZERLAND: Ambassador Madeleine M. Kunin

Kunin is the former Democratic governor of Vermont. Her four children attended a Hebrew school. The New York Times of Oct. 4, 1997 says she, “doggedly pursues the Swiss on the issue of gold for holocaust survivors.”

NEWS DESK SPECIAL REPORT

ADL STRIKES AGAIN IN TYPICAL SLEEZY STYLE

by Dr. Al Overholt 5/2/98

MORE LIGHT ON THE JEUS' SHENANIGANS

PERSONAL FROM THE EDITOR

From THE SPOTLIGHT, 4/27/98: [quoting]

There is a conspiracy against freedom. This is not speculation. The conspirators, as a matter of fact, are so arrogant that they present their conspiracy as a boon to Americans. The perpetrators are representatives of a powerful special interest group that acts as the agent of a foreign power. Now, they have enlisted corporate America to help them prevent you from reading what you want, in the library or on the Internet.

'BOOK BURNING' LIST EXTENDED TO WEB SITES ON THE INTERNET

From THE SPOTLIGHT, by Ray Bower, 4/23/98: [quoting]

An American author has identified the force behind a rash of book thefts from public libraries across the country. He says the same group is also trying to censor the Internet. But patriots are now uniting behind a comprehensive effort to combat this thievery and bring it to public attention.

Veteran SPOTLIGHT correspondent Michael Collins Piper has pinpointed an interesting similarity among a number of books which have “disappeared” from public and college libraries throughout the United States.

Based upon Piper's research, these “disappearing” books have one thing in common: each contains information that the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) of B'nai B'rith wants suppressed.

What's more, notes Piper, the ADL is the one and only organized pressure group that has objected to each of these volumes.

The SPOTLIGHT correspondent began researching the matter when he learned that copies of his own JFK assassination blockbuster, Final Judgment, had been disappearing from libraries all across America.

Piper's highly controversial book pinpoints the role of Israel's intelligence agency, the Mossad, alongside the CIA and the Meyer Lansky crime syndicate, in the assassination of John F. Kennedy. However, Piper notes, his book is just one of the books that is being illicitly taken from America's libraries.

EMERGENCY ALERT

Working with the Washington, D.C.-based Foundation to Defend the First Amendment (FDFA), Piper has sent out a special emergency alert to American patriots warning them of this phenomenon.

Piper notes that his own book has been “disappearing” and adds that “I don't like it one bit.” He notes, however, that “my book isn't the only one that has suffered this fate.”

And, he adds, “the same people who are behind the effort to suppress my book are also trying to censor the Internet.”

According to Piper, America's public libraries are being systematically looted of books that are deemed “politically incorrect”. He cites the following examples of which he is personally aware:

* Fearless investigative reporter Hank Messick's book Lansky, detailing the life and crimes of underworld syndicate chief Meyer Lansky, has been stolen from thousands of libraries all across America. When the book was first released, the Anti-Defamation League (ADL) of B'nai B'rith claimed that Messick was inciting “anti-Semitism” by reporting on Lansky's misdeeds. (Lansky, it so happens, was a major financial contributor to the ADL.)

After the ADL was unable to stop the book from being published, the ADL's operatives found another way to silence the truth about Lansky's preeminent role in the underworld and Messick's book has all but disappeared.

* In the same vein, author Albert Fried's 1980 book, The Rise and Fall of the Jewish Gangster in America, has suffered a similar fate—precisely because it contains information that upsets the ADL. Fried recently republished his book and wryly pointed out that “too few libraries still possess copies [of the original edition] as many were evidently expropriated for personal use.”

* Pulitzer Prize-winning author Seymour Hersh's book, The Samson Option, which exposes the corruption and intrigue surrounding Israel's secret development of a nuclear weapons arsenal—against the wishes of President Kennedy—created quite a furor when it was first released. Hersh's exposé has suffered the same fate as other “banned books”. It, too, is systematically disappearing from libraries throughout the country.

* As long ago as 1933, the ADL was engaged in a heavy-handed effort to discourage distribution of Madison Grant's book, The Conquest of a Continent, which had just recently been published.

“Can there be any doubt,” asks Piper, “that the ADL is behind this ongoing robbery of America's libraries?” He points out that the ADL is the one and only organized pressure group that has affiliates in every major community in America. “And although it's not commonly known,” he notes, “there are even B'nai B'rith lodges in some of the smallest cities in America.

“This thievery,” he concludes, “is part of a criminal conspiracy [in the specific legal sense of the word] and it seems apparent the ADL is the mastermind behind this corrupt combine. All of this is a subtle, yet ruthlessly effective way of suppressing freedom of speech in America. It’s high time the ADL’s dirty tricks be brought to a halt. As a journalist and as an author who values our First Amendment freedoms, I take great offense at this.”

However, Piper notes, there’s much more to the story. In recent years, as new communications technology has begun to blossom—particularly with the rise in popularity of the Internet—the ADL has come up with new—and more subtle—ways of censoring freedom of speech and consigning the First Amendment to the Orwellian memory hole.

In collaboration with The Learning Company (based in Cambridge, Massachusetts) the ADL has now perfected a new computer program called “Cyber Patrol” and is promoting it to libraries that provide Internet access to students and to the public.

Although the program is ostensibly designed to limit access by young people to Internet websites containing “pornography” and “obscenity”, the ADL-sponsored program also blocks out websites of patriotic groups the ADL doesn’t like.

What’s more outrageous is that if a student or other library patron tries to access the website of a populist newspaper such as The SPOTLIGHT, the ADL’s computer program actually redirects Internet users to the ADL’s own Internet website.

But this is only the tip of the iceberg. The ADL has also had a hand in formulating several other Internet screening programs that are already in use by schools and libraries. Here’s another example that Piper learned about:

When a SPOTLIGHT reader went to his public library and tried to use the library’s computer to contact The SPOTLIGHT’s website, an ADL-sponsored program installed in the computer wouldn’t allow him access. He was told that The SPOTLIGHT fell into a broad category which indicated it was either a “hate [pro-White] group” or promoting “satanism” or “violence” and that the computer program would not permit access to such websites.

According to Piper, “In the old days ADL agents stole books they didn’t like from the libraries. Today the ADL is using space-age technology to act as the arbiter of what people should—and should not—read. And the ADL is getting away with this all across America”.

Armed with the information he uncovered, Piper is now working with the Foundation to Defend the First Amendment (FDFA), headed by investigative reporter Jim Tucker, to expose the ADL’s role in this sordid conspiracy.

Piper says that “FDFA has been in the forefront of defending the First Amendment rights of patriots for over 10 years now and has a record to be proud of. And I’m pleased to be associated with FDFA’s efforts in this new realm.” If enough people—particularly librarians—are made aware of what is happening, says Piper, they will now be more alert to what’s really going on—and why. “I hope patriots will unite behind

FDFA in this important educational campaign.” [End quoting]

The elite won't stop their censorship until WE stop them. Let's do it now!!

PUBLISHERS WARNED ABOUT “TERRORISTS”

American Patriots make foreign-born Secretary of State Madeleine Albright nervous.

From THE SPOTLIGHT, by James P. Tucker Jr., 4/27/98: [quoting]

Secretary of State Madeleine Albright's outburst before the American Society of Newspaper Publishers is a symptom of how nervous the administration has become over a rising tide of populist patriotism, according to a high government official.

“She was preaching to the choir, but they needed the message because they are hearing more and more from their readers that their loyalty belongs to the United States and not the United Nations,” said the high State Department official.

Mrs. Albright was echoing the sentiments of her leader, Bill Clinton, who, on April 22, 1993 at the dedication of the Holocaust Memorial Museum, called Liberty Lobby, by name, “depraved and insensate”.

A year ago, the administration would not allow such speeches by cabinet officers on grounds it “would dignify the right wing”, said the official, who has been a reliable observer for more than a decade.

“Now, the issue of patriotism and national sovereignty is on the rise,” he said. “More Americans—the type who work, pay taxes and vote—are becoming aware of the effort to make the UN a world government and they are being heard.”

Thus, he said, the White House decided it was necessary to respond, and chose the publishers' meeting in Washington as the forum so the newspapers could be warned not to “deal seriously” with the issue.

ALBRIGHT'S MESSAGE

“There are some who believe the UN is a sinister organization” with “a fleet of black helicopters which may, at any moment, swoop down into our back yards and steal our lawn furniture,” Mrs. Albright said.

“They say it is bent on world domination, which is absurd, and that we cannot trust it because it is full of foreigners, which we really can't help,” Mrs. Albright said.

“The UN is not an alien presence on U.S. soil, it was made in America,” she said.

“She neglected to point out that the UN was made on land provided by the Rockefellers with a charter Alger Hiss [a convicted traitor] helped draft,” the official said. “When they go out of Manhattan to inspect our prisons or whatever, they are an ‘alien presence on U.S. soil’.”

He was referring to the donation of the site of UN headquarters in Manhattan by the Rockefeller family and to the late Soviet spy who was the No. 2 man in the State Department, who traveled with President Franklin Roosevelt to Yalta in 1945, and helped draft the UN Charter.

She drew applause from the publishers when she accused Congress of “blackmail” for attaching pro-life amendments to a bill to pay about $1 billion in arrears the UN claims, saying America should pay her “bills”.

“It is encouraging to see the hysteria mounting,” the official said. “It means that patriots are gaining ground.”
[End quoting]

Have you ever seen anybody more absurd than MAD-eleine?? Interesting name??

CHAPTER 10

REPORT TO THE PEOPLE:

JONESBORO, ARKANSAS AND RELATED MATTERS

Gary L. Wean 3/28/98

Editor's note: For those of you who may be new to our readership, meet Gary L. Wean: he entered the Los Angeles Police Department Academy in 1946, after making a number of distinguishing contributions in World War II. Along the road of a brilliant police career, he eventually became Chief Investigator for the Ventura County Public Defender Office. Gary had contributed many articles to CONTACT, but none created a bigger stir than our Front Page for our 9/6/94 issue, when he wrote the definitive story called, "O.J. Simpson Frame-Up: Jewish Mafia Conspiracy For Race Riots & Revolution" which we have, by popular demand, been pressured to reprint on several later occasions.

The shootings and deaths at Jonesboro, Arkansas, Westside Middle School occurred Tuesday, March 25, 1998.

Guns, Guns, Guns, and more Guns—it's all you hear from the Mongol Jew propaganda TV stations like CNN. Over and over they pound it, beating it into the heads of the people—they scream: "The proliferation [a key word] of guns is killing our children."

And in Washington, D.C., all of the Mongol Jew politicians stridently pick up the chant and bellow for more 'Gun control' laws to take the guns away from the Christians.

But, that is their 'Big lie'—it is not Guns that are killing our children—it is the lies and chaos that are so evilly being crammed into their heads that are killing our children.

Because first, before they even get the idea to go get a gun, the thought must be introduced into the child's head that they want to kill somebody.

With this horrible evil that is being drummed into the heads of our children, even if all the Guns were gone they would simply grab up another weapon—an axe, a butcher knife, a claw hammer, or even strangle with their bare hands, as we shall see.

Remember, a weapon is not even going to move until someone picks it up—it is the thought of killing someone that must first be implanted in a child's head that causes them to pick up the weapon.

Herein we are going to expose the most important, integral part—and that is, from where are these evil, hideous ideas coming. And equally important, exactly how they are so insidiously implanting these deadly germs into the heads of our innocent young children and babies.

Now, all the mothers and fathers of young children, start off with this: using logic, common sense and the brains that God gave you, explain—to yourselves, your spouses and to everyone else—why? Why in the world do your babies and young children 6-to-13 years old need serious, binding, ‘girlfriend-boyfriend’ relations at such tender ages?

Many of us have long understood these dangers. But just recently some head-shrinks and mental-health experts are beginning to make loud noises. They suggest that recent school shootings in which girls have been the main victims, reflected a trickling down to younger ages of the sex-patterns that lead men to stalk and kill their girlfriends or ex-wives.

Yes, mothers and fathers, we are talking about Sex, not Guns.

It is Sex being drummed into their heads that is causing the children to pick up weapons.

In Jonesboro one of the young shooters told a girl classmate that he was very angry at his girlfriend—he didn’t like the idea of his girlfriend breaking up with him, dumping him—quote, “He said he was going to come to school and kill her one day.” On Monday, the day before the shooting he told her: “Tomorrow you will all find out if you live or die.”

The jealousies, tensions and pressure on these young, inexperienced children involving themselves in adult type ‘boyfriend-girlfriend’ sex relationships overwhelms them.

For months now, constantly, twenty-four hours a day the TV has paraded and flaunted the President Clinton-Monica Lewinsky ‘oral sex and adultery’ affair, leaving nothing to imagination.

Young children have been saturated with the TV ‘oral sex’ filth involving the President with a young woman.

Was this young Jonesboro shooter spurned, jilted by his twelve-year-old ‘girlfriend’ because she rejected his pressuring her to perform ‘oral sex’ like his ‘role-model’ Willie and Monica do it?

In Salem, Oregon at Bush Elementary School, seven-year-old boys (only 2nd graders, mind you) plotted to murder a seven-year-old girl because she had jilted their leader. They did not use Guns, (will Senator Diane Feinstein use this?) one boy held her hands, another clamped his hands over her mouth, a third boy held her nose and they strangled her. The girl had difficulty breathing and then stopped struggling—believing her to be dead, they left.

The second-grade gang leader said he got the idea from TV shows where he had seen them blow up a guy’s head. And that “a gang is a group of guys who hang out together at recess, beat up people and sometimes rob and kill people.”

All the TV polls taken of Americans claim that as long as Willie does a ‘good job’ his sex acts and adultery are his business and his popularity soars.

But Willie hasn’t been in America doing his job at all for a number of weeks—he has been in Africa solving Africa’s school problems.

Regarding Jonesboro, Arkansas—his home state—President Clinton, still in Africa, sent a message back to America: “We do not understand what drives children, whether in small towns or big cities, to pick up Guns and take the lives of others. We may never make sense of the senseless, but we have to try.”

From Africa, Clinton continued: “We have to understand that young children may not fully appreciate the consequences of actions that are destructive but may be able to be romanticized at a twisted moment.”

Still in Africa working on Africa’s school childrens’ problems, President Clinton sent another enlightening message to America. He noted: “The Jonesboro shooting was the third time in recent months a U.S. town has been shaken by the awful specter of students being killed by students.”

To solve the reason for these murders President Clinton said (and believe me this is scary): “I have asked Attorney General Janet Reno to organize experts on school violence to study the shootings and determine what steps can be taken to prevent such tragedies.” (Reno, as she herself explained ‘Waco’: we had to kill all those children to save them from their wicked parents.)

President Willie, the school childrens’ ‘oral sex’ role model, will return to America from Africa in a few weeks—it is not known if a proliferation (a key word) of oral sex has recently occurred in Africa.

Now we get to the ‘Dark Force’, who and what is causing all this murderous insanity.

The mothers and fathers of young children must take careful notice of President Clinton’s tricky words in his message he sent from Africa. Quoting Clinton, “We may never make sense of the senseless.”

This is a terrible, terrible lie uttered by a totally heartless, Godless man. Clinton knows full well that what is happening in our schools is far beyond just senseless. He is an integral part of the hideous plot and has admitted that there is: “A Dark Force behind it”, but Willie lies and says, quote, “I do not understand it.”

And mothers and fathers of young children, here it is. Some of the Jonesboro parents will reject this out of horror and ingrown fears of the Mongol Jews—they will crawl under their beds and hide, abandoning their children to their fate. And others, realizing in their hearts that they share blame for the deaths for having ignored obvious warning signs, and their ‘old-fashioned’ Christian intuition that something was horribly wrong in their Christian churches and with their preachers.

There has been an overpowering infiltration and manipulation of the American Christian schools and churches by this ‘Dark Force’ that Willie Clinton talks about—but claims he does not understand.

For years the Mongol Jews have propagandized insidious schemes that they have manufactured to tear up the minds of the Christians.

The worst of the Mongol Jews’ garbage is what they call ‘Judeo-Christian’ religion.

Even the most gullible of Christians should have easily figured that lie out, because all true Christians put their Faith in God and his son Jesus. But the Judaists (Mongol Jews) claim Jesus is a Jew and is not God’s Son and that Mary is a prostitute. Any Christian who involves himself in such blasphemous crap has made the mistake of abandoning and denying God and Jesus.

Christian mothers and fathers of young children in Jonesboro, Arkansas and Christians throughout America—the following is just one of the thousands and thousands of the insane Jew Talmud Laws that the Mongol Jews are implanting in Christian children's heads.

If any one of you can get past this one in your interfaith connections let me know. Kethuboth, 11a-11b: “When a grown up man has intercourse with a little girl it is nothing, for when a girl is less than this it is as if one puts the finger in the eye (7) for as tears come to the eyes again and again, so does virginity come back to the little girl under three years.” And the Mongol Jew filth goes on and on for hundreds and hundreds of pages.

Refer to Part 4 of “The Final Time Has Come”, published in the CONTACT newspaper, November 18, 1997 and recorded in Web-site address <www.garethw.com>.

One of the young Jonesboro shooters has juvenile charges pending for allegedly molesting a two-year-old girl.

Did this young Jonesboro shooter, after his faith connection indoctrinations into the Mongol Jew Talmud Law, Kethuboth 11a-11b, innocently believe that this little girl was fair-game because she was not yet 3 years old? After all, he was being taught this by officials of the Christian churches—what else was he to believe?

A Mongol Jew, Sigmund Sternberg fled Eastern Europe in 1939, penniless, as they all claim. He landed in England, but even though being penniless he founded real estate and software companies and became a multi-millionaire.

Sternberg was one of the earliest and most rabid advocates for ‘interfaith dialogue’. He is the executive committee chairman of the Mongol Jews’ poisonous International Council of Christians and Jews.

Recently Sternberg was chosen by a group of Mongol Jews to win the 1.2 million dollar Templeton Prize for Progress in Religion and he is now known in England as Sir Sigmund Sternberg. Another penniless Mongol Jew, rabbi Jacobovitz also won the 1.2 million Templeton Prize—he is now known as Lord Jacobovitz in England. Sternberg is going to have his award bestowed upon him at Buckingham Palace.

Sir Sigmund Sternberg is a very busy Mongol Jew, he also established the Three Faith Forum, supposedly to find common ground among Judaism, Islam and Christianity.

But with Judaism's sickness there is no common ground with either Christianity or Islam—it was just another Mongol Jew scam to spy on and sabotage other religions.

Here is another Mongol Jew Talmud Law that the mothers and fathers of young children in Jonesboro, Arkansas will love if they believe in Sternberg's interfaith and faith connection—just listen to this unbelievable insanity.

In the section called Sanhedrin, 54a-55a-55b, the rabbis preach that: “Pederasty (sodomy) bears no guilt as long as it is performed on boys less than nine years old and sex is permitted with girls less than three years old.”

What has happened? Are the two young shooters in Jonesboro victims of sex-molestations and of venting a terribly mind-boggled reaction??

To go along with all this, think about Sir Sternberg’s interfaith dialogue—he comes up with prize winners like this: “It is recognized that all religions have their own truths, and these shall be unassailable; there is a sense of spirit which soars above all else and which if harnessed could contribute to the creation of caring societies as nothing else could.”

Now we go to harnessing up these caring societies that this Mongol Jew creep Sir Sternberg propagates among Christians with his blasphemous interfaith and faith connection dialogue devilties.

On Friday, February 27, 1998 in Vancouver, Washington, Robert D. Bennefield, minister of the Lighthouse Christian Center Church was arrested and appeared in court where he was charged with first degree child rape and second degree child molestation.

Bennefield posted bail and returned home with his wife. He was temporarily replaced by Rev. Don Funderburg from the Church of God based in Cleveland, Tennessee. The Lighthouse Christian Center is under jurisdiction of the Church of God.

The two boys that Rev. Bennefield sodomized were 7- and 13-year-old members of the church who said they were raped in the minister’s home. The Lighthouse Christian Center is at 3402 R. Street, in the Rosemere neighborhood of Vancouver, Washington; 360-694-4502.

Rev. Funderburg, the replacement sent from the Church of God, told the congregation to pray for Bennefield and that he had helped other churches face this problem. Funderburg told them, “God’s love will pull you through this storm.” As he hugged a man who seemed on the verge of collapse and as families and couples prepared to file out into the glare of the television cameras, Funderburg ‘cautioned’ them: “I know that many of you are angry and frustrated, but be careful what you say—the entire neighborhood and community are listening.”

Yes, Christian mothers and fathers of young children—the last thing in the world Reverend Funderburg wanted the congregation talking about was Sir Sigmund Sternberg’s prize-winning interfaith dialogue and the Mongol Jew Talmud Law of Sanhedrin, 54a, 55a, 55b: “Pederasty (sodomy) bears no guilt as long as it is performed on boys less than nine years old and sex is permitted with girls less than three years old.”

Bennefield, like Willie the ‘role model’, had become so overwhelmed with passion that he had slipped up—one of the boys was overage, 13 years old.

This is what Sir Sternberg is referring to when he blabbers about: “the sense of soaring spirits and harnessing up to the creation of caring societies.”

In Dallas, Texas, a Mongol Jew, Rudolph 'Rudy' Kos had infiltrated the Catholic Church and became a Roman Catholic Priest.

On Wednesday, April 1, 1998 Kos was sentenced to 'life in prison' for sodomizing altar boys. Christian mothers and fathers of young children—'get this'—this fiend, Kos, had sodomized and sexually assaulted altar boys for over 5 years, more than one thousand, three hundred and fifty times. When Kos was sentenced he showed no remorse; his only reaction was, he was disappointed, upset at the sentence.

On Friday, March 13, 1998 in Kearney, Nebraska, a United Methodist Church (the same church that denied me the right to put my book, There's a Fish in the Courthouse into the public libraries) minister was found innocent of breaking the church's rules by marrying two queers. In San Francisco the reverend Karen Oliveto, pastor of Bethany United Methodist Church, describes these weddings of queers as "Holy Unions" between loving, committed life partners, lesbians, gays, bisexual and transgendered (you figure that one out) members."

Again, like the prize-winning Sir Sigmund Sternberg of England says, "There's this sense of spirit that soars above all else and we are harnessing up and contributing to the creation of caring societies as nothing else can."

But, Christian mothers and fathers of young children, don't forget Kethuboth and Sanhedrin—the rabbi says as long as the girls aren't over 3 years old and the boys aren't more than 9, it's okay.

Believe me, everybody, all the time that I am writing this horrible, horrible, sinister, evil Talmud Law crap of the Mongol Jews it makes me so sick to my stomach I can hardly write—but when I remember that these evil, low-life people claim they are 'God's Chosen People' and beat us down into the mud and manure with their horrible screams of 'anti-Semitic', I find the power and strength to continue.

Continuing with the United Methodist Church: Reverend Jimmy Creech, senior pastor of Omaha's largest United Methodist Church was being tried and could be stripped of his ministerial credentials for marrying two queers. The United Methodist Church is a church with 10 million members.

This brings us to a very frightening, all encompassing, specific point in all this evil killing of Christians by Christians going on in America. It is a complete break-down of Christian morality created by an insidious, conspiratorial invasion of Christianity by Mongol Jews. This isn't just involving religion, it is pure evil, big-time politics. (And where is the separation of Church and State the ACLU Mongol Jew shysters are forever screaming about.)

Listen to this: Reverend Jimmy Creech was backed politically by no one less than President William J. Clinton himself to gain control of the church. Clinton's United Methodist Church pastor, extremely influential Mongol Jew Phil Wogamon, pastor of the Foundry United Methodist Church in Washington, D.C., was sent personally to Omaha, to back Rev. Jimmy Creech and make certain he was found innocent.

Wogamon testified in Rev. Creech's defense and had many weird and un-Christian things to say in Creech's behalf. Christians, when you hear the Mongol Jew Wogamon's words in behalf of Creech, think about Kethuboth and Sanhedrin. Quoting Wogamon, "We have to find ways to be supportive of these committed homosexual relationships. The United Methodist Church speaks in many different voices.” (Yeh, in Yiddish, the Mongol Jew language.)

With this high-powered Washington, D.C. political pressure right from the oral-sex office of Clinton, Creech was found innocent of having disobeyed church rules against performing a ‘lesbian unity’ ceremony. Thus the church laws prohibiting fornication and adultery have evaporated under the assault of President William Clinton’s and pastor Phil Wogamon’s Mongol Jew political power and pressure.

For months the Hollywood TV production of President Willie and Monica and their ‘oral sex’ acts has been paraded and hoopl’d, bombarding America 24 hours a day. Children of every age hear, and in wonderment ask, what is ‘oral sex’ and how do you do it?

Well, according to the Hollywood TV and Washington, D.C. polls, millions of Americans (Christians) supposedly are of the definite opinion that Willie’s ‘sex acts’ are his own business and his popularity rises out of sight.

Have all the Christian mothers and fathers of young children gone insane, and their children have picked up on this?

We all know what happened in Jonesboro, Arkansas. And just about the time that President Willie and his conspirator Reverend Phil Wogamon were clinching the certification of queers in the United Methodist Church in Omaha—the 13-year-old shooter in Jonesboro had suddenly stopped going to the United Methodist Church and all of the other Christian churches he had been regularly attending in Jonesboro.

Also it was at this same time that one of the shooters broke up with his girlfriend. The attitudes of the two boys changed and they began making threats that his girlfriend was going to be shot.

And this is where the ‘head-shrinkers’ now come forth with their sadly late discovery that school shootings are a trickling-down to younger ages of sex patterns that lead men to stalk and kill their ex-wives and girlfriends.

But what happened is not just some mere happenstance, a so-called ‘trickling-down’, it’s a well planned, concentrated, evil conspiracy by the Mongol Jews to implant insanity into the heads of Christian children with their wicked, blasphemous Judeo-Christian interfaith crap. This implanting is assisted by the so-called ‘harmless drugs’ that have been approved by the school boards and administered to the students.

The Mongol Jews of Wall Street who own and control all the giant pharmaceutical corporations make billions of dollars from these school-prescribed drugs—but their pitch is, “Guns, Guns, we must do away with the Christians’ guns and give their children drugs to slow them down so they won’t kill each other.”

According to all the polls being huckstered on TV, Clinton and Monica’s ‘oral sex’ is the president’s own personal business—and his popularity soars.

Are these Washington, D.C. and Hollywood TV pollsters right when they claim these Christian mothers and fathers actually believe Willie is “doing the right thing” with his ‘oral sex’?

Was the direct cause of the Jonesboro killings a result of the 12-year-old girlfriend jilting her boyfriend because he was coming on too heavy with his demands for 'oral sex' like Willie and Monica 'do it'.

Mitchell Johnson, one of the shooters, was attending numerous churches in Jonesboro regularly when he suddenly stopped going a few weeks before the shooting. Had Mitchell himself been suffering sexual molestation, a victim of rape that set him off?

The Christian mothers and fathers in Jonesboro, to protect their small children must investigate and verify if the below-listed churches and others preach the evil interfaith dialogue and faith connection, Judeo-Christian crap which subjects the small children to the vile Mongol Jew Talmud sex laws.

And also extremely important, are they preaching from the false, blasphemous, forged, 'revised' Bibles such as the Mongol Jews' New International Version and the other 'revised' Bibles with their ridiculous fabricated claims that "Jews are God's Chosen People".

These phony 'revised' Bibles are anti-Christian and the parents who involve themselves and their children with this evil blasphemy are denying God and the Son of God.

These terrible killings that are taking place across America can strike anywhere, at any time, and will not stop until Christians put a stop to the Mongol Jew evil by exposing it to the light of day.

God is warning Christians it is time they put their Faith back in God. Acts 17:30: In the past God overlooked such ignorance, but now He commands all people everywhere to repent. 17:31: For He has set a day when He will judge the world with justice.

What God has said is loud and clear: All Christians must repent (change their ways). If they do not denounce the evil Mongol Jews he will no longer overlook their ignorance and the day is coming when they will be judged.

A federal judge, Susan Webber Wright just dismissed the Paula Jones case against President Willie Clinton.

Willie and all the Mongol Jews he has surrounded himself with in the White House scream in glee and proclaim a mighty victory.

The Great American Role Model has ‘done it again’ in the name of morals for America’s young people.

Across America, in the hallways of our schools the word is ‘Let’s do a Willie and Monica!!’

All the TV announcers and newspaper editors from Washington, D.C. to Hollywood, California have gotten the word—got their orders from the rabbi to hit it hard: “Willie has been vindicated from scandal—the American people don’t want to hear it anymore.”

But that couldn’t be further from the truth—Judge Susan Wright’s so-called ‘decision’ struck the people like a giant sledge hammer, a thunderbolt; it has exposed the hidden terrible truth across the land that the people are not to be allowed their day in court.

This terrible frustration has festered into a great anger, it has caused people to commit acts that they would ordinarily never dream of doing. It is tearing up our country. Recourse to the courts and redress of grievances are the bases of our freedom and the people are becoming aware that the Mongol Jews are denying us this right to ‘our day in court’ before an honest judge and true jury.

But Judge Susan Wright didn’t make that dismissal decision—James Carville, the insane, loudmouth Mongolian idiot who declared, quote, “War, this is War I say,” did it for her.

Don't forget the thousands of FBI-ADL dossiers that Willie and Hillary got from Louie Freeh. And Carville's investigation of Judge Wright where he learned she was a secret alcoholic, a Republican appointee, who had no business being on the bench. And why hasn't Starr investigated all this 'dossier' blackmail files, and criminal intimidation of the federal judges and congressmen. What is in all these blackmail and intimidation dossiers and files that Senators Feinstein and Specter are bludgeoning Senators Hatch, Helms and Thompson, etc., etc., with.

Under federal rules Judge Wright had only one requirement, and that was to determine IF—and that is the big word, IF—IF what Paula Jones alleged in her complaint was true, would there be a violation of her constitutional rights under the Civil Rights Law.

Under this requirement there is only one way Judge Susan Wright could lawfully dismiss the case. And that is if the allegations were so outlandish and so coupled with physical and scientific impossibilities that obviously they could not be true. For example, if Paula had alleged that Willie was going to put her on a rocket and blast her off to the Moon and set up a sex pad where she would be kept captive and he would visit her for sex on the weekends. That obviously could not be true and the judge would be required to write an opinion to this effect.

In no manner is Judge Wright allowed to attempt to try the case nor try to determine if the allegations are true; that is strictly the jury's duty to hear the evidence.

Yes, Wright wrote an opinion, and she attempted to emulate a situation as in the example above, by stressing that Clinton's actions were merely boorish and offensive behavior; but that does not meet the requirements of the Federal Rules the judge must follow.

To aid Wright in the direction she was wanting to go, she had erred earlier by stripping Jones of a vital witness, Monica Lewinsky. Not because Lewinsky wasn't a good witness but according to Wright it might prolong the trial if Lewinsky testified against Clinton. This was a flagrant, deliberate act by the judge to sabotage Jones by stripping the case of its necessary witnesses.

Again erring, Wright proceeded to tear into the evidence and rule on her own conclusion that Jones did not suffer sexual harassment under the Arkansas law. This is trying the case—which Wright cannot do. In her lawsuit, Paula Jones had wanted a jury trial, not a trial by the judge alone.

Having outrageously overstepped her authority and her jurisdiction, Wright proceeded to pull the rug out from under an American citizen and to deny Paula Jones her day in court, due process of law and determination by a jury.

This in no way was a vindication of Clinton, only more cover-up, aggravation and frustration for the American people.

Of course, Jones' attorneys should file an appeal, cover all bases, even though a crooked circuit court could drag it out indefinitely if they wanted to. (Refer to There's a Fish in the Courthouse, the Prologue—Re: major judicial corruption, pay-offs in the 8th Circuit by Judge Beam.)

But what Paula and her lawyers are now holding in their hands is far better than their appeal. They now have a brand new, beautiful case to file. A RICO case that involves a sophisticated, criminal gangster organization against whom they can go back and allege the original violations. A physical criminal assault and battery and conspiracy to lure and transport by trick and device an innocent, unsuspecting woman to a hotel room where the clear, specific intent and purpose was to physically-sexually attack and exploit her.

For Judge Wright's edification, sexual assault and battery is a violation of Arkansas law. But Paula Jones' lawyers don't have to file in the 8th Circuit—they can file the RICO case in any Circuit they choose.

The RICO statute of limitation doesn't apply; Clinton's connecting pattern and custom of abusing his official power in the past to misuse women for sexual exploitation is well established beyond denial. And using government employees (police officers) in a conspiracy of procuring and pimping, followed by the subsequent obstruction of Justice, threats, payoffs, destruction of records and evidence, perjury, James Carville's insane intimidation and sick insults designed to destroy Paula Jones' future life. This is the 'low-life' category to which the Mongol Jews have relegated and consigned all White Christian Americans. And Judge Susan Wright says Paula doesn't have a case!!

Millions of Americans' rights to the 'due process of law' have been snuffed-out in this very manner.

Vehemently and passionately it is hoped that Paula Jones' lawyers choose to fight for her rights and file a RICO lawsuit immediately. This way Jones' lawyers would in effect be fighting and striking a blow for all Americans.

Extremely startling events that involve the very existence and survival of Caucasian Christian Americans are taking place.

President Willie, under the stress of trying to explain the Jonesboro and other school killings of Christian children, let slip his secret knowledge and verified that a 'Dark Force' exists.

Strong threads interlacing, bind these events together in one giant tapestry. Because of the events that have occurred the Mongol Jews can no longer conceal their monstrosity, the 'Dark Force' dedicated implacably to the persecution and the total destruction of Christ's faithful followers.

One of the greatest powers the 'Dark Force' has built up is their overwhelming control of all media. They have the machinery in place to swiftly bury and contain any evidence cropping up and to censor and distort all subsequent reporting to keep Christians in total darkness as to the real truth.

For centuries in this very manner the Mongol Jews have torn up and rewritten the history of the world to fit it in with their imposter conspiracy. The history taught to Christian children in school is nothing more than a Mongol Jew Hollywood script.

Remember the great Mongol Jew Hollywood actor Dustin Hoffman's boast about how Hollywood's Mongol Jews made America and Americans! Now, we are right on the scene, we are going to get a severe lesson in the destruction of the historical truth as rewritten to fit the Mongol Jews' purpose.

Watch as their voracious evil unfolds. Observe these Mongol Jews' operation as they viciously trash and manipulate historical truth under their heel with sabotage, censorship, political chicanery and treachery. Slyly they interfere into every lawful and legitimate, ethical and professional procedure to destroy evidence and facts. They then rewrite the facts to falsely establish the Mongol Jews as Biblical personages (Judean Semites) and use this to build their political and financial colossus to empirical heights.

Their masquerade as Biblical people has been the Mongol Jews' most successful tactic since the century 700 AD when they were first converted to Judaism by the Pharisee priests.

Then in the late seventeen hundreds the Mongol Jews hit upon their biggest success. Their lies and forgeries in the 'revised bibles' they printed up clinched it when they fooled the Christians into believing the blasphemy that Jesus was a Jew and they were 'God's Chosen People'.

At this time we start off with the true facts of a recent event. In the summer of 1996, two years ago, two young men were wandering along the banks of the Columbia River in eastern Washington when they came upon a skeleton. Through analyses and examinations by eminent experts, the remains were found to be 9,300 years old.

The skeleton was given the name, Kennewick Man. I read one of the very first news articles on the subject. Not only was the skeleton found to be 9,300 years old but "experts" tossed in the astounding information that Kennewick Man may be a Caucasian, a White man.

But, there were problems, big problems. I wasn't the only one who had read the original article and understood the real picture of far-reaching legal ramifications rearing its head along the banks of the Columbia River. What if the Indians had no claim or rights to the salmon fishing in the river—the fish belonged to the White man, the real Native American??? What about all the land treaties signed with the Indians???

If this was bad news for the Indians it was horrible news for the Mongol Jews. They had financed all the gambling casinos and hotels with billions of their dollars on reservation land that the Indians didn't even own.

Throughout the counties and cities of every state in America the Mongol Jews have planted their spies. Early every day these spies scan the newspapers, listen to talk shows and attend the Chamber of Commerce and Rotary meetings. Anything even faintly disturbing to the Mongol Jews is immediately faxed back to the ADL in New York where it is analyzed.

Thousands of rabid Jews are stationed at ADL headquarters in New York to receive all this 'intelligence data' pouring in from every nook and cranny in America. The big shot of this evil blackmail operation is a grubby, pot-bellied, miserable, treasonous rabbi named Abraham Foxman. One of the chief ADL spies in the Northwest is an idiot Mongol Jew who calls himself Wassmuth. Like all their area spies, Wassmuth has created myriads of Mongol Jew organizations in his assigned region, Washington and Oregon, to instigate vicious lies and propaganda. Constantly they stir their media and political persecutions of White Christians.

Wassmuth is the chief assistant of California's Mongol Jew Senators Feinstein and Boxer and Oregon's schizophrenic Senator Ron Wyden. Republican Senator Gordon Smith is nothing more than Wyden's flunky and puppet.

When Abie Foxman, ADL's spy chief deluxe received the high priority fax re: 'Kennewick Man' there was frenzy bordering on wild panic at ADL Headquarters. Foxman knew this was dynamite, it had to be defused, squashed, brought under their control immediately. Coded messages were dispatched, burning up the wires to every Mongol Jew Congressman, bureaucrat, news services, TV programmers and editors. Mongol Jew Secretary of Defense William Cohen was put on high alert at the Pentagon and Defense Department. Cohen ordered the Army Corps of Engineers to close down the skeleton's discovery site to archeologists. It could be a burial ground or the site of an old village which would further identify the existence of White people inhabitation of America long before the Indians.

Cohen confiscated and locked up Kennewick Man in a secured vault at Battelle Pacific Northwest National Laboratory where no White archeologists or DNA experts had access.

William Cohen then ordered the Army Corps of Engineers to bury the discovery site with thousands of tons of rock and dirt. This would destroy the site forever, to all future archeological and DNA study and examination.

All media information (after the original article had appeared) now deleted mention of any facts revealing Kennewick Man was possibly Caucasian and that White people may have inhabited America long before the Indians arrived.

The Mongol Jews had tightened up the noose, their propaganda and censor machine was in effect. Washington's U.S. Senator Slade Gorton took legislative steps to preserve the Kennewick Man site for further scientific study but the Army Corps of Engineers charged in to swiftly cover it up. Sen. Gorton was making loud noises about his efforts to preserve the area, quote, "Why the Corps is moving so quickly to cover up this valuable site and arrogantly defy the legislative intentions of the U.S. Senate is beyond my comprehension."

But Gorton is lying—he is aware of the whole story, he well knows the political power and evil of the Mongol Jews. Along with all the other Senators Gorton had wholeheartedly backed his Republican Senator buddy William Cohen's affirmation to the position of Defense Secretary. This was in the face of the Senate's knowledge that Cohen's Mongol Jew machinations went clear back to his and Sen. Arlen Specter's evil involvement in JFK's assassination.

Emotions are running high as Caucasians, 'White people', have filed lawsuits to stop destruction of the site.

Indian groups are demanding the quick covering of the site, but members of a religious group want a complete study of the site and Kennewick Man. Michael T. Clinton, a Portland lawyer, representing a religious group, the Asatru Folk Assembly, stated: "The Corps decision to proceed with the project is outrageous; my clients have no doubt now that the Corps real intention is to destroy the site and bury whatever evidence remains under the shoreline."

The heat generating on Defense Sec. Cohen has gotten so intense that the Mongol Jews are turning the decision of what to do with the skeleton over to the U.S. Dept. of Interior. The Interior Dept. under Bruce Babbitt is in charge of the 1990 Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act (NAGPRA) which has the power to turn the skeleton over to the Indians for burial without any examination.

To reverse and nullify the damage exposed by the original news article the editors (now, in their later articles) slip in misleading sentences such as: “Because the ethnicity of Kennewick Man is unknown we don’t know what his hair is like.”

Along with the religious group’s lawsuit there is a group of eight scientists who sued the Corps for the right to study the skeleton.

The scientists’ lawyer, Alan L. Schneider from Portland said: “Right now we are sort of scratching our heads and wondering what this transfer of authority is going to mean to us in a practical sense; it’s a puzzling move. Just procedurally, what will happen? The last thing we want to do is see this become another excuse for delay. Are we talking about another 18 months with no decision?”

But a coalition of five Northwest tribes welcome the switch to the Dept. of Interior. They want the skeleton turned over to them so they can quickly bury it without further examination.

The anthropologists have radio carbon tests of the skeleton that date back 9,300 years—this age far predates the Native American Indians. It is the oldest, most complete set of human remains ever found in the Northwest.

The NAGPRA Act has no provision that forbids scientific study of human remains to determine whether they are subject to the law or to whom they should go.

Now we begin to get even deeper into the evil machinations of the Mongol Jews to rewrite history. An American Indian, Armand Minthorn, who wants to bury the skeleton immediately, was recently appointed by Interior Secretary Bruce Babbitt to serve a six-year term on the seven-member NAGPRA Review Committee. The trail leads, like all trails do, directly to President Clinton’s door.

Babbitt, Clinton’s appointee, is tied into an enormous criminal investigation of fraud involving large political contributions of money from Indian tribes to the Democratic National Committee. This is for Interior Department approval of large gambling casinos and hotels on Indian land. Behind the scenes, the Mongol Jews finance and control the gambling operations of the Indian casinos all over America. Billions of dollars are involved—and more yet is coming—as gambling in Nevada is being shifted to the new Indian casino/hotel concept.

The Mongol Jews do not like the strict laws and supervision of licenses by the Nevada state government. This is the reason the Mongol Jews are financially backing Aaron Russo for Governor of Nevada. If he won, he would put the final “kibosh” on Nevada’s unions, and employees who are far too highly paid to suit the Mongol Jews.

There is another sinister ramification involving Babbitt’s huge Arizona ranch and government land, ecology and environment. The Interior Department’s Bureau of Indian Affairs is mysteriously missing over 4 billion dollars from Indian trust funds that cannot be documented. And there is another Cohen in the wood-pile. Mongol Jew Edward Cohen, Interior Dept. Deputy Solicitor, is involved in the missing trust funds. He says he is “Out to find out what is missing and pay it.” But Cohen says nothing about exposing who stole the 4 billion dollars. But he goes on to say, “We’ll pay it”—what he means is We the taxpayers will pay it.

There is much more for the White people to seriously worry about concerning the real historical truth ever being written about ‘Kennewick Man’.

U.S. Magistrate John Jelderks, in charge of the lawsuits involving Kennewick Man, is a political appointee, not of Congress but of a single U.S. District Court Judge. And the infamous, treasonous Harry Pregerson is the most powerful Mongol Jew in the corrupt U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals, controlling it for the last 50 years.

Totally, in a criminal violation of U.S. Federal Rules, Senators Slade Gorton, Robert Dole, Jesse Helms, Strom Thurmond, Orrin Hatch, Arlen Specter and the entire U.S. Senate, treasonously, without even the hint of a background check, slickly affirmed Harry Pregerson’s drug-smuggling-kingpin son, Dean, to the U.S. 9th Circuit District Court.

Dean Pregerson was appointed by the two vicious, harpie, Mongol Jew Senators, Dianne Feinstein and Barbara Boxer of California. Boxer’s daughter is married to Hillary’s brother!

The Mongol Jew devilry goes on and on—all the frenzied, fanatic Mexican female lawyers running around screaming Womens Rights and “La Raza—La Raza, the Mexicans own California, Texas, New Mexico and Arizona and we are going to take them back.” Like the Indians, the Mexicans claim ownership because they were here first. They got their law degrees from the taxpayer-owned state colleges through Affirmative Action and are trained in riot and revolution by the Mongol Jews’ so-called American Civil Liberties Union shysters to destruct America’s government.

But to hell with La Raza and the Mongol Jews’ ACLU—the Caucasians, the White people, inhabited America long before anybody ever heard of Mexicans, Latinos or Hispanics.

The Mongol Jews use the Indians the same as they use the Black people and Mexican people. They quickly saw that Indian gambling casinos and hotels were a fantastic money-making bonanza—available in every state in America, they would quickly chop Las Vegas and Reno down to size.

And the Mongol Jews’ corruption would work much easier on Indian land where there was a lack of the county and state regulatory controls like Nevada’s strict laws. They could control all the 50 states’ Indian gambling much easier from their central office in Washington, D.C.

Even the Indians are aware of and admit the infiltration and sabotage of their tribal governments by the Mongol Jews. The sinister, evil murders, mysterious assassinations and replacement of their leaders and officials were merciless. The usurpation of the Indians’ tribal laws and lands had their beginnings at their Cabazon, California reservation.

The Mongol Jew area spies had set into motion a powerful conspiracy to suppress all scientific evidence and truth of the Columbia River skeleton discovery. The Mongol Jews, murderously desperate, are well aware that one White man alone, Kennewick Man, can destroy them.

The importance of the timing and connection of all these monumental events can easily be seen—it is not mere coincidence.

Those powerful lightning bolts striking from the Heavens were foretold in the Miracle of Fatima in 1917, eighty-one years ago. And we will see the great evils the Mongol Jews have exerted to destroy the Truth and rewrite world history so as to perpetuate their insane conspiracy.

In 1917 the Virgin Mary appeared to three shepherd girls near the town of Fatima, Portugal. She told the girls, “I have been sent by God with a message for every man, woman and child living in this century.”

World War I was raging in Europe at this time but Mary’s visit was well before the Bolshevik Revolution and her message foretold the killings of Russia’s Christians before it had started. Mary told the children that heaven would grant peace to all the world if her request for prayers, repentance and consecration were heard and obeyed.

Mary told the children that war is punishment for sin and warned that God would further castigate the world for its disobedience to His will by means of war, hunger and persecution of the Catholic Church, the Pope and Catholic faithful. She went on to say Russia would be God’s Chosen “instrument of chastisement”.

Mary warned the children, “If my requests are not granted, Russia will spread its error (Mongol Jews) throughout the world, raising up wars and persecutions against the Church. The good will be martyred, the Holy Father will suffer much and various nations will be annihilated.”

The Virgin Mary told the children the Secrets of Fatima in three parts—the first two parts could be revealed immediately but the third part must be kept secret until certain things came to pass.

Parts of the message revealed that a great tragedy would befall all mankind in the second half of the 20th Century. Humanity would not progress as God wants it to. Mankind would become sacrilegious and trample underfoot the gifts it has received from God.

The Blessed Virgin specifically warned the Catholics that Satan (Mongol Jews) will succeed in infiltrating the highest positions of the Catholic Church. Cardinals will fight Cardinals and Bishops will fight Bishops. The Church will fall into darkness and the entire world will be plunged into confusion.

The Third Secret was to be revealed in 1960. But for 38 years the Mongol Jew infiltrators (just as Mary said at Fatima) of Catholic hierarchy in Rome have thwarted and sabotaged God’s message to the Faithful.

Because of the Mongol Jews’ evil devilry there is confusion, loss of Faith, serious drop in church attendance and rampant sexual scandals traced to 1960 when the Third Secret was not revealed as requested by God through the Virgin Mary. And to this day the Pope still refuses to reveal the Third Secret to the Faithful because it would expose the Mongol Jews’ conspiracy.

God has sent the world these Miracles, the truth of the genes that expose the true identity of the Mongol Jews for who they really are and from whence they come. (Which is from Russia, just as Mary’s message from God foretold.)

And the miracle of the discovery of Kennewick Man, which reveals that the White man may be the true Native American. And reveals how the Mongol Jews have exploited the American Indians for their own political power and fantastic financial gains they derive from the Indians' gambling and hotels.

The discovery of Kennewick Man, possibly a White man, returns America to the U.S. Constitution, America's Law of the Land.

Above all else at this critical time, all faithful Christians must take absolute heed of and obey God's Word in Acts 17:30-31. God has warned, until now he has overlooked the Christians' ignorance but, if they continue to ignore and sacrilegiously trample his gifts of Truth and Knowledge, God has set a day when he will judge the world with justice.

For Christians to continue to read the evilly blasphemous 'revised bibles' where the Mongol Jews falsely claim they are 'God's Chosen People' and their wicked, contrived 'faith connection' wherein they call the Virgin Mary a whore and Jesus a Jew—is ignorance beyond salvation.

And for those who continue to deny God's Word and ultimately suffer His wrath, there will be no tears shed.

By renouncing ignorance and understanding God's Miracles, his Gifts of Knowledge, there will come an overwhelming resurgence of pride to the White Christians—a tide of revitalization of their belief and confidence in themselves and the knowledge that they have not been left out of God's life because of the Mongol Jews' lies that they are 'God's Chosen People'.

This does not mean that Christians are racial-supremacists, it is only a confirmation of their beliefs that all people who believe in and obey the Word of God are God's Chosen People!

For God said, "This is how we know who the children of God are and who the children of the Devil are; anyone who does not do what is right is not a child of God."

How, for all these centuries could Christians, even in all their ignorance, have possibly believed that the evil, evil Mongol Jews were 'God's Chosen People'??

No wonder that God, even in all His patience, has finally commanded the Christians to repent (change their ways), and He said, "He who is not with Me is against Me."

Now, to give thought to the U.S. Constitution. Many American school children have never even heard George Washington's name mentioned in a school classroom, or been taught that he was General of the American Army during the American Revolution and America's first President.

I quote Washington's speech in 1788, two hundred and ten years ago: "There is more wickedness than ignorance mixed in our counsels. Ignorance and design are difficult to combat. Out of these proceed illiberal sentiments, improper jealousy and a train of evils, which often times in Republican governments must be sorely felt, before they can be removed. [We are not a Democratic government.]

“Ignorance being a fit soil for design to work in, tools are employed which a generous mind would disdain to use; and which nothing but time and their own puerile [indicative of a mental disorder] or wicked productions can show the efficacy and dangerous tendency of. I often think of our own situation and view it with the greatest concern.”

President Washington was looking at all the Mongol Jews swarming like locusts into America; he knew exactly what we were facing.

It is so obvious, glaring like a giant Hollywood moviescreen—a viewing of the Mongol Jews’ wicked lies, their evil rewriting of the world’s history has dumped them into a suicidal pit from which they have no way out.

God’s wrath upon the lying, murderous Mongol Jews has left them standing out in the open, naked—they don’t even have a religion. Everything was a lie. Their contrived ritual of Passover—they had based this on the story of the ancient Israelites delivery from slavery in Egypt. But the Mongol Jews were never even there, they weren’t within thousands of miles of Egypt at that time. They were in Mongolia.

There is total shallowness of their so-called Jewish religious rites.

Their rewriting of the world’s history, with the Mongol Jews wearing weird black coats and hats, running around throwing bread and cake into bonfires set in the streets of Jerusalem, is a reflection of their mentally-disordered writing.

During the weeklong holiday the Mongol Jews don’t eat any yeast products, no beer or bread—this comes from their fabrication, a childish lie that they left Egypt so fast that had no time to let their bread rise. Was everybody making bread at the same time and they had to leave their beer. They had to struggle like the Devil to make a religion out of all this crap.

Jack Sandler, a Mongol Jew from Canada, said he had timed his visit to Israel to be there for Passover. And get this baloney—Sandler says: “This is the source of our identity.” What’s Sandler talking about—his identity, but how could that be—his special colon-cancer genes identify him as a Mongol Jew from Mongolia.

Do all these Mongol Jews believe all of this crap—or do they just go along with it to keep up a false front, a cover? When looked at from the viewpoint of true history it is absolutely amazing how they got this far with it. Simply, it is a combination of the Mongol Jews’ arrogant, brazen pushiness and the Christians’ ignorance.

What the Jews have worked up is just a crude cult under the guise of a religion to cover up their criminal operations of extortion, usury, blackmail, murder and assassination.

The Mongol Jews had cooked up a good story about Israel being their long lost homeland, a scam to steal all the Arab land—and here comes Yom Kippur, the Mongol Jews’ ‘Jewish Day of Atonement’. Yom means day in Hebrew, so again the Mongol Jews get themselves in big trouble with their lies. The imposter

Mongol Jews who claim Israel is their homeland had never learned Hebrew, the language of the Biblical Judeans, until century 700 AD when they were converted to Judaism in Mongolia by a Judean Pharisee Priest.

The Mongol Jews must be returned to Mongolia, their real homeland, their roots. There they can practice all of their Sanhedrins and Kethuboths and any other evil they want, on each other.

Many years ago, the Mongol Jew shysters in the Justice Department, with their political and financial power in our Congress, set up a separate office within the Department—they called it the Office of Special Investigations.

The head Mongol Jew running this Special Office, Neal Sherbinsky, aka Sher, created special laws and judicial precedents whereby he could deport Germans, without a trial, to Germany.

Based on violations of the Germans' original immigration records and documents wherein they had allegedly lied about specific facts they were summarily deported without further legal process.

Every Mongol Jew entering the U.S. since 1917 has perjurously, with a criminal intent to harm America, violated these same Immigration Laws far more blatantly than any German. The so-called Holocaust the Mongol Jews continually whine and scream about can't begin to compare with the heinous, bloody mass slaughter and murder of forty-to-fifty-or-more-million Christians murdered in Russia.

A Memorial Museum for the Christians must be built alongside of every Mongol Jew Holocaust Memorial built in America. The murders of Christians in Russia were committed by Mongol Jews who stole their property and then came to America and filed for citizenship.

Another separate office should be created in the Justice Dept., the Office of Special Investigations to investigate the immigration files of Mongol Jews involved in the Holocaust of Christians in Russia.

Neal Sher, the Head Mongol Jew set up his special agents in Germany who used Interpol to investigate hundreds of thousands of Germans and their relatives who came to America. The same must be done with Interpol in Russia to investigate the records of all the Mongol Jews' families with relatives in America.

A Christian American, a foremost expert on Mongol Jew criminality (such as myself, whose qualifications far surpass those of Sher's) must be appointed to run this Special Office.

The Mongol Jews' evil is the greatest extortion scam ever worked on the world, the worst the world has ever known and suffered. Their monstrous scams such as rewriting the history of the world wherein they forged phony 'revised' Bibles and impersonate and masquerade as Biblical personages and God's Chosen People must be stopped.

It can be stopped only by the Christians renouncing their ignorance and doing what is right—and God said, "He who is not with me is against me."

CHAPTER 11

OVERCOME THOSE FEARS AND HAVE SOME FUN!

5/1/98 VIOLINIO ST. GERMAIN

Good evening, my scribe. It is I, Violinio St. Germain, come as the Cohan (Teacher) of the Violet Ray of transmutation. Be at peace for there is “work” to be done.

Your planet and her population are crying out for change. This call of the heart is ALWAYS responded to by Creator Source. ALWAYS!

Note that I did not say the call from the “mouth”. It is the heart that God listens to— not the irrational thoughts and mouthings of self-proclaimed “righteous” hypocrites whose actions continuously contradict their words. You would each be wise to understand and know the difference, for I witness many who will be reading this and “think” that they are somehow better than their brothers because they have found Truth.

None are “better” than another. If you find Truth and still choose to DO nothing, then your actions would indicate that you are either not in understanding of the Truth, or you are afraid of it.

Do you effort to share what you have found with any and all who will see or hear? Often the excuse is given: “I don’t want others to view me as some sort of ‘new-age’ religious nut” or “I’m too old and nobody will listen” or “I’m too young and nobody will listen” or whatever. My, my, how silly you ones can get when it comes to justifying a “do nothing” position.

On the other hand, there are ones out there who do all that they are asked to do— and more. Many of these quiet and unseen ones make it possible for this type of work to go forth, day to day and week to week.

[Editor’s note: I (E.Y.) want to jump in here briefly and applaud the point Germain just made above. When we asked you for financial help, back in December, to allow the paper to continue, many of you quietly and most generously responded. The humility of the notes which accompanied your financial help spoke loud and clear for a prevailing intention to put ACTIONS well above rhetoric.

All of those funds have been put to very good use, by the way.

The first order of business was to upgrade some of the “machinery” of newspaper production, especially aging computers and related peripherals. For example, after all these years, we finally now have a computer printer which can spit-out the full master pages which, in turn, go to the print shop to produce the newsprint pages you are now reading.

We used to have to “tile” two half-page master sheets together (which is a bit tedious and sometimes tricky) to produce each newspaper-size page. You readers with a sharp eye would have noticed that, in particular, vertical lines, say as part of a boxed-in news item that happens to fall about midway down the page, often took a small but abrupt “jog” to the left or right that gave away the “marrying” point between the pasting together of the two half-sheets of master-page paper. Also, headlines that sit near the middle of a page are not awkward to deal with now; this was a perennial problem with the bottom-most line of a typical Front Page headline.

Also, due to your generosity, we have been able to gift back to you these last several months of large-size papers which have, besides the “usual” unusual material, reprinted what may well be the most important historical investigations about how our world got into its present predicament—material long suppressed since the early 1920s when Henry Ford Senior first had the nerve to share his findings with the American people.

For those of you who have been actually reading and studying these ongoing presentations (rather than just skimming over them), the implications and clues to our present world condition are clear and stark, and would fill volumes of honest historical scholarship if and when such could be conducted.

But—all of these large papers have come with, literally, a hefty price of publication, not to mention many, many extra hours of work on the part of ALL of our tired little staff involved with the production process. Yet it has been worth every bit of the effort and expense, as this information circles the globe, again seeing the Light of day.

However, as a result of this effort, we again find ourselves running out of funds—as can be appreciated from the size of the paper over the last dozen or more issues. We thus humbly ask, again, for your financial help so that other long-suppressed Truth may also pour out upon a thirsting planet. Please help if you can. Time is short. Thanks!]

We of the Hosts of God are grateful for those of you whose ACTIONS are, indeed, consistent with both your heart and your tongue. These sorts of actions taken are what will provide you with the experience necessary in order to help you to help us to provide the answers to all of those heartfelt petitions for assistance.

Suppose you are “nudged” (an inner sensation that seems to be urging you toward an action) to share with another your experience and you simply decide not to do so. Can you see that perhaps you have just limited We of the Hosts from working with and through you? Why do you ones hold back? At the heart of the answer will always be FEAR!

Most often it is a fear of “looking” the fool or “sounding” crazy or some such excuse. We, along with your personal Guides, are always efforting to get you ones to see and confront these seemingly small fears. Why? Because, in confronting and understanding the TRUE cause behind these fears, you will begin to experience greater and greater freedom, knowledge, and understanding of the true potential of YOUR being.

None is greater or lesser than another! You each have the potential to manifest (and radiate outward) the Christ Potential residing within you. It takes determination and a strong desire to face all of the self-imposed limitations (fears) that you hold onto as “absolutes”, though they really have no foundation in truth.

If you believe that no man (or woman) could possibly do the things that Christ (Esu “Jesus” Immanuel) did while incarnate upon your planet, then you have just limited yourself, and subsequently others, by your belief and subsequent thoughts.

If you were to truly look at WHY it is that you believe such a thing, you would, if you are honest with self, find that you have a FEAR that supports the lie. This is to say that, due to an earlier fear, such as a fear of public failure or of personal failing, you ones will subsequently hold to ideas brought forth by others, with like fears, that subsequently absolve you from the responsibility of accepting yourself and your potentials as they truly exist.

Your religions exploit this self-limiting inclination to a most paralyzing extent. They skillfully coerce you to place all important matters into the hands of a “professional” intermediary between you and Source. So much for PERSONAL responsibility!

You each have fears and subsequent erroneous beliefs that limit you in some way. Perhaps our greatest challenge, as Teachers and Guides, is to get you past these fears.

Next to your religious structures, your education system (especially so-called “higher” education) is full of ones who resist change, for if they find new truths and realities, then their self-perceived value is somehow lost. The result is a training of the masses that you should not argue or debate with the “educated” professionals. These “professionals” for the most part are bound by their fears of being somehow WRONG, and thus will effort toward a rigidly unchanging ideology because the embarrassment “suffered” otherwise would be unbearable.

This mindset is passed on from teacher to student, and filters down into society to the point where you have near complete “mind washing” (leading to mind control) of the masses. This is indeed the adversary exploiting the fear “buttons” that YOU create and hold onto. But such a posture cannot be longer sustained these days; the promise God made is that The Truth shall be KNOWN!

There is a great unrest in your world, for ones are sensing the growing desperation of the masses. You see, the inner (Higher Knowing) self of any Lighted being can endure just so much of “the lie” before rebelling. Thus ones all over the globe are becoming more and more restless—as if there is a foreboding feeling of change.

Change IS coming, and ones are being prepared by their Guides so that the experience can be of greatest value to those physically experiencing this change.

We are grateful for those of you who DO follow our “nudges” and take even the smallest of actions. You cannot always know the effect of even something as simple as a smile offered to a stranger. How would you know if that person was just asking God, in desperation, if he or she has any real value?

All you do is smile. But, perhaps that smile changes the life of the “stranger” that you just touched.

YOU are the miracle! If you do nothing, then you will most certainly have lost an opportunity to experience God’s love flowing with and through you.

The physical environment is about taking action. It is always wise to plan out reasonable courses of action, but do not be so rigid as to not allow for spontaneous action guided from the heart. You will find GREAT rewards flowing back to you in like manner. If nothing else, a little spontaneity would certainly cure your boredom! You will never find spontaneous people complaining about a lack of fun and excitement in their lives; that which they send out returns, multiplied, in kind.

All that I am asking is that you each be more open to our subtle attempt to communicate with and through you. Try to not be so inhibited in the spontaneity of life.

This is an important step to take in order to bring about change within self. When you can become an example to others as to the value of allowing Higher Energies to work with and through you, you will have begun the re-education of the masses by setting an example that most will want to follow and emulate.

Your world and your people will not be transformed “overnight”, but the relative rate of change, in terms of your planet’s past evolutionary growth patterns, will be such as to cause society to advance forward “as in the twinkling of an eye”.

Your world is at the brink of a “new” reality. There is fast approaching a time when your world will no longer quibble over such trite subjects as, “Are we alone in the universe?”

Neither you nor any of your species have ever been alone—EVER! Your learned “brothers from afar” will be openly announcing their presence to your world, and along with their announcement will eventually come an acceptance of who they are, and their TRUE knowledge will be shared with you who are of Godly intent.

There will be the recognition of their Higher understanding, and this will also put an end to many religious and social debates, for these ones have integrated science and spiritual philosophy to the point that they are actually one and the same. Remember we have often stated, in these lessons, that God’s thinking is simple—not simplistic, but simple—and this is contradictory to the often bewilderingly complex explanations of your so-called “learned” professional theologians and scientists.

There will be a brief time of confusion as ones effort to come to grips with the “lies” that they have not only held onto, but have actually worshiped. Some will literally, physically, succumb to their fears; others will fight to hold-on to the past. But most of you who are inclined to read and resonate with this type of message will actually welcome the “relief” and embrace the exhilaration that comes from the resolution of longstanding riddles.

So much of your TRUE planetary history and culture has been hidden from you-the-people by the dark-intentioned, so-called “elite” would-be controllers, that these revelations alone will cause most all of you some degree of surprise—one way or the other!

While the charge of positive emotional energy will be growing, there will also be a great shifting of the “tensions” of the planet. However, there will also be a step-up of manmade tamperings to try to get you ones convinced that these planetary “visitors” mean you-the-people harm. The desperate “elite” controllers, who have been your behind-the-scenes masters for so long now, do not wish to give up their control and perceived positions of power. They are, and will become, more and more determined to hold onto their “reality”, especially as they have trained you-the-masses to believe.

Eventually, after great “catastrophe”, these manipulators will only succeed at exposing themselves for who they really are. (They know—but always try to deny—that God wins in the end.) After this “awakening” to Truth, the world will hold these dark ones accountable for their crimes against humanity and they will be removed from any position through which they could further hurt themselves or others.

You can best prepare for what is coming by learning to recognize and utilize ALL of the natural Inner Resources available to you. Seek first knowledge and understanding. Allow for the experiences to manifest around you that will serve as clues that you are on the right path. This can be a most fun experience if you allow for the surprises along the way and respond spontaneously.

When you find yourself frightened or in doubt, ask inwardly for Guidance, calm the fear by asking for the protective White Light (the sum total of all the spectral rays—The Light of God) to surround you, and bring self back into a balanced state of reasoning and inner peace.

MOST IMPORTANTLY: allow the experience to serve as a notice to you that you have a challenge that needs to be faced. This is to say that you would be wise to find the cause of your fear and to understand the effects it has upon you. In doing so, you will be clearing the mental and emotional “garbage” from your mental and emotional energy fields. This, in turn, will lead to a higher-frequency state of operation for you, and thus a greater ability to connect with Higher Source and to progress more fluently along the immensely rewarding path of inner growth.

We (your personal Guides and we of the Hosts of God) will assist those who petition honestly with the heart and whose actions reflect the heart. Always remember: the (honest) call compels the answer!

If it appears that you are not getting the “help” you want, then it would be wise to evaluate for yourself your inner world and that which you “think” versus that which you feel. Inner anxiety signifies a conflict between your Higher Knowing self and the ego (reactionary survival) self.

Give no power to the ego, and your conflict will subside. From that point of strength-in-peace, you will know a greater clarity from which to evaluate what is appropriate for self.

You never walk alone along the many pathways of life (Light). If you perceive that you are alone, then it is by YOUR choice that you have ignored your inner connection to everything, everywhere.

Accept who you are and accept the responsibility of maintaining a conscious connection to your Higher Guidance. Together we (both you in the physical, and we in the nonphysical) can create the “miracles” that will transform you and your world into the radiant beacon that she and you are destined to be.

I am Violinio St. Germain—Teacher, Guide, and Elder Brother, in service to OUR Creator that I may have the opportunity to bring forth a portion of His Light (Love) through to your world that cries out for answers.

May you hear those answers when they are given. And may you act upon them, not from a state of fear, but from a state of KNOWING who you really are.

This is where the fun begins! Salu.

CHAPTER 12

DAVID ICKE'S BRUSH WITH THE ADVERSARY TURNING LEMONS INTO LEMONADE

by Rick Martin 5/4/98

[Four inserts are at end of chapter.]

An aggressive move was mounted by local adversarial influences in Canada's British Columbia recently in an effort to thwart David Icke's lecture in Vernon, B.C., a town about 250 miles inland (east) from Vancouver Island. But those efforts were soundly overcome by meeting the opposition head-on and countering every lie with truth. In what amounted to media hoopla over several days, press, radio, and television all became involved in the controversy.

It all started when Bob Sindlinger, general manager for the Best Western Vernon Lodge and Conference Centre, cancelled the meeting scheduled for Saturday, May 2nd. Quoting from Mr. Sindlinger's letter to Wes Mann of the Preferred Network, sponsor for David Icke, we read:

"In the past two days I have received a few phone calls expressing concern over the meeting you have scheduled here for May 2. These calls have voiced concern over your guest speaker and have implied that there will be a public protest, possible civil unrest and the potential for violence. In view of these implications, and in the best interest of the safety of our guests and staff, I have little choice but to cancel your meeting here at the Vernon Lodge." (Office number: 250-545-3385).

The change of venue caused real concern for Wes Mann, and a last-minute scramble to relocate the event. This was a matter of no small concern and one which will very possibly result in legal action against the Vernon Lodge.

As it turns out, the primary owner of the Vernon Lodge is Jimmy Pattison, one of British Columbia's wealthiest citizens. In the past, Pattison has personally sponsored such speakers as forever president George Bush and Brian Mulroney, former Canadian Prime Minister.

The pressure on Mr. Sindlinger to cancel the scheduled event originated from one David Lethbridge, a teacher of psychology at Okanagan College in Salmon Arm, British Columbia, about 30 miles north of Vernon.

THE STRANGE CASE OF DAVID LETHBRIDGE

In a document off the Internet from the Canadian Association for Free Expression, we read the following, titled "The Strange Case of David Lethbridge". [Quoting:]

David Lethbridge teaches psychology at Okanagan College in Salmon Arm. He is also a member of the Communist Party of Canada and a frequent contributor to People's Voice, the monthly organ of that miniscule party. As free speakers, we say that's his right as long as he does it on his own time and doesn't use the classroom as a platform. We in the populist movement call him Professor Bare Bum, after a bizarre stunt he pulled in May 1992, when he led a group of rowdies who tried to shut down a meeting of the Canadian League of Rights. The rowdies shoved old people and vandalized a car. Lethbridge, in highly intellectual diction, called the people at the meeting "filthy, f*ck*ng fascists." (Web of Hate, p. 61.) In frustration at not being able to prevent the meeting, Lethbridge dropped his pants and "mooned" those going into the meeting.

Being a supporter of communism is a little odd for an intellectual. He must know that this evil system of repression has on its hands the cruel deaths by starvation, torture or just plain shooting of close to 100 million human beings in this century. The carnage caused by communism makes Hitler look like small potatoes. Stalin induced a famine to break the resistance of the Ukrainian farmers who refused to give up their land. He deliberately starved 8-to-10 million Ukrainians to death and shipped food away from the dying who might have been saved. Mao's "great leap forward" cost the lives of 30 million Chinese.

Supporting communism is as intellectually bankrupt as being a member of the Clifford Olsen Fan Club. We have no problem with Lethbridge being a communist, a member of the Flat Earth Society or a member of the Hitler Was My Hero Circle. We do, however, wonder about his role as the Censor of the Okanagan. Over the past few years, Lethbridge has given himself the task of trying to deny others the right to meet and to exchange views. If he thinks you're a fascist—of course, in communist ideology a "fascist" is anyone who opposes communist dictatorship—he'll try to shut you down. In March 1996, he and a taxpayer-supported professional anti-racist Alan Dutton of Vancouver pressured a Surrey hotel into cancelling the Second Canadian Free Speech Conference. Closed-minded Communists don't like free speech. Lethbridge has also sent out smear sheets to intimidate hotels to cancel meetings in both Alberta and B.C. of the Third Option for National Unity Committee, a group dedicated to grassroots democracy and constitutional reform.

Last June, he went to Toronto to attend a conference sponsored by ARA—Anti-Racists Action. The Canadian Security Intelligence Service (CSIS) described ARA as "a collection of anarchists, Trotskyists, Stalinists" and indicated that they were responsible for acts of arson against their political opponents. They have been banned from school property by a number of Ontario boards of education as a "hate group". Yet, Lethbridge threw in his lot with this band of street thugs and terrorists.

More recently Lethbridge has been crowing about getting our director, Paul Fromm, fired from his Ontario teaching position because of his political views. "There was a lot of work done for quite some time to have this man fired from his teaching position," Lethbridge boasted to the Shuswap Sun (March 13, 1997).

Lethbridge is free to hold whatever views he chooses. However, this freedom must be balanced by a respect for the rights of others to hold and express contrary views. It's time to reign in the Censor of the Okanagan. [End quoting from the Canadian Association for Free Expression.] [See additional insert by the Canadian Association for Free Expression concerning David Lethbridge.]

Lethbridge, according to Wes Mann, showed up around the same time that Eustace Mullins was to speak in that region some years ago. The obvious link to the Anti-Defamation League terrorist arm of the Zionist B'nai B'rith organization is apparent to all.

In a letter to the Best Western Vernon Lodge Board of Directors from the Canadian Institute for Political Integrity (CIPI), we read: [quoting]

Increasingly it is becoming evident that Freemasons in British Columbia fear that Canadians will hear the truth about their plan to divert fresh water from BC (Grand Canal) to Maurice Strong's ranch in Colorado.

The most recent incident is the unilateral cancellation of a contract signed between the Best Western Vernon Lodge and Conference Centre and Preferred Network's Wes Mann, to supply a meeting room for a conference to be held by British author David Icke. Icke addresses the problem of Freemasonry's involvement in the promotion of their 10,000-year-old New World Order (NWO). NWO is the Fourth Reich of the rich. Recently, Freemasons such as David Lethbridge, the moonie who sucks at the public trough, have undertaken to prevent any opinion contrary to NWO ambitions from being communicated to the naive Canadian public. Anytime, when a dissenting view might be heard, someone, such as the ancient Son of Legacy's David Lethbridge, calls upon the owners of the potential meeting room to tell them that Freemasonry's headquarters has ordered that they not allow the political dissenters to hold their meeting.

Once hotel managers make their objections public, with the assistance of other Freemasons in the media, the sponsors of the public information meeting are demonized. Then, the Attorney General also jumps into the fray to threaten independent Canadians with new, tougher, "Hate Laws". Of course, when one dares suggest that such HATE investigations be immediately commenced against Freemasons in government, the military, police and media, the response is always "this was not the intent of parliament when they passed these hate laws." Well, of course, dummies, don't expect the legislators to pass laws to prevent their own criminal activity. Brian Mulroney, with the help of politicians, the RCMP [Royal Canadian Mounted Police], media and the judicial system will manage to steal millions from us and he's been out of political power for years.

It is the view of CIPI that, until critical mass is assembled in Ottawa, on July 1, 2000, our only remaining option at the present time is to take names and not to support financially those businesses who choose to play these games for Freemasonry. Until such time as CIPI receives a written apology for the recent actions of the Best Western Vernon Lodge, we will not make use of their establishments anywhere in North America. Also, because their letterhead includes the symbols of RAMADA, Sands, and Lakeside resorts, we will suggest to our 3,000+ supporters across the country that they not use these other facilities as well.

There always are two sides on both sides of every story.

[End quoting, signed: Glen Kealey, Chairman and Founder, Canadian Institute for Political Integrity.]

As it turns out, the Vernon lecture was held at an alternative location, Schubert Centre. And the Vancouver, B.C., talk by David Icke (a few days later) was an overwhelming success, with some 650 in attendance. Quite a crowd.

Meanwhile as radio, newspaper, and television stories whirled around the Vernon, B.C. event, Lethbridge was busy stirring the pot and generating tremendous "negative" publicity for David's talk. Wes Mann, busy countering every mis-spoken word by Lethbridge, managed to glean substantial publicity for the event that would have otherwise gone relatively unnoticed. And when an event raises the curiosity of people, then the intended thwarting backfires.

At the David Icke presentation, Steve Heeren was the primary agent provocateur sent in to distract and disrupt. Heeren did not prevail in his efforts, however, and was escorted from the premises, off the parking lot and onto the street with the help of David Icke's body guard (a former policeman hired by Wes Mann) and with the aid of local police. [For additional information about Steve Heeren, see insert titled "David Icke's Lecture".]

Wes Mann was energetic in his enthusiasm for the support his organization received from a wide variety of freedom-loving people and other organizations throughout British Columbia. Wes informed me that the hotel received upwards of 150 calls in support of the event that had been banned from their premises at the last minute.

One supporter of the David Icke event described Lethbridge as a "loud-mouthed, ADL plant; a slimy little puke." Wes responded, "In the end, we made them eat crow."

The net result of all the publicity for the Icke talk was that, instead of 150 anticipated attendees, there were over 300 at the Vernon lecture. It was an exceptionally successful event, with a standing ovation for David Icke. Subsequent talks by Icke in the general Vancouver area have also met with astounding attendance, no doubt due to all the publicity and a public that is becoming not just more aware of adversarial antics, but more determined to put a stop to them by becoming informed.

When asked about Vernon Lodge manager Sindlinger, Wes just laughed and replied, "I guess I'm not on Sindlinger's List."

SERAPIS BEY: HARSH TIMES AHEAD INDUCE MUCH NEEDED GROWTH

5/10/98 SERAPIS BEY

Greetings, old friend. It is I, Serapis Bey, come at this time as a Messenger of Light so that God's promise to your world will be fulfilled and recognized by those who care to see and hear.

Yes, I come in the Light. Thank you for asking for clarification! Often the dark ones will indeed attempt to influence and trick you. You can never be too careful or too cautious—NEVER! This is a time when the adversary plays his tricks most skillfully and many are being deceived who think they are “above” such trickery.

I am asked to speak at this time about the need for a clear mental focus concerning the upcoming times on your planet. Your world will soon be faced with the manifestation of great change. The cycle has reached a point where there is no turning back to a less abrupt or less physically “harsh” solution.

The Universal Laws of Cause and Effect will implement that which is necessary for balance. These Laws are divine guidelines that govern all of Creator's manifest creations. They are the epitome of responsibility and ethics. They are perfectly balanced in reason and simplicity.

This divine intervention, on behalf of all life everywhere, is what allows for events that will seem to be unjust to those who have not yet awakened enough to realize that they are part of an Infinite Whole that is the essence of Life. These seemingly devastating events are dictated by the actions (or INactions) of your planetary society as a whole.

Let not the word “actions” be limited to physical actions, but allow it to include the non-physical actions taken (or not taken) in mental space. There are many out there who dabble in manipulating others on astral planes, emotional planes, and etheric planes. Many would call this “witchcraft” or “spiritual warfare”. Most are unaware of the impact they have on the state of their environment when they spend any amount of time wishing another harm.

You are directly affecting the entirety of humanity by your thoughts alone! There is great wisdom in taking deliberate responsibility for the thoughts that you think and dwell upon.

This leads back to the subject of adversarial control of your world. Why is it that your news media must continually bring you the most horrific events that have happened on any particular day?

From the purely material point of view, these negative, high-anxiety events are what keep you-the-people tuned-in, and that sells advertising. BUT, from a less noticed point of view, the negative emotional thoughts that you ones are caused to experience, as a result of YOUR choice to “tune-in” in the first place, contribute to the overall negative “charge” of the planetary consciousness. (And this is as calculated a reason for the presentation of negative events before your eyes and ears as is the money to be made.)

This charge is what manifests in the physical as dis-ease. Both the inhabitants and the planet herself are experiencing many effects of this negativity. The dark ones who control your planet utilize this “web of negativity” to maintain a fear-based control over you.

However, you, as one of the planet’s sentient inhabitants, are as much responsible for allowing this condition to persist and grow as is any other. You would each be wise to monitor that to which you mentally and emotionally subject yourselves (and thus multiply) on a regular basis. Furthermore, note the addictive nature of the “news” you are fed by the media. This is another way of saying that it takes conscious diligence on your part to supervise what is allowed to impact you.

Understand that you are MUCH more than a physical being, and even if you cannot perceive consciously the non-physical aspects of yourself or your environment, it does not mean that you are not responsible for that which you set in motion.

God does make allowance for genuine ignorance, and it will be out of ignorance that ones will say such things as: “God has punished us.” NO, God does not punish!

What you ones will be experiencing is the sum total of all of the negativity that has been allowed to grow and fester. It is all of these “un-checked” thoughts that have created the conditions which now exist, and the Universal Laws of Cause and Effect dictate that when you stretch a rubber band to the point of breaking (because you did not recognize, in wisdom, the limitations of the rubber band), it will likely sting a bit in its recoil against your hand.

Your world is at the breaking point on many fronts, and the recoil will be quite devastating to those of you who are not prepared. For those of you who think that you are prepared, I say to you now that your confidence will (for most of you) be the blind spot that will shatter your reality as you now know it.

I am saying that you would be wise to develop a flexibility of mental preparation that allows for unforeseen extremes. In doing so, you will naturally realize that you cannot possibly prepare for every last possible outcome.

This is where that all-important Inner Guidance comes into play.

For instance, those of you in the warmer climates would not likely think that you would need heavy snow gear and such. There will be changes on all levels, and the global weather patterns will continue to become more and more erratic, both due to man’s tampering and due to planetary re-balancing.

This is just one specific example of the interplay of variables which are indeed great in number, and you will have no conscious way to accurately predict exactly how each variable will impact you in the physical space, let alone in the mental and emotional spaces of your reality.

There shall come, as a result of these life-disrupting changes, a resurgence of spiritual connect- edness. This is mostly due to the fact that, while the physical, emotional, and mental planes of reality are being assaulted, the spiritual plane will be stable and calm. Ones will gravitate to- wards this calming aspect of their being and draw strength from the connection.

Within this connection will come the Guidance and answers that ones will be seeking. It could be said that the reward for having gone through these challenging times will be a greater under- standing of self and the true nature of your being.

You Lighted ones are, from the spiritual plane, anticipating these coming events with excite- ment, for there will be great strides made in the overall advancement of both the individual and collective consciousness. It is the very physical, ego-based, reactionary being who associates fear with the coming physical reality—NOT the Higher Knowing (Infinite) being.

We of the Hosts of God have always stressed the importance for each of you to learn NOW to connect consciously within to this spiritual plane of interconnectedness. This takes mental and emotional discipline and determination to find, and once you “find” this connection within, you will wonder how you ever could have missed it. The elusiveness only comes from your own inner beliefs regarding this subject and your sense of self.

This connection is perhaps the greatest tool you can cultivate and learn to use in preparation for the challenges that are coming. The key to finding this connection comes in ALLOWING the connection. You must allow the connection to be felt. You cannot force it, for the frequency generated from the idea(s) of force will only serve to constrict the natural flow.

There is no magic or mysticism associated with this flow. Just as you each breathe, you must allow the air to both enter and exit in order to take-in and re-give, and thus complete the cycle. If you effort towards only taking-in, then you will end up stopping the flow. Likewise, if you only effort towards exhaling (giving) without recharge, you will also stop the flow.

Effort toward balance and you will increase your capacity to both give and receive. Allow for the Guidance to enter into your mind, and when you use this Guidance you will be re-giving to the world—thus making it possible for the next step forward in your own growth as a being.

Again, as you grow, your capacity to “flow energy” will also grow. There is infinite potential to flow energy. As one flows energy, there is a multiplication of the energy, and thus a greater and greater abundance awaiting you all.

Please allow for the greater message here to be truly heard with the heart! This message is meant to trigger within you a sense of knowing and a sense of truth.

I am Serapis Bey. I represent the Ray of Purity. My energy represents the balance between the lower physical self and the Higher Spiritual Self (the yin and the yang). I come in service to The One Light Source so that Creator’s will be done!
